Offered by Lebrun-Renault For Not Relating Dreyfus' "Confession."

Prisoner Says His Wife Saved Him From Suicide.

Strain of Day's Proceedings Too Much For Him and He Breaks Down.

Rennes, Sept. 1 .- When the courtmartial of Captain Dreyfus was resumed this morning Major Dubreuil took the stand. On Aug. 23, Major Dubreuil told tioned in connection with the French a story of Dreyfus meeting a German war office merchandise shipped to the attache at the house of one Bodson. The above address via Belgium and London. cross-examination of Dubreuil reflected severely on his reputation, and today he produced documents to show that he was an honorable man.

A witness named Germain then de-A witness named Germain then de-posed to seeing Dreyfus at the German was unknown at the German secret maneuvers in Alsace. Colonel Jouaust, president of the court, questioned Dreyfus upon this testimony. The general effect of the testimony was rather unfavorable to Dreyfus.

Captain Lebrun-Renault and the supporters of his assertion of the Dreyfus confession had an inning lasting nearly the entire session. Their depositions contained little but what had already been stated before the court of cassathe new assertion that the fact that he had not related the incident of the alleged confession to President Casimir-Perier was because he overheard him-self called "canaille," "cur" and "traitor" while waiting at the Elysee. He, however, could not explain why he kept this to himself for so long a time instead of recounting the incident before the court function or a private dinner party. The of cassation. Nor did his explanation as French spies were always on the alert to why he destroyed the page of his note book containing the record of Dreyfus' confession sound very convincing.

The other witnesses were a repetition of Captain Lebrun-Renault. But a very significant question was put to Colonel Guerin by a member of the court, Lieutenant Colonel Brongniart, who sits at Colonel Jouaust's right hand and always puts pointed questions. He has thorreputed to be one of the best authorities on the case. It is certain Colonel Jouaust consults him frequently during the proceedings. Brongniart is said to be a rabid anti-Dreyfusard, and he yesterday, in a quiet tone, asked Colonel Guerin if he thought M. Weyl, who is a friend of Esterhazy, also knew Dreyfus. The latter at once arose and declared he had written to Colonel Jouaust, as announced, and has undoubtedly menfus. This is the person referred to in a important documents were concealed, previous dispatch as "V," a mistake for and they were then sent first to a village tween Dreyfus and Weyl, and Esterhazy admits obtaining treasonable information from Weyl, then he could assume Dreyfus was a traitor. The generals, if sufficient evidence of a Dreyfusduced, can abandon the contention that Dreyfus wrote the bordereau and admit Esterhazy is the author of it. This is, possibly, the change of tactics on the part of the generals which has been hinted at recently.

Dreyfus went through another crisis yesterday, when, after Captain Lebrun-Renault and witness after witness had brought up before him again that cold January morning which ushered in the scene of his degradation, Major Forzinetti told, in simple words and unaffected manner, the story of Dreyfus' struggle with the maddening temptation to take his life and the intervention of his wife, pointing out the road of duty. Then again the prisoner's breast heaved with emotion and tear drops trickled down his cheeks. He rose and, after a forced effort to remain calm, as he spoke a few words concerning his denial to De Clam that he wrote the bordereau, he turned to Forzinetti with a look of thanks for his consolation, and said:

"There is a matter which Major Forzinetti has just recalled, which has greatly moved me, and which I wish to recall, for I wish to say to whom I owe the fact 10 cents. that I have done my duty and to whom Fiske, a Palmer, Mass., banker, last I owe having done it for five years, after evening married Mrs. Melissa I. Petty, a my condemnation. I had determined to rich Muncie widow. They had not met kill myself. I had made up my mind previous to last Wednesday, but had not to undergo the frightful torture of a carried on a correspondence. soldier from whom they wished to tear the insignia of honor. Well, then, let me say this: That, if I went to that torture, I can say here that it was thanks to Mme. Dreyfus, who showed me my duty, and who told me that if I was innocent I ught to go to it for the sake of her and her children. If I am here, it is to her I owe it, my colonel."

Here Major Forzinetti said: "It is quite true. In his last interview with his wife, Dreyfus said: "For her and for my children I will undergo the torture

The declaration of Dreyfus that his ife was due to his wife deeply stirred all his hearers. He spoke in a broken woice, with emphatic gestures, swaying to and fro with emotion, and when he had finished he sat down abruptly, evidently to conceal his discomposed features from the gaze of the spectators in court, who, when he is seated, are only able to see the back of his seat. Tears were glistening in his eyes, and he was clearly suppressing an outburst of sob-

Purporting to Give Inner Secrets Which Will Throw Light on Dreyfus Case.

Atlanta, Sept. 1 .- The Jewish Senti-Dreyfus trial. Several statements, apparently new, are given, together with names of those who are said to be in possession of information which will throw new light on the trial. For the first time, it is believed, the mode of carrying the documents from the French war office to the German government i given. It shows that dolls were used as the means of conveyance, and that the papers went first to England and thence to Germany. The identity of the "veiled lady" is also made known.

The story which The Sentiment prints comes from a man who was employed several years ago by the German gov ernment as a document translater and maker of relief maps and who, after quitting Germany, served in the United States army during the war with Spain. He shows his discharge papers, which denote that he was a staff officer. The informer says he was born in Denver. He tells the following story:

"I was translater of documents at the great staff headquarters at Berlin. I never heard the name of Dreyfus men-"I translated the information regarding gun No. 120. The original documen never left the French war office, and the copy could only have been given out through the direct agency or connivservice bureau from 1890 to 1894. The plans, specifications and details of gun 120, of the Robin shell and of the French war vessels Jauroguiberry, Charles Martel and Iazar Carnot, together with the plans for mobilization, were purchased through Germany's embassy in Paris, presided over by Prince Hans Heinrich Pless, and as much as $16,000 American money was paid for the merchandise. These payments were made in two parts through Mr. Franz, a doll manufacturer of Sonneberg, Germany, and Alvin Captain Lebrun-Renault introduced Floorschurez, banker director of Sonneberg. The medium of women was employed in transacting the 'business.' "I met Count Esterhazy several time at dinners given by Baroness de Delden, Esterhazy's sweetheart. He furnished much of the information. These documents were never received at the embassy-always at a church, a public and only through such means could their watchfulness be circumvented.

"The last incident I recall, which bears on the traffic in this French war office merchandise, was Captain Siegel's insisting upon his agents no longer communicating with him direct and emphatically instructing them to address him through Mr. Franz in Sonneberg. This order was prompted by the inoughly studied the Dreyfus case and is creased watchfulness of the French government spies. "Baroness de Delden is the party referred to in the Dreyfus trial as the 'veiled lady,' She receives from Prince Pless a regular pension. Every six the revolution. "You see, madam, Ivory Soap is really the most economical. The cake is so large that it easily divides into two cakes of the ordinary size. There is twice as much soap as you get in the usual cake of toilet soap. Then it is very economical in use, for although it lathers quickly, it is always firm and hard, even in hot water. As it floats, you can not lose it or leave it to waste in the bowl. We sell it to all of our best trade for general use."

Important Advice.

It is surprising how many people wake up in the morning near ly as tired as when they went to bed, a disagreeable taste in their mouth, the lips sticky, and the breath offensive, with a coated tongue. These are nature's first warnings of Dyspepsia and Liver Discrders, but if the U.S. Army & Navy Tablets are resorted to at this stage they will restore the system to a healthy condition. A few doses will do more for a weak or sour stomach and Constipation than a prolonged course of any other

London, Sept. 1.—The Daily Chronicle Griffith, p...... 3 publishes the following from Cape Town: It is rumored here that Sir Alfred Milner, governor of the Cape Colony, contemplates dismissing the Scheiner ministry under his special powers. If he Long, s. s 4 does, it is feared that a rebellion will break out, as the Dutch would believe that Great Britain is again forcing Cecil Rhodes to the front.

The rumor that the Schreiner cabinet would be dismissed caused an unusual episode in the house of assembly. Mr. Rhodes asked for a speedy passage of the estimates, in order to enable him to go to Rhodesia. The other leaders of the opposition supported the demand, Two-base hit—Stahl. Result of Family Feud. Houlton, Me., Sept. 1.-A message received by County Attorney Shaw from Sheridan plantation, a small hamlet in North Ashland, states that Oliver Oakes was shot and killed by his father as the result of a family quarrel of long standing. The Sheridan plantation was settled years ago by two families, one named Oakes and the other York. These families intermarried with scarcely an exception, and within the last few years family quarrels led up to a feud, in which the two families were about evenly divided. At this time it is not known just what precipitated the bloodshed.

Two Children Drowned.

Milford, Conn., Sept. 1.-Ethel Mc-Cauley, aged 8, and Ethel Rankin, aged 5, were drowned yesterday, and Daisy Taylor, 5 years old, was rescued as she was going down the third time. The children had been playing on a sandbar at low tide, about a half mile from the shore, but when they found the bar surrounded they started back and got beyond their depth. There were a number of people on the shore, but no attention was paid to the children until the outcries of the Taylor child were heard.

Two Serious Bullet Wounds.

Norway, Me., Sept. 1.-Miss Martha L. Lovejoy was shot at Paris yesterday, and she may not recover. According to the story told by Mrs. Washington, the mother of the unfortunate woman they were out in a pasture, when Danin the seventh inning, and by the timely | iel J. Gammon came out of the woods nearby and urged Miss Lovejoy to go for a ride. Upon her decided refusal, he drew a revolver, and, Mrs. Washington says, deliberately fired at her daughter. The bullet entered her left cheek. She fell upon her face, and as her mother took hold of the man's arm, to prevent his firing again, he tore his arm from her prasp and shot the prostrate woman again in the back of the neck.

Big Monopoly In Coal.

Cleveland, Sept. 1 .- The Pittsburg railroad and coal mine combination has been formed. The new corporation is the Pittsburg Coal company, and its capital stock is $64,000,000. It has practically absolute control of the docks and coal loading plants of the Great Lakes, and has a monopoly on all the outlet to the coal markets of the east, west and northwest. There is an understanding between this combine and the combine of the river coal interests of the Pittsburg district, so that neither will encroach upon the territory of the other, thus putting the Pittsburg district, with its output of 22,918,804 tons of coal last year, in the hands of two great concerns.

An Accomplished Fact.

New York, Sept. 1.-The American Bicycle company completed its permanent organization by the election of the following officers: Albert G. Spalding, president: George Pope, first vice president; J. E. Bromley, second vice president; A. L. Garford, treasurer; C. W. Dickerson, secretary. For the purchase of the various plants there will be issued $10,000,000 5 percent, 20-year-old debenture bonds; $10,000,000 7 percent preferred stock and $20,000,000 common stock, leaving in the treasury ample means for the purchase of such additional plants as may be desirable and for the extension of the business, especially in foreign countries.

Rvan Defeats M. ffat.

Dubuque, Ia., Sept. 1.-Tommy Ryan was given the decision over Jack Moffatt at the end of a 20-round bout here last night. Ryan had his opponent going in the 13th round and could have easily put him out. He let down, however, and made no attempt to end the fight. Ryan did not show a mark, while Moffatt's neck and mouth bled freely and his breast and neck were well skinned from the constant jabbing he received. The 6000 spectators were disgusted because Ryan did not extend himself.

In Favor of Defendants. New York, Sept. 1 .- Justice Bookstaver, in the supreme court yesterday, handed down a decision in which he gave judgment for the defendants in the two actions brought by the Colonial Dames of America against the Colonial Dames of the state of New York and the National Society of the Colonial Dames of America to enjoin the defendants from using the names by which they are known. Justice Bookstaver decides that the defendant associations have a right to use the names.

Shamrock's Sail a Beauty.

New York, Sept. 1.—For just 15 min-utes the yacht Shamrock had her mainsail set yesterday. The sail is a beauty, with its cloths running the regular wayfrom head to foot-and a high peak to it. But the sail, as a whole, looks smaller than the Columbia's. It remained up just long enough to Hogarth that it needed no alterations It will not be hoisted again, according to David Barrie, Mr. Lipton's representative, until the arrival of Will Fife, the yacht's designer.

Morgan Changes About.

Birmingham, Ala., Sept. 1.—United States Senator John T. Morgan, who declared some time ago against Bryan's nomination, and John W. Tomlinson, Bryan's lieutenant in this state, spoke at Maplesville, the former for and the latter against expansion. Morgan said that Bryan was the only logical nominee of the Democratic party in 1900.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

Lieutenant Colonel George Lorenzo Meeker, who served in the Sixth Connecticut volunteers throughout the Civil war, died at New York, aged 84. Mrs. Annie Kline Rikert, president of the Stockton and Tuolumne railway, the only woman railway president in the United States, has been committed to the San Francisco jail for five days for contempt of court by Judge Troutt. The contempt consisted in refusing to allow the company's books to be produced in court in a suit against the company. The Hungarian ministry of agriculture has just issued its annual estimates of the world's harvest. This points to a considerable deficiency.

The discovery of a shorter route between Manila and the United States has had rather a depressing effect upon some of the troops, as it reduces their travel pay. The old route was 8050 miles, but of late the transports cut off the 700 miles required by touching at Honolulu.

Samuel Merrill, ex-governor of Iowa, died as the result of a paralytic stroke. At a fire which partially burned the house of Timothy Kelleher at Keene, N. H., Kelleher was overcome with smoke. The chances are not good for his recov-Daniel Maynadier Henry died at his Fort Bayard, N. M., for consumptives of Captain Vignal, the military attache of the French embassy, has been instructed to make an investigation of the plans of our army transports with a view of improving the French transport system.

Matthew Leonard of Hartford, aged 50, ommitted suicide by jumping from the lower deck of the steamer Middletown into the Connecticut river. Leonard's wife died a few months ago, and since then he has been despondent.

Commissioner General Powderly of the immigration bureau has issued an order allowing 66 to the 68 Filipinos, recently arrived at San Francisco, to be landed on the acceptance of a bond of $5000 in each case, conditioned upon their not becoming a public charge.

The Mountain Trip.

Last Saturday, Mr. Luther S. Anderson of Quincy, took a party of young people on a pleasure trip over the Quincy Quarry Railroad. They were taken up the three miles on an open freight car and returned in a small gravity car built expressly for excursion parties.

The trip we are told is a most interesting one, giving one an opportunity to see a part of the extensive and famous Quincy quarries. A fine view is also obtained of the surrounding country for the elevation is one of the highest in this section.

In the party were: Miss Miriam secured a pleasant House in Abington Mrs. Fred S. Crowell and the Misses Margery White, Miss Edna Goullaud, Lane, Miss Georgiana Lane, Miss Atherton Hunt, Mr. E. W. Hobart, Mr. R. E. Belcher, Mr. Bert Wilde and Mr. Fred Howe.

A Japanese Boy Who Was Wrongfully Disgraced—The Stigma Was Erased In Battle.

Shall I tell you the story of little Kame? It is a name to be spoken with reverence.

Kame was the son of Nori-san, one of the no caste, which indicates a tiller of the soil. He lived near the village of Kioto. His home was one of many comforts for a farmer whose chief source of revenue is a ricefield, a small grove of mulberry trees and an orange orchard.

Kame was the youngest of five. It was his duty to carry the trays of silkworm cocoons to the thatched sheds where the women dropped them into boiling water, gathering with branches the invisible skeins to spin into visible threads.

One bright morning little Kame was seated with his venerable father before the cottage. Nori-san had been telling him tales of his forefathers, of their heroism in the great wars of the Shoguns and the rebellion against the Samauri. Kame fell asleep, much to the elder's displeasure, his young mind filled with golden images and moving armies inspired by triumphant song.

Then the itinerant barber came plodding up the dusty road from the vil lage. As all the world knew, the barber was the district newspaper, as it were, who, while manipulating his queer tools, told everything he knew.

It was in the midst of a recital of the possibility of pig tailed invasion over all the land that a note of terror escaped the old man's lips. The little dreamer at his side awoke with a start, and in so doing overturned the barber's box of queer combs, bottles, boxes and razors. The barber's angry reproof was supplemented with a growl from Nori-san, thus disturbed in his toilet and the more important news of the coming war.

"Lad," he cried, "have I taught thee to sleep amid such perilous times? Get thee to the sheds and flail rice till the sun goes down. Tomorrow, mayhap, thou wilt have come to thy senses.'

Kame arose, convinced in his heart that he had done no wrong, but he held his peace, moving toward the sheds to bear his penance bravely. Soon he was joined by his father. Kame did not salute him deferentially, after his familiar manner. The parent waxed wroth.

"Son," he cried, "what have I taught thee to say to thy betters? Where art thy manners toward thy father?" The boy only bowed in humility, then resumed his task greviously. The elder seized his heavier flail and took position at the other end of the mat.

Suddenly the comb fell from the father's freshly barbered hair. He bent down to recover it ere it be broken by the other's flail.

Instantly the tip of Kame's swift flying flail struck the bowed head with an appalling sound, and the old man pitched forward on his face in the rice and lay quite still.

Kame's blood froze in his heart. He could not move-could not cry out as yet. Then he uttered a wild moan, sinking by the still form, sobbing despairingly. Then came brothers and sisters, neighbors and passersby, lifting the quivering form, dashing water into the drawn, drab wrinkles, and that image of death resumed a human aspect once more Kame watched it all as in some hideous dream, and when at last the father's eyes opened the boy fell upon his face, throwing the rice chaff over his head in token of sorrowful petition. But the elder recoiled from him.

"Son," cried he, "thou art my first disgrace and sorrow. O unnatural one that would be guilty thus of the crime of crimes-to strike a father down! What! Art thou possessed of a devil to fall so low?"

Then turned the old man to his elder son at his side, crying, "Go, Ta-ke! Run to the village and ask of the learned judge, Siban-quam, what shall be the penalty upon the son that strikes a father. Go!" And the brother sped away.

The messenger returned. "The oracle of the law, O father, demands that a black cross shall be tattoed upon the

The garment is stitched about the edges, and lined throughout with checked silk, which is also used for the facing of the collar. Straps of the same trim the close sleeve diagonally to the waist, and a wide stretched strap fastens at each side of the front by means of a large lacquered button. The lines of this design are also adoptable for an in-door tea jacket if made of bright silk, and the lapels elaborated with fluffy lace trimmings; and the good home dressmaker will find in this design a charming model for the black silk jackets that are to be worn throughout the coming the earth, homeless and despised."

And so ere nightfall was little Kame branded with the curse of ingratitude and sent forth an outcast forever.

Fair Umay, the daughter of the silk weaver down the valley road, stood at the edge of her garden of poppies. Suddenly she recognized Kame, whom she loved. The lad was so changed that she scarcely knew him.

But the young man, shuddering at the sound of her voice, sank to his knees as he swept his hands before his forehead, "Oh, Umay-san!" he moaned. "Go away, I pray thee. Go, that I may not defile with even a glance one so pure and good. For, behold, O daughter of the just gods, I am henceforth an outcast, branded with shame! I struck my father!

"Oh, dear little Umay-san! Thou whom I love so much-thou wilt hearken and believe me. Listen, I pray

And then he told her all, even from the beginning, ending again and again, "It was an accident—Oh, before all that is sacred to us, little mother of my heart, it was an accident. I meant no wrong, and yet, thou seest, here"-And tragically he pointed with his pale fingers to his crime stained brow.

"Go to the shrine of our fathers yonder," she whispered. "There remain prostrate before them while I go and plead thy cause.

Soon did fair Umay return, but her heart was heavy. "He bade me from his sight forever, even cursed me," she moaned. "Go thou forth into the world, O Kame-san," she added, embracing the penitent. "Go forth, but take comfort, for in spirit I shall be ever with thee.'

For weeks he wandered. One day he happened upon a newly mustered their way to the transport ships for China and the wars, and his prayer found willing ears.

The way was hard and the strife one of peril and much blood. But step by step, by valor and strength as well as wisdom, Kame-san arose from the ranks, for there was none such as he now in battle-he was ever in the van.

At the siege of Port Arthur it was Kame-san who led the charge through then at last, in hand to hand combat, down before him, Kame himself was

"Oh, Kame-san! My Kame-san!" she wailed. "Is it indeed thou whom I love? Where hast thou been? What means it all?" But the soldier repressed her with a gesture. "Follow," he commanded in a weak whisper.

Fopic For the Week Beginning Sept. 3-Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle. Topic.—Holding up the pastor's hands. What in we do to help our pastor?—Ex. xvii, 1-13.

Every pastor needs the help of his people. His hands, like those of Moses, become weary and heavy and need to be held up by the Aarons and Hurs. Every pastor deserves the help of his people. Duty demands of them that they shall support him in all his labors. They have covenanted with God and with Him that they will hold up His hands. And the wonder is that, in the face of these solemn vows, so many can, often for the lightest reason, turn against their pastors, and, instead of helping them, hinder them in every conceivable way. Those who do so incur the condemnation of God, for He has said, "Touch not Mine anointed and do My prophets no harm." The first step in doing our duty toward our pastor is to realize that we owe it to God and to him to hold up his hands.

1. We can help our pastor by prayer. The elevation of Moses' hand with the rod in it was an appeal to God for aid and must have been accompanied by fervent prayer and have even symbolized prayer. When Aaron and Hur assisted Moses in holding up the rod, they joined with him in prayer. How many pastors would be blessed and helped in their arduous toil if constantly held up to God in prayer by their people! "You are always remembered in our family prayers," said a lady to her pastor, and he went from that home having received a benediction and an uplift.

2. We can help our pastor by speaking well and never ill of him. Araon helped Moses here, but how he hindered him when, with Miriam, he spoke ill of him! What we say of our pastor has a greater influence upon his life work than we ever imagine. If people speak well of their pastor, they help them; if ill, they hinder and harass them. Commendation is better than criticism. Very often criticism of the pastor is thoughtless and meaningless, but it is no less injurious in its effects.

3. We can help our pastor by following his leadership. He is called and installed to lead us, and yet, wonderful to tell, in many cases he is no sooner settled than the people want to lead him rather than to be led by him. This is inconsistent, dishonorable. It is also un-Scriptural. The Bible demands of authority over us in spiritual things. It is also detrimental to the cause of Christ's church. Success demands lead ers, and unless the leaders are followed confusion, disorder, disaster, are the

He had been her pastor for years. But in all those years she had never said a word of commendation or of appreciation to him, but now he was going to leave, and she came with many expressions of appreciation and regard. Well and good, but how much better if the helpful words had been spoken in the midst of the years of toil and labor. It was like placing flowers upon the grave of one to whom we had never spoken a kind word in life. Yet how est, hard working pastor.

A Quartet of Men Prominent and Influential In the Ranks of Organized Labor Express Their Views on a Matter Which Is of Vital Importance to Themselves and Their Colleagues.

Query propounded by the editor: "What will labor do? How will it meet the swift and intense concentration of the industries in which it is accustomed to lock for employment?"

By SAMUEL GOMPERS.

[President of the American Federation of Labor.] We are all conscious of the giant centrated into the modern trust. There | the Bowery, "Oh, not a thing!" is considerable difference of opinion, however, as to what is regarded by many as an intolerable evil.

Organized labor is deeply concerned regarding the "swift and intense concentration of the industries" and realizes that, unless successfully confronted by an equal or superior power, economic danger and political subjugation are in store for all.

But organized labor looks with apprehension at the many panaceas and remedies offered by theoriticians to eurb the growth and development or destroy the combinations of industry. We have seen those who knew little of statecraft and less of economics urge laws to "regulate" interstate commerce and laws to "prevent" combinations and trusts, and we have also seen that these measures when enacted have been the very instruments employed to deprive labor of the benefit of organized effort, while at the same time they have simply proved incentives to more subtly and surely lubricate the wheels of capital's combination.

For my part, I am convinced that the state is not capable of preventing the legitimate development or natural concentration of industry. All the propositions to do so which have come under my observation would beyond doubt react with greater force and injury upon the working people of our country than upon the trusts.

The great wrongs attributable to the trusts are their corrupting influences on the politics of the country, but as the state has always been the representative of the wealth possessors we shall be compelled to endure this evil until the toilers are organized and educated to the degree when they shall know that the state is by right theirs and finally and justly come to their own, and in the meantime strive to secure the very best possible economic, social and material improvement in their condition. There is no tenderer or more vulnerable spot in the anatomy of trusts than their dividend paying function. There is no power on earth other than the trade unions which wields so potent an arrow to penetrate, disrupt and f necessary crumble the whole fabric. This, however, will not be necessary, nor will it occur, for the trade unions will go on organizing, agitating and educating, that material improvement may keep pace with industrial development until the time when the workers who will then form nearly the whole people, develop their ability to administer the functions of government in the interest of all. There will be no cataclysm, but a transition so gentle that most men will wonder how it all happened. In the early days of our modern capitalist system, when the individual employer was the ruler under which industry was conducted, the individual workmen deemed themselves sufficiently capable to cope for their rights. of Dedham in place of Mr. Horace B. Installed as Pastor at Buffalo, New York.

Bright Hopes for Wollas-For the purpose of preparing the Annual Register of Voters, and of receiving evidence of qualification from persons claiming a right to Vote at the coming State Election, the Board of Postitude of Voters and Page 1988. ton Young Man.

Dr. William Everett Preached the Installing Sermon.

The Rev. Frederic Houston Kent, A. M., so long a resident of Wollaston, was installed on Wednesday evening, August 30, as pastor of the Second on Parkside Unitarian church of Buffalo, N. Y. Parkside is a new and interesting quarter of Buffalo, about five miles in person before the Board, and must present either a certificate from the Assessors or a Tax bill or Notice from the Collector of Taxes, showing that he has been assessed as a resident of the spacious Buffalo Park. Access to the City on the First day of May last; or a certifi-cate from the Assessors that he has been a resident of the city for the six months next pre-ceding the election at which he claims a right venient. The church is a small, but remarkably to vote. If a naturalized citizen he must also produce for inspection his papers of naturalization. Payment of a poll tax is not a prerequisite on Amherst street, and the surround-No person can vote at the election unless his name has previously been placed upon the voting list of the Ward of which he was a resident on the first day of May last, and no name can be added to the list of voters unless registered are added to the list of voters unless registered pre- attractive. Mr. Kent has been elected with entire unanimity and received with most cordial warmth of welcome. The service began about 7.45 P. M. that your name is in its proper place. NO CHANGE can be made after WEDNESDAY, Oct. 18th, at 10 o'clock P. M. The Board of Assessors will be in session at their office on the same evenings. The platform and pulpit were former pastor of the church, now of West Roxbury. There were interspersed some musical selections given with great power and feeling by Mrs. Evers. Dr William Everett repeated the Chapter 2, Corinthians IV, and preached the installation sermon from the second verse, "Not walking in craftiness, nor handling the word of God deceitfully but by manifestation of the truth commending ourselves to every man's conscience in the sight of God. The preacher dwelt on the contrast In Council July 21, 1899.

Ordered:—On the petition of James H. Elcock and others, that Copeland street from the Willard School to the West Quincy Depot be widened to a uniform width of forty-five feet as shown on a plan by H. T. Whitman, Surveyor, that a public hearing be given by the City Council to all parties interested, on Monday evening September 11th, 1899, at 8.15 o'clock, in the Council Chamber, City Hall, and that public notice of the same be given by publishing a copy of this order in the Quincy Daily Ledger at least seven days before the time of said hearing. between the ancient exclusive religions, where the very methods of worship, the access to God, and knowledge of him, were secrets possessed by an exclusive priesthood, doling out portions of truth to a body of worshippers for whom they were not responsible; and on the great temptation to dishonest and craftiness to which such ministers were exposed. He brought forward the contrast between his, and the absolute frankness de manded of the Christian minister, in following the line of duty pointed out by the text. However difficult it may be to obtain spiritual truth, the minister must, when he feels he has attained it, hearer, not to their prejudices, passions or inclinations. This must be done as in the open light of day and the sight of God. This work is far more arduous than the prescribed duties of the ancient priesthood, and would be overwhelming, if the preacher were not attended and strengthened by the living presence of his Master, Jesus Christ, the only one of all who has manifested God's faith to the consciences of men of whom we can truly say not "he was" but "he is." The preacher made a fervent appeal to the congregation in behalf of their young pastor, with whom he has been united in the closest friendship for many years. (It will be remembered that Mr. Kent completed the four years' course at Adams Academy with brilliant record in three years.)

The installing prayer and charge to the pastor were given by Rev. Professor Edward Hale of the Cambridge Divinity school. The charge was given with exceptional directness and earnestness, urging on the pastor the necessity of devoting his whole self to his work, not as a visionary ideal but as infinitely more practical than any closely elaborated devices for apportioning his time. Knowledge of method comes by direct inspiration from singleness of purpose.

The charge to the people was given by the Rev. J. H. Applebee, whose heart appeared full of touching memories of his own connection with the parish, and kind hopes and wishes for his successor. There could not have been more emphatic testimony to the spirit of affection and trust which has reigned and is likely to in all the relations of pastor and people. Rev. A. H. Hudson, of the parent church of Our Father, in Buffalo, gave the right hand of fellowship with the ruest cordiality.

In the course of the service, familiar hymns were sung by the congregation. The last was the well known hymn by the late Rev. N. L. Frothingham, D. D. beginning "O God, whose presence glows in all," and was sung with the original fourth verse, unfortunately omitted in most of our collections, as No extra charge for mailing. Address Written for the ordination of Rev. William P. Lunt.

" Direct and guard the youthful strength Devoted to thy Son this day; And give thy word full course at length O'er man's defects and time's decay." The services were closed with the pastor's benediction. They were listened to throughout with the very closest attention, and combined solemnity and cordiality in an unusual degree. An informal handshaking and interchange of greetings followed; and surely no young pastor has ever started on his work with brighter hopes of usefulness and appreciation.

When Sir Thomas came over the gang plank he was received with another great cheer. He took off his curious cloth peaked cap and bowed, and there was a smile on his bronzed face. He was pushed and jostled about in the great throng like a countryman in line for a ticket at a circus, but he took it all in good nature.

Upon my word I did not expect this," said he as Messrs. Fife and Ratsey and a couple of members of the New York Yacht club, aided by several policemen, made a way for him through the crowd. "Is this the way they welcome the men who came to get the cup? "You're all right, Sir Thomas," shouted a voice 'I'm glad to hear that, by jove. I rather think I will be sorry to take that cup after all," replied Sir Thomas.

You'll get a run for your money,' "I don't doubt it," answered back Sir Thomas, laughingly. "You've always

No cup challenger was ever before given a reception that would compare with that accorded Sir Thomas.

Sir Thomas and party then proceeded to the Fifth Avenue hotel. To the Associated Press representative there he said: "We have had a very good passage, and I enjoyed the trip very much. I am sorry we passed the Shamrock in the dark. I should liked to have seen her where she lies at anchor. But I shall see her the first thing tomorrow.

When asked about the truth of the report that the yacht race had already cost him £80,000, he said: "I don't know how much the race has or will cost me. I don't care. Cost does not enter into my calculations. I am here to race for sport only. It is a great task to come over after the America's cup, and I hope to be equal to it. I believe that I have the best boat ever built in England. She cost more than the Valkyrie. If in coming to America for the cup one halts at the price one had better stay at home.' Asked for information about the

If we fail no blame will rest on us. have thrown up every business care, left every difficulty behind and have determined to devote myself to the Shamrock only. While I am neither a designer nor a skipper I will be aboard of her when every race is sailed.

"The best boat always wins in these international races. Even if the nearest excursion steamer had been 50 miles away the result would have been the same. Let everybody come to the race and have a good time. The more boats that are there the merrier. I will fight for the cup just as hard as I can, but the good wishes of Americans are dearer to me than any cup in existence. The New York Yacht club cabled me offering to change the course, but I replied that I would not race except on the same track as was used before where others won Replying to a question as to whether he believed the Shamrock would win, he said after a pause: "I never said that I was confident of winning. Of course if I were betting on the race I should expect odds, as the cup has been over here

RETURN OF CAVAIGNAC Mermons' Meeting Led to Disturbance Ending

May Mean Fresh Shuffling of Caras of the Prosecution.

A General Gives Strong Testimony For Dreyfus.

Declares That No Artillery Officer Could Have Written the Bordereau

Rennes, Sept. 2 .- At the opening of the Dreyfus court-martial this morning Major Hartmann of the artikery, who was on the witness stand when the court adjourned yesterday, was recalled and continued his technical explanation.

M. Cavaignac, former minister of war, returned to Rennes last evening. There is much speculation respecting the motive of his reappearance here. The general conjecture is that it implies a fresh shuffling of the cards of the prosecution. Symptoms of despondency have manifested themselves in Dreyfusard circles during the last few days.

Friday was a Dreyfus day. The Beaurepaire witness, Germain, who was to prove that Dreyfus attended the Alsatian maneuvers, found his statements denied by a reputable witness, while Germain himself, it was proven, had undergone two convictions for swindling. This was the only testimony against Dreyfus, the remainder of the depositions being in his favor, several of them being very weighty.

In the case of Captain Carvalho, General Sebert and Major Hartmann, their evidence went to show that particulars of the firing manual of the "120 gun" and hydro-pneumatic brake were almost matters of common knowledge among the officers, and that the contention that Dreyfus, from his special position on the staff, and peculiar movements, could alone be acquainted with them had no solid basis. This was the sum of Friday's proceedings, which were not marked by any incident of unusual interest, the Roget-Brugere episode, in which General Roget, clearly gave himself away, being the only matter which attracted special attention. General Seber proved a trump card for Dreyfus, as he declared the wording of the bordereau revealed professional ignorance, and said the man who wrote it was not an artillery officer, and said such an officer as Dreyfus could not make the mistakes he referred to.

General Sebert entered into lengthy explanations of his statements, pertinently pointing out that an artillery officer would have known the interesting parts of the firing manual and would not have written in the bordereau, "Take what interests you.'

The general again declared emphatically that the bordereau could not have been written by an artillery officer or by one who had passed through the polytechnic school. This declaration made a profound impression on the court, which was intensified when General Sebert concluded fearlessly: "I am happy to have had the strength to carry my stone toward the edifice of reparation which the court is building up with so much care and confidence, while holding itself aloof from outside passions."

M. Bertillon was severely snubbed by the presiding officer when he wished to reply to General Sebert, who had condemned his system as fantastic. As soon as General Sebert had finished his testimony M. Bertillon bounced up and asked to be allowed to speak, but Colonel Jouaust quickly turned to the usher and said: "Bring in the next witness," whereupon M. Bertillon, extremely annoyed, returned to his seat,

Berlin, Sept. 2.—On the occasion of the autumn review of the imperial guard Emperior William delivered a speech, in the course of which he said he felt it incumbent upon him, at the close of the 19th century, to express his thanks to the guard, and his hope that, in the new century also they would distinguish themselves by unswerving efforts in works of peace, and if necessary, on the battlefield. "Thus," said the emperor, both officers and men will be Worthy to look upon the quiet abodes of both my predecessors, especially the great old emperor."

Cardinal's Fruitless Mission.

Paris, Sept. 2.—Cardinal Richard, archdishop of Paris, paid a visit yesterday to Premier Waldeck-Rousseau on behalf of Jules Guerin, the anti-Semite agitator, and his companions, now besieged in the headquarters of the anti-Semite league and urged a peaceful solution of the difficulty. The premier said the government must take counsel of itself alone in settling the present crisis. Chattanooga, Sept. 2 .- Six Mormon elders were conducting a meeting in a schoolhouse at Pine Bluff when the building was stormed. Eggs and stores were thrown through the windows and the building was almost entirely demolished. Those present fled as bullets ommenced to strike the building. Elders Olsen and Petty left the building and Miss May Harden walked between them with a view of checking the work of the mob. Shots were fired from ambush and the woman was killed. Her brothers vowed they would avenge the crime and placed blood hounds on the trail of the assassins.

Burton Vinson, a prominent young farmer and superintendent of a Sunday school, wrote a confession, stating he had accidentally killed the girl. Shortly afterwards the bloodhounds trailed to his home. Vinson thereupon killed himself by cutting his throat and sending a bullet through his brain.

Acts of Volence at Cleveland.

Cleveland, Sept. 2.—A small torpedc exploded under the wheels of a Central avenue car last night and a large crowd of foreign workingmen assembled. They soon began to throw stones at passing cars. Stones were thrown at a patrolman who ordered them to disperse, and after fighting his way through a crowd he telephoned for help. Reinforcements charged the crowd and clubbed it severely. As the rioters broke away the police made 10 arrests. During the rioting the crews of several street cars that passed fired revolvers over the heads of the mob. With two exceptions the prisoners are foreigners, scarcely able to speak English. Rev. William Thomas, a Congregational minister of Akron, O., was severely beaten by a gang of ruffians upon alighting from a boycotted car.

Fires Becoming Too Frequent.

Ellsworth, Me., Sept. 2. - William Fogg's farm buildings at Mariaville were burned, together with their contents. The cause is supposed to be of incendiary origin. The state insurance commissioners recently furnished an investigation of four incendiary fires in June in that town, the buildings destroyed including the Baptist church. The firebug has so far escaped detection, yet a reward of $1000 has been offered. There is considerable anxiety among owners of buildings, as agents refuse to write insurance on them, while many of the existing policies are being Transvaal May Strike a Blow When Least Expected.

War Practically Certain. According to Alleged Declaration by President Kruger.

London, Sept. 2.-The secretary of state for the colonies, Joseph Chamberlain, has issued the text of the Transvaal dispatches of Aug. 19 and Aug. 21, and of the reply of the imperial government on Aug. 28. The publication is accompanied by a note emphasizing the advisability of making the correct versions known, owing to the fact that one death from yellow fever at New an incorrect version has been published in Pretoria.

The Transvaal dispatch of Aug. 19 contains the proposals regarding the franchise, which go upon the assumption that Great Britain will agree that the present intervention does not constitute a precedent and will allow the suzerainty question to drop tacitly. The dispatch of Aug. 21 makes the proposed concessions expressly conditional upon Great Britain's undertaking not to interfere in the future affairs of the Transvaal, nor to insist upon a further assertion of the existence of suzerainty, and to

The reply of the imperial government dated Aug. 28, declares that Great Britain considers that the proposals put forward as alternative to those of July 31 assume the adoption in principle of franchise which will not be hampered and which will secure immediate representation.

With respect to intervention the imperial note says that the government cannot debar themselves from their rights under the conventions, nor dicivilized power to protect its subjects abroad from injustice.

The note concludes by reminding the Transvaal that other matters exist which the grant of a political franchise will not settle and which are not the proper subjects of arbitration. These, the note declares, it will be necessary to settle concurrently with the questions already under discussion, and they will form, with the question of arbitration, proper subjects for the proposed Cape Town conference.

The Pretoria version of the imperial reply was that Mr. Chamberlain was unable to consider the Transvaal's proposals as an alternative to a joint commission of inquiry.

The Pretoria correspondent of The Morning Post says: President Kruger told a prominent Boer yesterday (Wednesday) that war was practically certain. Every Boer is now armed with a Mauser and has a hundred rounds of ammunition, strictly for future use, with 40 rounds for practice. I am convinced that the reports of the Boers not being prepared are only a pretence and that

All the outgoing trains are crowded, and most of the prominent men have already left Johannesburg.

Lee on Conditions In Cuba.

Washington, Sept. 2.-General Fitzhugh Lee has made an elaborate report on prevailing conditions in Cuba under his jurisdiction and takes strong grounds for an independent government for the Cubans under an American protectorate. The war department in March directed the commanders of departments in Cuba to make report on the conditions in their several sections and to accompany i with recommendations as to the treatment of the natives. General Lee is the first commander to respond. General Lee states that conditions in Havana and Pinar del Rio provinces are making rapid progress toward a state of peace, good order and prosperity.

Mayoralty Too Small?

Detroit, Sept. 2.-General Alger, responding yesterday to an inquiry as to whether he would be willing to accept the Republican nomination for mayor of Detroit this fall, said: "It would unquestionably be a great honor for any one to be mayor of Detroit. However, I positively could not think of it. I would not think of taking a nomination for mayor any more than I would think of taking a nomination for governor." As to other political matters, including his own candidacy for senator, the general declined to talk.

As the market has practically stood at $1.25 on the same basis for over a year, the sudden decline of 4 cents is not only sensational, but is regarded as very significant. It is the trust product that is quoted on the Peoria board, so the change is authorized by the distilling company of America. Prominent commercial men who keep in close touch with the whiskey market say that this sudden move means the beginning of a hard fight with the independent houses.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS RE-OPENED

The City of Presidents Has Over 4,500 to Educate.

The Names of a Few of the New Five Year Old Children.

Another school year opens today and we observe that the children are as happy to get back as they were at the beginning of summer to go out ipon a vacation.

The mothers, perhaps, are the most pleased for even with one child they ave been kept pretty busy during the summer entertaining him. Of course it is a pleasure for the teachers or they would not have adopted the profession. Quincy has about 4,500 pupils, the eport of 1898 showing the average number belonging to be 4,328, and the average number attending, 4,148.

This large number requires ten full grade grammar school building and a High school. The capacity of these ouildings is 4,867, but it has been found necessary to crowd in 5,029 seats. Over 100 rooms are in use.

Including special teachers and assistants over 130 teachers are employed. In 1892 there were 99 and in 1895, there were 108.

Figures as to the attendane at the High and grammar schools cannot be given today, but the Lincoln, John Hancock and Coddington are crowded. The High school, as was anticipated by the School Committee, is more than crowded, and it will be necessary to provide rrooms outside of the building o accommodate the overflow.

Between two-hundred and forty and two-hundred and fifty new pupils entered the school this morning swelling the number of pupils in the building to over 450, which is considerable more than can be accommodated. The School Committee have conidered the feasibility of using the old High School building, but this was abandoned, as the building is unfit for use, and the cost to put the building in is probable that the two stores at the northerly end of the Nickerson block, near the present high school building, will be engaged as an overflow.

The names of the new D primary pupils in some of the buildings are given today. It is an importrant day in the lives of these chlidren. Tomrrow the names of those to enter the other buildings will be given,

Two Incendiary Fires at West Quincy.

One House Was Struck by Lightning.

The Oil Stove Also is Heard From-Damage Slight.

The alarm from Box 49, at 1.32 'clock Sunday morning, was for a fire in an unoccupied house on Bunker Hill avenue owned by Michael Shea. The house was situated in the woods, some way from the street, and the fire was well under way when the department arrived. The nearest hydrant was over 1,000 feet away and as it was impossible to drive a hose wagon any where near the fire considerable unavoidable delay was experienced in getting water onto the burning building. The only way it was possible to get water to the building was by pulling the hose off the wagon and then dragging it through the woods to the scene of action Then the building was thoroughly soaked. 'The loss was $200. The cause was undoubtedly incendiary

ON FIRE AGAIN

Sunday night at 8.40 another alarm was sounded from Box 49 and it proved o be for a fire in the same house. At this fire a line of hose was laid from a hydrant on Willard street and nearly 2,000 feet was required to reach the building. This fire caused an additional loss of about $50. There can not be much doubt but what this fire was also the work of an incendiary, for with the wetting given the building at the morning fire and the rain it is hardly possible for this fire to have been caused by any sparks of the morning fire. Fire Marshal Adams is making an investigation.

STRUCK BY LIGHTING.

The department had not been back nany minutes from this fire when they were again called out by an alarm from Box 45, also at West Quincy. This came in at 10.10, and was for a supposed fire in a house on Hall place, Hurley Players Arrested at a owned by Jeremiah Donovan and occupied by James Flaherity. During the heavy thunder shower that passed over. Acting upon information received, Quincy about that time, a bolt struck Chief of Police Hayden dispatched a the chimney of the house. It squad of officers in the direction of passed down through the chimney into the house, and tore off nearly all the ing to take a hand in a match game of plastering in one of the rooms on the "Hurley," which was scheduled to lower floor. No one was injured and come off at 9 o'clock Sunday morning, no fire resulted. The loss will not exceed $25.

OIL STOVE FIRE.

The noon alarm from Box 27 on Labor day called the department to the residence of Francis K. Damon on Elm street. Some gasolene on the outside of a large oil stove in the shed had become ignited. The fire was extinguished before the apparatus hitches were made. The walls of the shed were considerably blackened, but

TROOPS IN READINESS

To Suppress Anticipated Violence In Connection With the Dreyfus Case.

Foreigner Introduced as Witness For Prosecution.

May Lead Labori . to Make an Application to the German Government.

Rennes, Sept. 5 .- As the end of the Dreyfus court-martial trial comes within sight, the French government is beginning to display a fear that the verdict may give rise to troubles, and orders have just been received by two regiments of infantry and one cavalry regiment, already within hail of Rennes, to hold themselves in readiness to march on the town at the first sign of disorder, to occupy all strategical points and to suppress manifestations in their incep-

The local anti-Dreyfusard organs, by their anti-foreign articles, have already singled out foreigners as enemies of the country and there is little doubt that foreign journalists will be the first victims of the violence of the mob-not so much Anglo-Saxons as Austrian, German and Russian Jews, who form a majority of the press representation of their respective countries.

Monday's session opened rather badly for Captain Dreyfus, as a surprise was sprung upon the defense in the advent of be of great benefit to late crops, grass, an Austrian political refugee, Eugene Cernuschi, who came out with a flatfooted denunciation of the accused, which, even though it may eventually prove a pure fairy tale, is bound for the moment to exercise a malignant influence upon the French people, who unable to form a personal opinion of the man who launched these direct accusations against Captain Dreyfus.

Cernuschi's appearance is undeniably against him. Nobody even suspects that he is what he claims to be, a scion of the royal Servian house. On the contrary, in his best Sunday suit.

the form of a letter to the president of the court-martial, Colonel Jouaust, was most unequivocal. He claimed that, on three distinct occasions, twice in France and once at Geneva, he was told by a high placed foreign officer that Drevfus had communicated treasonable documents to a foreign power. In the third instance Cernuschi said that the officer showed him documents emanating from Dreyfus, and that this officer left France hurriedly two days prior to the arrest of Captain Dreyfus. The allusion was evidently to Colonel Schwartzkoppen, the military attache of the German embassy in Paris in 1894, whose movements were coincident with those described as the movements of the officer of Cernuschi's

Now this evidence is of transcendent importance to the prosecution, and it is incredible, unless Cernuschi is proved to be a humbug, that the government commissary, Major Carriere, should have admitted that he had received a letter from him offering important testimony Jiminez was surprised to find his party and thrown it aside on the ground of its jailed, and no order for their release coming from a political refugee. The could be obtained. The wires being credulity. One suspicious feature was the fact that, although the witness said he could not speak French fluently, his assurance from General Wood that there letter to Colonel Jouaust, asking an opportunity to testify, was drawn up in perfect French. He explained that he had been assisted by his wife in writing | can soil today.

This introduction of a foreigner as a witness for the prosecution gave Maitre Labori an opportunity to submit the most important request he has made throughout the trial, a request which, if City: "Transport Morgan City, under granted by Colonel Jouaust, though this guidance of an experienced pilot, struck is extremely doubtful, would certainly have momentous consequences. Maitre Labori announced his intention, in view of the step taken by the prosecution in calling foreign evidence, to ask that inquiry should be made through the regular diplomatic channels as to whether the documents mentioned in the bordereau were actually communicated, and if so by whom. This involves an application to the German government, which the court-martial is scarcely likely to means the lengthening of the trial for several weeks.

Cernuschi will be heard today behind closed doors. At the same time there will probably be an examination of the secret dossier to which Captain Guignet referred yesterday, and which Maitre Labori immediately asked to have produced in court. This dossier consists of 12 or 14 documents, and it is difficult to see why, if they had any value, the etat major have not had them produced habit of holding back documents calculated to prove of the slightest service to their cause, as is shown in the case of the note concerning M. Hadamard's doubts of the innocence of his cousin, which was incorrect, but was nevertheless included In the secret dossier; while the important document stating on the authority of the French minister in Rome that an Italian military attache paid Esterhazy 200,000 francs was studiously omitted from the secret dossier. It is perfectly evident that the Italian attache did no pay Esterhazy such a sum on account of, as the French say, his beautiful eyes and the document was the best evidence that Esterhazy is the traitor. Some Sections Benefi ed by Showers, While Others Are Suffering From Drouth.

Boston, Sept. 5 .- Following is a statement of the weather and crop conditions of New England, compiled from the reports of correspondents throughout the section for the week ending Sept. 4:

The weather remamined fair in about all sections of the district. There was, however, much cloudiness, especially in coast sections, and fog prevailed to a large extent. The unsettled weather culminated in showers on the afternoon or night of the 1st and morning of the 2d. These were wide spread, falling in parts of all the New England states. In many instances the amounts of rainfall were plenteous, thoroughly wetting the surface of the ground. A few sections reported no rain of account. The fair weather has been favorable to harvesting, and, where the ground was not too dry, to plowing and fall seeding.

The weather was seasonably warm, The temperature was practically a continuation of the conditions of the preceding week. The average for the week was 66 degrees, which is but one degree lower than for the preceding seven days. It was well distributed through the days and nights; except in sections where fog prevailed there was complaint of cool nights. No frosts occurred, so far as indicated by the reports at hand.

The average precipitation for the week was 1.01 inches, which was more than double that of the preceding week. It was, however, unevenly distributed. In some sections it was in the form of copious showers to heavy downpours, in others light sprinkles to seasonable showers, while in a few localities no rain fell. In sections favored with large amounts the drought was effectually broken, but for nearly the whole of the district rain is much needed. It would pastures, and to operate in connection with fall farming. Considering the crop conditions of the district as a whole, they have materially improved during the past week. Showers occurred over nearly the whole of the district during Thursday or Friday, have not seen Cernuschi and are thus and, while in many sections the amounts were light, the small amount of water, combined with the moist, cloudy or foggy weather, proved of great benefit to growing crops. In a few localities, small areas, mostly on highlands, where the drought was unusually severe crops, mostly late corn, were past help. one would take him to be a groom dressed | But, in general, crops were revived and improved. In sections where the rainfall was heavy, parts of Massachusetts, Cernuschi's testimony, which was in New Hampshire and Vermont, the he form of a letter to the president of ground was well filled, and grass has made rapid growth and is reported as looking greener than at any time since last spring. In portions of the territory where no rain has fallen corn is drying up, without maturing, berries and fruits generally are small and damaged, and pastures have entirely failed as a source of feed for stock. The dry weather is also greatly delaying fall plowing and seeding. The scarcity of stock water in many sections continues as a matter of great inconvenience as well as resulting in a marked shrinkage in the milk supply. In the forests of Maine great and destructive fires are reported as raging, due to the long continued dry weather

TO MEET SHAMROCK.

To Columbia Will Fall the Task of Retaining America's Cup.

Further Trial Races With Defender Unnecessary.

Newport, R. I., Sept. 5 .- Columbia yesterday demonstrated that she is the peer of Defender, the 1895 champion, by defeating her 10 minutes and seven seconds, over a triangular course in an eight-knot breeze and a smooth sea, in the second and last of the official trial Philadelphia ..0 3 0 0 7 3 0 4 -17 18 races for the settlement of a defender of the America's cup.

The contest was a procession through out, with the Columbia leading at the start by 13 seconds, and gaining on every leg of the course. The first leg Batteries — Philippi and Zimmer; start by 13 seconds, and gaining on every leg of the course. The first leg was a distance of 10 miles, and from the moment Columbia crossed the line she steadily sailed away from her rival, going round the first mark three minutes and 36 seconds ahead.

The second leg was also a reach, a little broader than the first, but even if Defender did set her spinnaker a mile from the turn she dropped two minutes and 19 seconds more in the run to the second mark.

In Saturday's race Columbia made a good gain on Defender, running down the despite the fact that Defender held the team by the following table: breeze longer than her rival, while on the windward work that day, the new boat also made many minutes over her rival. Yesterday the two boats were tested with sheets lifted, and at this kind of sailing Columbia proved that she is a wonder.

Columbia's mainsail fitted a little better yesterday than it did on Saturday, due no doubt to the stretching it received in the first trial race and subsequent hauling out on the boom and gaff. Still there is an opportunity for much improvement, as there is a curl to the leach that some of the yachtsmen do not like. Columbia's clubtopsail was a bit better than in the previous race, but received, both before and during the race.

There was little opportunity for shift- the yacht ing sails, although at one time the crew of Defender were kept pretty busy setting and taking in spinnaker. him and that the most powerful influences will be brought to bear to secure his conviction whether innoocent or not.

Dreyfus himself feels that he has been fully vindicated, but yet he does not feel absolutely sure of the judges. Many feel they are prejudiced beyond redemption. Dreyfus' feeling is shown by his statement made Saturday: "My case is won and my innocence is established before the tribunal of history."

Elation is the only word that expresses

Saturday's proceedings. The tide has turned at last, they say, and Dreyfus cannot be condemned after the evidence with all the

The spirits of the Dreyfusards are quite mercurial. Every day since the opening of the trial has seen them rise or fall; and recently they have been falling heavily, the close of the sessions generally finding them in anxious conversation, accompanied by ominous shaking of their heads. The present buoyancy, therefore, is all the more noteworthy. Friday was a fairly good day; but Saturday's session, they claim, puts the verdict out of doubt and the judges must acquit Dreyfus.

Major Hartman of the artillery occupied nearly half the session with the conclusion of his expert evidence to the effect that Dreyfus, as an artillery offieer, would not have displayed such ignorance regarding guns and brakes as was shown in the bordereau, while the other subjects of the bordereau were matters upon which any officer could inform himself. Major Hartman's testimony practically stood uncontested, as neither General Deloye nor General Mercier, who replied, refuted any material point therein.

M. Havet, a member of the institute, then entered upon the grammatical aspect of the bordereau, and in vigorous language devoted himself to showing that the construction of the bordereau bristled with strong and, in his opinion, conclusive marks of Esterhazyy's handi-work, while the phraseology bore no resemblance to Dreyfus' style.

The next stage of the proceedings was the reading of the Gonse-Picquart correspondence exchanged at the time Colonel Picquart suspected Esterhazy, and wanted General Gonse to probe the mat-ter to the bottom. This brought Maitre Labori to the front, and in a series of questions, he brought out sharply before the court the machinations of which Colonel Piaquart was the victim at the hands of the major from the mo he showed a desire to thoroughly sift the matter.

Maitre Labori for the first time got General Gonse to admit that he ordered the tampering with Picquart's letters, in order, as he said, to ascertain Picquart's doings while he was chief of the intelligence bureau. A little later Maitre Labori evidently disconcerted General Gonse, for the latter blurted out that Lieutenant Colonel Henry committed forgery in order to have fresh proofs against Dreyfus. The audience smiled audibly at this explanation. General Gonse apparently meant the Panizzardi dispatch which has already been ruled out of court. Maitre Labori protested indignantly, exclaiming, "There are no such documents," and then asked General Gonse to enumerate the documents to which he alluded. Colonel Jouaust, president of the court martial, however, declined to put the question, whereupon Maitre Labori said he reserved to himself the right to submit a formal appli-cation for these documents.

Then came the leading witness of the day, M. De Fond-Lamotte, a probationer contemporaneously with Dreyfus, who is now a civil engineer, and so has no reason to fear the wrath of the military clique. The witness opened by declaring that, despite the fact that he had a brother in the garrison at Rennes, he came to tell what he knew in favor of Dreyfus; and he proceeded to make a statement, which, according to the Dreyfusards, practically decides the case. First he recalled the fact that a circular was sent to the probationers on May 14, 1894, informing them that they must not go to the manoeuvres, thus showing that the man who wrote the bordereau in August and said: "I am going to the manoeuvres," could not be Dreyfus. The witness then pointed out that none of the ministers, who he belived, acted in good faith, were informed of the existence of this circular, which he declared, "I consider a vital point in the case." "This circular," he continued, "shatters the prosecution, because after May has been removed by heavy rain sweep-17 Dreyfus could not say "I am going to | ing in from the Orissa coast and extendthe manoeuvres," for then he knew he would not go, while prior to May 17 he the eastern half of the northwestern could not have known the five documents comprised in the bordereau." M. De Fond-Lamotte then brought out another strong point. Alluding to the modifications of the disposition concerning the troops, he said the writer of the bordereau used the term "new plan."

"Now," said the witness, "it has been impressed upon you that on Oct. 15 a circular was sent out from the war min-Istry containing those very words, and that, thereefore, the writer of the bor-dereau must have been an officer of the ministry. But one thing has struck me Who sent out that circular? It was the third bureau, the chief of which was Lieutenant Colonel Du Paty De Clam, who had had the bordereau in his hands

ordered by what the witness described as "Arguing in a vicious circle to back up his contention that an officer oof the ministry wrote the bordereau and that that officer was Dreyfus."

General Roget then rose to reply to M. De Fond-Lamotte, but found he had caught a tartar. He did not succeed in shaking the witness' testimony, while M. De Fond-Lamotte took the unprecedented course of actually questioning De-Fond-Lamotte Shows That General Roget and getting the better of him once or twice. The two men stooks exchanging heated arguments, totally ignoring Colonel Jouaust, who was twice obliged to ask them not to speak at each other and to remain calm. General Roget especially was excited, particularly when he found that he was making no impression on his opponent, who, on the contrary, scored off him. Roget was Paris, Sept. 4—The great topic now is unused to this treatment, as hitherto he had had his own way and been allowed to

Finally, on Roget declaring that Dreyfus might have written "I am going to the manoeuvres," because he could have asked special permission, which is invariably granted, Maitre Demange asked him if there was any proof that Dreyfus At the same time it is realized that did ask such permission. To this Roget tremendous forces are arrayed against replied, "I don't know; no trace has been found of his application." This answer brought a chorus of "Ohs" from the au-dience, because, had Dreyfus asked, traces would easily have been forthcom

BOSTON LUCK NOT IN EVIDENCE.

It Now Looks as Though Brooklyn Will Maintain Top Notch.

The Boston champions are home for the first of three games with Baltimore after the brief and final invasion of the west. The loss of two games in Chicago was a decided setback and hurts at this stage of the race. The Orioles have proven a strong proposition and are playing good ball. The home team will have to hustle in the three games with the southerners. After that the champions go over to Brooklyn for three contests.

Boston's luck has not been in evidence lately and Brooklyn has advanced steadily and consistently without a break, against all comers.

Brooklyn should suffer no material loss of percentage the next few days in their games with the New Yorks. The Giants are playing weak ball. The Phillies have shown signs of going back, and the real struggle at present is between Brooklyn and Boston, with everything going well for the top club.

May Be a Conference.

Pretoria, Sept. 4.—The reply of the Transvaal government to the Imperal government's last dispatch has been received by Conyngham Greene, the British agent here. It is understood that this government is willing to meet the other side in a conference at Cape Town as suggested, and to explain the working of the new franchise law. The Transvaal government is also willing to receive the friendly suggestions of the imperial government. A more hopeful feeling prevails here.

Rain Badly Needed. London, Sept. 4.-Lord Hamilton, sec-

At this rate the trust would soon be capitalized for more than the aggregate of all other values in this country. Of course, an absurdity is involved somewhere. Forecasting the point at which the break will come is not easy. The United States investor says the trust movement, which it calls 'a gambling transaction on an enormous scale," has spent its force. Eventually, it believes, "will occur a survival of the fittest and the fittest is likely to be the concern with the least water in its organization." Depreciation in machinery is constant, and the investor thinks that "competing plants will be established at smaller cost and with superior equipment." As has been frequently urged, the person invited to put money in trusts is the one who has need to feel the greatest concern about their outcome. -St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

He Found Good Feeling in Wales Toward the United States.

Editors of the Daily Ledger: I arrived in New York on the S. S. my short but very pleasant visit in Wales. Since I got home many have asked me why I did not write more letters to the Ledger while away. Well I was so busy every minute while there that I hardly saved time to write home, but if our friend, the Daily Ledger, will permit I will try to Tillman Jabs His Pitchfork describe a little of my journey or as I like to call it my flying trip.

I arrived in Liverpool, Aug. 2, and found the old town just about the same as it was twenty-seven years ago when I left. The same old tram cars and omnibuses with stairs to go up on top. They are just starting to lay new tracks and poles for electrics. Everything is years behind the times. The first day I got up pretty early, same as usual but, couldn't find any place open. I asked the bell boy when I came back from my morning walk when the shops opened. He said, oh about nine o'clock. Everything is slow. When you order your dinner or any meal you will be hungry before Says Negroes In the South Never Were and the waitress arrives with it.

Well, after breakfast we took the tram cars to the Lancashire Agricultural show, the largest show in Great Britain. They had the best of all kinds of animals there, hundreds of stallions, horses, mares, colts, ponies, cattle of all kinds, sheep, pigs, fowl, besides all kinds of implements, motor wagons, etc., from everywhere. Providence, Sept. 5,-The New England Bimetallic league formed a permanent organization here yesterday with the same list of officers as in the temporary organization. They are as follows: George W. Greene, Woonsocket, R. I., president; Homer S. Cummings, Stamexhibit from Canada and the United ford, Conn., secretary; William J. H. Bohannan, Stamford, Conn., treasurer; One thing struck me. > He explained the methods of formin trusts, and said that the day when the wages in America fall to the level of Europe is not far distant if the present policy of combinations is continued. If the protective tariff which protects trusts, but not the people, is continued, the result will be that the western farmers will become so poor that they cannot buy the products of the east and the goose that laid the golden egg will be killed. He argued that in this event the people of New England will have only their own blind greed and desire to get a dishonest dollar to blame for it.

The senator alluded to the attitude of colored people of the country and reviewed the result of the civil war, statin this country dedicated to the cause of freedom and equality for every man, and half of them were those of southerners. He referrred, amid cheering, to the oppression of the Filipinos, who are annexation did nothing toward freeing ing him to the ground.

He said that while he believed, and always will. *hat the negro is not the equal of the white man, still he believed in giving him his legal rights, barring the political side. He said the negro did not know enough to vote, and in South Carolina the white people had succeeded in disenfranchising them until they can read and write.

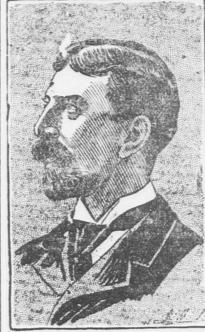

In reference to the Philippine question Mr. Tillman asked if it was right to free Cuba because Spain was shooting Cubans to death, how it was to be reconciled with the fact that the United States, who now owned the Philippines was now shooting the Filipinos to death. He said that the arguments now used by the administration are the same as those used by George III. in the last century. He said that he believed the president is honest in his belief that he is doing his duty, but claimed that he only looked at the one fact that the United States bought the islands from Spain. He asked where the honor was in the Philippines war, and, as the New England people had been accused of having a love for the almighty dollar, he asked where the money was in it for them.

He argued that until the American na-tion had settled one race problem here it had no right to tackle another across the Pacific. He claimed that in New England the negro was hedged in by certain rules, but in the south he has full swing. If the people of New England object to the way those in the south treat the negro in the manner of lynching him for ravishing women, they can do nothing about it, and he claimed that if New England would not do the same under similar conditions he would blush to own a relationship. He stated that the negro in the south never was and never would be capable of voting. He said that although the south had been outlawed by legislation since the war, yet it had paid its own pro portionate share of the pensions to the soldiers who had shot the confederates to death.

He said New England had need to wake up to the fact that it was not the whole United States, and had not a monopoly of brains. He said his lessor learned from the Spanish war was that he will not in the future allow any New Englander to step on his toes and patronize him. The south and South Carolina did its full duty then and will at any time send as many men in proportion to its population as any state to any war of decency and honor, but it will not send a regiment to the Philippines ..

Diana was bathing. She plunged, dived, rose, swam, floated, trod water, splashed and kicked like a veritable mermaid, only the pure blood ran more cold blooded sea maiden's, and a pair of slim, white feet are a much prettier conclusion to a beautiful body than a tail, and golden tresses, in the opinion of humans, are preferable to the ortho-

It was rough, for a smart southwester was coming up, and the rest of the women bathers bobbed timidly up and down at the life line, but Diana rose up on the comb of a wave like a south sea islander and laughed aloud with pure physical joy as she shook the drops from her eyes and drew in a full breath. At the end of the pier a man was bathing. She could see his dark head at times above the crests of the waves.

Why, what was he doing, splashing about like that? He had gone under and rose again, striking out wildly. "Help! help!" rang frantically over the water. A thrill ran through her. She answered to the call like a high mettled horse to the touch of a whip.

"All right; I'm coming," she cried and cleft the water with swift, powerful strokes. She lost sight of him once or twice, for the spray was flying high, and out toward the pier it was ticklish work, lest the current should carry her against the piles, but she swam on gallantly.

Ah, there he was, almost spent, floundering and gasping wildly.

"Here, rest on my shoulders; I'll get you to the steps," she ordered; but danger seemed to have bereft him of his senses, for he clutched frantically at her, gripping her gown.

"You'll drown us both if you do that," she said imperiously, and managed to relax his grasp.

She got him to the steps more easily than she expected, and he hauled himself up, gasping for breath and looking at her with grateful eyes as she stood beside him, the water dripping from her black gown and running in little streams over her noble shoulders and strong white arms, the closely clinging stuff showing every outline of her splendid shape. "You are not hurt anywhere?" she queried, quite forgetful of sex. "No, no. It was only cramp," he murmured. "I-I can get to the beach

now. I don't know how to thank you enough. "Oh! that's all right," said Diana easily. "Here's a boatman coming. He'll get you some brandy-that's about the best thing you can have." She turned about and plunged again into the sea, her golden head growing less as she neared the shore. Tom Bolton unclosed his left hand, Always Short.

A small Texan youth of 10 years, who comes from a highly respectable but somewhat indigent family, has always held a high regard for truth. One time, while visiting relatives at Lake Geneva, he, with two others, was caught in a severe storm, which nearly capsized the yacht. The driving rain drenched them to the skin, and when a passing steamer towed them to the pier of a private villa they were glad to accept the offer of shelter which the kindly Chicago millionaire extended them.

The millionaire's daughter sent down dry clothing and hot restoratives, and when they had changed their apparel descended herself to be sure that they were comfortable. The youthful Texan was the first she addressed.

"Now, little boy," said she, "are you sure you have enough clothes to keep you warm?"

"No, I haven't," replied he bluntly. "I never had enough clothes."-Chicago Times.

Manila, Sept. 4.-Many Spanish prisoners are escaping from the Filipinos and bringing into the American lines stories of hard treatment. They agree that the Filipinos are exceedingly short of rations and that a large section of their troops is reduced to the use of home-made black powder.

The natives are trying every scheme to get food and munitions from Manila. Daily arrests are made for attempts to smuggle contraband of war through the American lines. In one case a casco, with a cargo of bamboo poles, was overhauled and the poles were found full of

The insurgents have a wholesome respect for the British on account of several threats of British warships to bombard their towns unless the rights of British subjects are respected. Two British vessels, the Lacson and the Nero, were driven by stress of weather into the harbor of Dagupan, the north-It is claimed that, while it has the required properties of ether, chloroform, nitrous oxide gas, it lacks the disagreeable and dangerous qualities of these drugs. > A force of native police has begun to patrol the city of Manila, co-operating with the provost guard, whose lack of knowledge of the language and the resorts of native criminals had given many opportunities for burglaries, an industry which has been flourishing of late. The new force includes many members of the old force and some insurgents who had grown tired of fighting. It has already done good work in running down native criminals.

The American secret service recently found a Filipino spy in Calamba. He is supposed to have been the man who stole four guns belonging to the Washington regiment. He offered desperate resistance to the soldier who was sent to capture him and tried to run away with two revolver shots in his head. Finally he was brought down by a rifle bullet in the hip. He died after jumping from the stretcher and trying to run.

The shipping commissioner of Manila, a Filipino, hitherto in high standing, has been arrested charged with appropriating half of the first month's salary and levying monthly thereafter an as sessment on all the native sailors shipped from this port. It is represented that he held a commission in the insurgent army and was raising funds for the insurrection. But it is suspected that his opera-tions were merely private blackmail. The information resulting in the arrest of the shipping commissioner reached the port captain and chief of police through a sailor who is not in sympathy with the insurrection.

The Official Gazette, published at Tarlac, which has been received here, contains an order by Aguinaldo assembling the Spanish civil prisoners and sick soldiers at the ports of San Fernando, Union and Dagupan for repatriation. TRIED HER NEW SAILS, Columbia Uses Lighter Weight Canvas In a Contest With Defender.

Latter Beaten In Finest Kind of a Sailing Breeze.

Spin of the Shamrock Shows That She Is No Mean Adversary.

Newport, R. I., Sept. 6.—Columbia defeated Defender yesterday by 3m. 11s. over a 20-mile course, 10 miles to windwrd and return. She rounded the windward mark 2m. 33s. ahead of Defender, besides making up a handicap at the start of 31 seconds. On the run home with spinnakers set she gained 38 seconds over her rival. The finest kind of a sailing breeze prevailed throughout the race. The wind was about eight knots from southeast by south at the start, and freshened steadily as the afternoon wore on, so that the boats finished in a 12knot breeze. Defender being astern, running home, got the puffs first, and at times gained a little and then dropped back when Columbia caught them. The new boat had the worst of the start, Captain Rhodes getting the weather position and steering Defender over starting line 31 seconds ahead of Columbia but in 24 minutes of sailing the latter had more than made up for her handicap at the start, and tacked just to weather of Defender's bow. It was a grand exhibition of the speed and windward qualities that Columbia possesses, and the yachtsmen who witnessed it were loud in their praises.

For 15 minutes the two fastest American sailing yachts afloat tore along side by side barely 100 feet apart, their clouds of white canvas glistening in the sun and rails well awash, presenting an unrivalled marine picture. Then followed two or three quick maneuvers, and the relative positions of the two contestants were changed and the new boat took the

The race was for a cup offered by William Goddard of Providence, and was managed by the New York Yacht club regatta committee.

Columbia bent on a new mainsail of lighter weight canvas than any she has previously used, and it was to test the new cloth that the race was sailed. She also had a new forestaysail of the same weight duck as the mainsail. It is not putting it too strongly to say that the new mainsail was the finest fitting one that Columbia has ever had, and it set to the perfect satisfaction of the yachting sharps. On the windward work the canvas set like a board, and it is fair to assume that be found located in our New Quarters about the first week in September in the Adams Building, it drove the boat ahead better than the the store formerly occupied by Rogers Bros., with a Large and well selected Stock of

The new staysail stood the test thoroughly also, and seemed a liftle larger than the old one. The topsail and jibtopsail were the same as used in Monday's race, but there was a noticeable improvement in the set of the forrmer, due to the work of the sailmaker after Monday's

Defender could not have had more perfect fitting canvas, but she had the only accident of the day, the splitting of er jibtopsail. The fact that Defender got the better of the start was due to the clever work of Captain Rhodes, and all over the course he handled his ship in better shape than did Captain Barr of Columbia. Barr was inclined to pinch his boat a little too much, and has his jib fluttering more than once on the windward work. He made several more tacks than there was need of, and overstood the turning mark quite a little, while Defender made the final tack some distance short of where the Columbia did. As regards handling of sails, honors were about even, both crews setting spinnakers in exactly the same length of time, but Rhodes had Defender's balooner drawing better down the wind. Plans for Columbia's movements just previous to the cup races have not been made.

A SENSATIONAL MOVE.

Schwartzkoppen and Panizzardi May Testify In Behalf of Dreyfus.

Would Lead to a Sudden Ending of the Trial.

Former Minister of Justice Proves a Strong Witness For the Defense.

Rennes, Sept. 6. - Today's session opened with closed doors to hear from Eugene Cernuschi, the Austrian political refugee, the name of the foreign attache he has already mentioned as admitting that he had received treasonable documents from Dreyfus. The remainder of his evidence will be given in public.

Cernuschi will be subjected to a searching cross-examination. The prosecution relies upon him as a last straw. He was interviewed last evening by several journalists and asserted that he had in his possession documents to prove every word of his statement Monday.

According to a rumor now going the rounds the name of the foreign agent who, as Cernuschi declares, showed him documents from Dreyfus regarding French military secrets is Gerschell. The latter is said to be an Austrian officer who passed three months in Paris about the time Dreyfus was arrested.

Maitre Labori yesterday afternoon telegraphed personal appeals to Emperor William and King Humbert to grant permission to Colonel Schwartzkoppen and Colonel Panizzardi, German and Italian military attaches in Paris in 1894, to come to Rennes to testify in the ington, Horace Vaughn of Paducah, Autrial of Captain Dreyfus. This is the news of the day and the chief topic of conversation in the cafes and resorts of the journalists.

The appeals were couched in eloquent terms, invoking the assistance of their majesties in the name of justice and humanity. They are quite supplementary to the formal application that will be made by the government commissary,

The demand of Maitre Labori that the ourt-martial should issue process, subject to the approval of the two sovereigns, came like a thunderbolt at Tuesday's session. The step is fraught with momentous consequences, as it affords Emperor William an opportunity again to assume his favorite role of arbiter of senate. destinies of the world. No one will be surprised if Colonel Schwartzkoppen, in the name of the kaiser, makes a declaration that will practically decide the result of the trial.

Both Schwartzkoppen and Panizzardi nust consult their respective sovereigns before starting, but the counsel for Capain Dreyfus fully expect them to arrive ere, if they come at all, in time to give their testimony tomorrow, in which case test to a finish whether defeated or not. The Brown men are claiming 75 per cent. week and the verdict be delivered on Friday or Saturday. This is the view that which is the county in which General obtains at present.

Colonel Jouanst told Maitre Demange at the close of the session that if he received official notification that Colonels Schwartzkoppen and Panizzardi were coming to depose, he would be prepared to adjourn the trial pending their ar- six feet from tip to tip. The bird flew rival. An adjournment of 48 hours would | into his dooryard and was approaching probably give them time to get here. A remarkable circumstance, and one that is significant of the relations between the two eminent advocates who as the eagle struck ground it made such are conducting the defense, is the fact | a savage attack upon the man that he that Maitre Labori telegraphed the Gernan emperer and the King of Italy on is own initiative, without consulting

r advising with Maitre Demange. The appearance of Colonels Schwartzkoppen and Panizzardi would be the most sensational as well as the most important incident of the entire trial. Their depositions would be a formal and emphatic declaration that they never had any relations with the accused, and they would make such statements that the court must order an acquittal.

Those who are in the confidence of the counsel entrusted with the defense express a firm conviction that Dreyfus will now be acquitted. Nevertheless one of the most prominent generals yesterday declared himself "quite pleased with the progress of the trial thus far" and conident of a conclusion "eminently satisfactory to the prosecution."

M. Doffes, a reporter for the Temps testified that he saw Major Esterhazy in London, and that the latter confessed that he was the author of the bordereau. The witness added that he raised the the question of the letters of Mme. Boulanc, and brought away the impressio that Esterhazy wrote the "Uhlan" let-

M. Trarieux, formerly minister of justice, was the next witness called. He made a long deposition in favor of Dreyfus, reviewing the history of the case and his own part in connection therewith. M. Trarieux is an excellent speaker with a good presence. He has irongray hair and moustache, and a clear, resonant voice which could be heard outside the court room.

M. Trarieux's deposition closed the public session. He made a very telling speech describing how his original be-lief in the guilt of Dreyfus was first shaken, and then completely changed to conviction of innocence by subsequent levelopments and the noble conduct of Scheurer-Kestner, formerly vice president of the senate. The letters exhanged between General Gonse and Lieutenant Colonel Picquart also strengthened his conviction. M. Trarieux spoke of the machinations against Picquart, and said he accused nobody. He believed, however, that the chiefs were deceived. M. Trarieux recounted a conversation with a foreign ambassador, who declared, in a tone of the greatest sincerity, that Dreyfus never had relations with him nor with any officer of his country, while the ambassador added he possessed documents proving the guilt of Major Esterhazy. M. Trarieux delivered a very impressive passage, recalling the execution of the English Admiral Byng on the charge of treason, who was found to have after-ward been unjustly condemned. M. Tra-dread to have such a blood stain upon of Admiral Byng, marred the history of England. Senator Trarfeux will probably be confronted by Generals Mercier, Gonse, De Boisdeffre and Roget. After that it is understood that the deposition of Colonel Du Paty de Clam will be read, Major Tavernier, who examined him, having arrived at Rennes. This practically completes the list of depositions, unless, as is probable, Du

Paty de Clam's testimony leads the defense to summon witnesses to controvert his statements. It is reported that Minister of War Gallifet has sent orders to the generals and other military witnesses to leave Rennes and return to their respective posts within two hours after the conclusion of the depositions and not to be General Mercier being on the retired list is not effected by this order, but Generals Roget, Gonse and De Boisdeffre must go. Their orders are intended not only to avert the demonstration in favor of the generals, accompanied probably by serious disorders, but also to preven the moral effect of their presence in th courtroom when the judges are delibe ating as to their verdict, and perhaps t prevent something even worse tha

Louisville. Sept. 6 .- A report is no going the rounds and is generally credi ed by the Brown Democrats that th managers of Senator Goebel's campaign McGinnity, p..... 4 1 1 1 2 are attempting to induce him to get off the track.

The rumor is founded on a conference that took place Sunday night at the Galt House, at which were present J. C. S. Blackburn, Mr. Goebel, Augustus C. Cutler of Mayfield, J. Gayle of Owenton, Zachariah Phelps and Aaron Kohen of this city, Samuel Shackelford of Frankfort, Louis Descognets of Lexgustus Thomas of Mayfield and C. C. McChord of Springfield.

What was done at that conference is not yet known, but the Brown men profess to have information that Goebel's friends are urging him to accept the proposition of John Young Brown that both withdraw from the race and let the Democrats of Kentucky name another candidate for governor. The friends of Brown, say that Goebel is just beginning to realize the magnitude of the bolting movement. They say Blackburn's friends are especially anxious to have Goebel withdraw, so that Blackburn, who is looked upon as the silver leader of Kentucky, may not be de-

By the Throwdown They Received at the Hands of he Baltimore "Birds."

Boston, Sept. 6.-Baltimore gave the Boston champions a genuine surprise on the home grounds here by throwing them down with Nichols in the box. He was hit harder than he has been in any game this season, every one of the Baltimores making at least one hit off him, while Demont secured four drives and Robin-

McGinnity, for the Orioles, was in grea shape. Nichols was the only one of the Bostons who could do anything effective and Stahl was the only one of the first five on the batting order who made a hit present during the pleadings. They will

McGinnity was especially effective at thus be absent when the verdict is decritical periods, and with perfect fielding not a run would have been made off him. No complaint can be entered about his backing, however. Boston. AB R BH PO A E

Anti-Imperialist Views. Springfield, Mass., Sept. 6.-The first ublic demonstration of the anti-imperialists of this city last evening was very successful from an anti-administration standpoint. The speakers, Judge Putnam of Uxbridge, Daniel E. Leary of this city and ex-Governor George S. Boutwell, were all heartily applauded. Of the 1500 people who did not quite fill the seating space perhaps a majority were anti-imperialists. Mr. Boutwell made the principal speech, the salient points of which were: "Criticism of the president will be more and more general and vigorous until his administration shall have come to an end. It is an error, which the administration has promulgated and which it continues to cherish and defend, that the Filipinos are uncivilized and incapable of selfgovernment, even now, when the evidence to the contrary is conclusive. Nothing in honesty and justice remains for the president and his supporters exof aggression and conquest, a criminal which the president alone is responsible. The general opinion held here is that Emperor William and King Humbert will allow Colonel Schwartzkoppen and Colonel Panizzardi to be examined by a rogatory commission and their depositions to be sent to Rennes with supple mentary evidence from the originals of Esterhazy's treasonable communica-

The anti-Drevfusards are extremely exasperated at what they characterize as Maitre Labori's "trick." Flames Sweeping Through the Woods In Southeastern Massachusetts.

Fourteen Dwellings at South Harwich Reduced to Ashes.

Money Loss Is Estimated at $25,000, With but Little Insurance.

South Harwich, Mass., Sept. 7 .- Fourteen dwelling houses, together with numerous sheds and outbuildings, in this own, were completely wiped out by a fire yesterday, which, starting in the roods to the northwest, swept through the little hamlet, is still continuing unconquered to the south, fanned by the same gale that first started it on its destructive career. The fire apparently started in the woods near Long ponds, and as a northwest wind was blowing strong at the time, it soon assumed large proportions. It is thought the fire originated from some ogs which were left burning, and the inderbrush, being very dry, caught from the sparks. Although a large number f men were quickly on the scene, they ould not stay the flames, which rapidly swept toward the railroad station and the stores of Kendrick Bearse. The station master and two friends saved these buildings, while a wrecking train backed down and took a number of freight cars out of the line of fire.

The blaze continued on towards the ittle village, only half a mile away, and soon the people began to realize that many, if not all, of their houses were comed to destruction. fighters to the village, and as much furniture as possible was removed from the line of the flames. The fire soon reached the main street, where the houses were the thickest, and by this Corner Hancock and Saville Streets, time the entire population was almost panic-stricken. The smoke was so thick that it was feared many women and children would be lost, and one aged lady was carried out of a house just after it caught fire. It is probable that she would have been consumed if it had not been for the order of some men who directed that all houses in the track of the flames should be searched.

The first house to go was unoccupied, ut the flames soon continued to others, and the following people had their homes destroyed before their very eyes: A. Glendon, Mrs. Luther Eldredge, Eben I. Eldredge, Zebina Eldredge, Obid Nickerson, William Bearse, Watson Small Albert Crowell, Clement Small, Albert Bartlett, Eben Taylor, Edward Hardy and Thankful Nickerson. The general stores and lumber vard of Fred Sears were on fire at one time, but were saved, as were other houses in the village which also caught. It looked at one time as if every house in town would be destroyed, but 300 men ho gathered saved quite a number the fire kept on into the woods to the south, where it is still raging, The loss is estimated at $25,000, and will be severely felt, as many of the ocupants of the houses destroyed had ittle or no insurance on their property. There is considerable anxiety as to the continued progress of the flames, for they seem to be heading towards South Chatham, and there is little prospect of their being extinguished, except by heavy rain or lack of fuel.

The very expensive and costly souvenir edition of the Quincy Patriot, which has taken constant work of canvassers, photograhers, engravers and printers for months to complete, is now ready for patrons.

Quite a large edition has been pub lished, and it will be sold at the low price of 30 cents per copy. When eight or more copies are furnished to one person, the price will be 25 cents. Although the edition is large it will very likely, be soon exhausted, when no more can be had at any price, as no second edition will be issued.

The publishers will furnish to every subscriber to the Quincy Patriot, whose name appears on their books, one copy of the Souvenir gratis. This will take a larger part of the edition; there for themselves or friends should attend to it at once. The pamphlet weighs between one and two pounds, and Postmaster Hammond says the postage will be eleven cents. A copy will be mailed to every subscriber living out of the city, who will send his or her name and postage. Subscribers living in the city will receive them by carriers. If any one fails to receive a copy, please call at the Patriet office for one.

the Massachusetts member of the national committee. Again in 1896 he was elected a delegate-at-large to the Republican National Convention. In the regiment was again put in motion this same year, 1896, he was and the formal review began. The line nominated for Lieutenant Governor, and in that office he is now serving his third term. He is a man of solid business integrity and ability, and one who will discharge the executive business of the Commonwealth in such a manner as to command the respect and esteem of every citizen of the state.

The voters who attend the Republican fore those thinking of getting copies caucuses the 26th and 27th of this month will have to choose delegates favoring either the nomination for Lieutenant Governor at the State Convention of Colonel Curtis Guild, Jr., or Speaker John L. Bates. Colonel Guild is undoubtedly in the lead, and will be the choice of the convention by an overwhelming majority of the 2025 delegates. Curtis Guild, Jr., was born in South street, Boston, Feb. 2, 1860, and was graduated from Harvard in 1881 with the highest honors granted by the univerlector for the Commercial Bulletin, and after experience in every department, was taken into partnership. In 1895 he presided at the State Commercial Bulletin, and after experience in every department, was taken into partnership. In 1895 he presided at the State Convention. In 1896 he was chosen by acclamation delegate-at-large to the St. Louis conven tion, and took an active part in the canvass which resulted in placing the gold plank in the platform. In addition to stumping 10 states, where Guild's thorough training in financial

Colonel Guild was the first Massachusetts man to vounteer in the late war. The day after the sinking of the Maine he waited on the Governor, informed him of his belief, based on some knowledge of the Spanish character, that war was inevitable, and asked the Governor to file his name as a volunteer, which was done On the breaking out of the war he enlisted as first lieutenant and adjutant of the Sixth. Mr. Guild, without his request or even his knowledge, was ap pointed Lieutenant Colonel and Inspector General, and selected from the list so appointed on his Massachusetts militia record by Gen. Fitzhugh Lee. At the close of his service as volunteer, he was tendered by the president a position as military member of the Colonial Commission, to frame laws for Cuba and Porto Rico. He resides with his wife in a modest little house, commensurate with the salary of a newspaper man, on Marlborough street, Boston. He is not a club man He is a Mason, but belongs to no other secret orders. Independent, a student of men and affairs, he represents a type of men that is wanted in the councils of the state. And now, typical representative of Massachusetts sentiment and state craft, he is called by his friends to be a candidate for one of the highest positions in the gift of his fellow-citizens.

THE GALLANT TWENTY-SIXTH CRANE AND GUILD. Receives Plandi's of Admiring Throngs In the Stree.s of Boston.

Boston, Sept. 7 .- Colonel Rice and the rived in this city yesterday afternoon from Plattsburg, N. Y., on its way to the Philippines. Even the home coming of the Sixth Massachusetts last fall, with Colonel Rice also at its head, was eclipsed by the large and enthusiastic reception accorded the brave men who have volunteered for two years' service

Although the regiment was several hours behind the time announced for its arrival, hundreds of people who came to the city early in the morning from the suburbs and neighboring cities to see the soldiers march through the streets were content to wait all day for a glimps

At 2 o'clock the first section rolled into the North Union station, and as the men Mr. Crane has always been a stanch alighted they were warmly cheered. Every man was dressed in a new suit of dull yellow, with a reddish brown blanket rolled over his shoulder, a haversack hanging from one side, a canteen from the other and a tin dipper swung from At that convention he was elected to be the blanket roll, while every man had a new Krag rifle. The train was made up entirely of sleepers, the officers occupying palace cars and the men the regular ourist coaches, each man having a berth to himself. The second section came in half an hour later, and the third followed soon after. It was 4 o'clock before the entire regiment had reported, and half an hour later the march was begun. The route was through the business section of the city, with the usual march by the city hall, where the men were reviewed by Mayor Quincy, and finally past the State house, where Governor Walcott was accorded a marching salute as he stood surrounded by his staff and backed by a multitude of many thousands. The streets all along the route were densely thronged and the men were frequently heered. Pursuing its way down Beacon street the regiment swung into the Common and finally rested in column of battalions on the parade ground, with Mayor Quincy and other city officials at the reviewing point. After a breathing spell of 20 minutes formed in columns of platoons, and the march was one of the best ever seen on the Common. After the review the regi-

Twenty-Sixth Regiment Leaves Many

Behind at Boston.

Boys Eluded Guards to Skirmish For Refreshments.

Criticism of Treatment Received at the Hands of Officials at the Hub.

Boston, Sept. 8.-When the Twentysixth regiment left this morning there were many of them among the unac counted for. Last night at Mechanics building about 200 made their escape through windows into the freight yard jumped out of the windows 15 feet high more convenient method of ladders that were rounded up about the yards by the first few to get away. From 8 o'clock until 10 there was general stampede out one of the back windows to the freight yard. It is feared that many of the men will no show up for days, and a provost guard was left behind to round them up. One man was badly injured in trying o escape. He was Jeremiah Noona f company G. He was escaping from e guard like the rest, and in jumping om one of the windows sprained his

Many had narrow escapes in their efforts to get away. One lot took desperate chances. They found an exit in machinery hall and could reach the roo of an L about 20 feet high. Another I was about 10 feet away, and from this latter L a ladder was in place. A plank was found and stretched across the space. Over this the soldiers fearlessly walked for their liberty.

They adopted an ingenious arrange nent for getting out. Every door was doubly guarded, and so about two dozen would collect about a window. A man would sit on the sill, and when the coast was clear he would swing his feet out side and Jump. He was no more than in the air before another man was sitting carelessly against the window. For an hour and a half this arrangemen lasted. An obliging officer kept his eye off the window.

The causes for the chances taken in gaining liberty were many, but the principal one was a desire to get out and obtain a square meal. The men were hungry, and complained bitterly among themselves and to anyone who cared to talk about it. Many did not have anything to eat from early morning, and their supper up to the time the guage and that of the neighboring big dinner was given at 10:30 was two Chippewas and Poottawatomies.

When they got outside they headed for restaurants to satisfy their ravenous appetites. They harshly criticised the city officials for not providing them with something to eat. They supposed that sufferers of Porto Rico, sailed yesterthe city would provide for them, and day for San Juan. The ship is expected consequently they did not bother to to arrive at the Porto Rican port Tuesbring their rations with them.

Up to 10 o'clock they did not know a meal was to be given them. The lunch counters in the building did a rushing clothing, dry goods, shoes, etc. business. The soldiers were obliged to pay 10 cents for sandwiches, which, to say the most, could not compete with the ordinary 5-cent sandwich. They were incensed at what they termed an outrage at being obliged to pay their own way. Many did not have money and had unanimously in his favor as candidate to go without anything to eat.

One of the officers was asked about the protest of the men against the city in failing to supply them with a luncheon at 6 o'clock. He said: "The men came here expecting to get a good meal from their rations at Charlestown or else ate both their dinner and supper together. The rations are hardly enough to satisfy a healthy man anyhow, and a man can it but half a good one. Of course they were disappointed when they did not get food when we came to the hall, but I White House today. guess they can stand it."

Throughout the regiment there was a general howl of indignation about the failure to give the men a supper early in the evening. They went about the hall | High water-1:30 a. m.; 2 p. m. with hungry-looking faces, and when the call for mess was sounded at 10:20, the men fell into line with an eagerness that roused sympathy in the minds of those never marched to a sweeter task than southerly winds. they did to the dinner tables.

The officers were ignorant of the escaping of the men until the companies were formed, and they were surprised at the large number. They could not understand how so many eluded the guards. A provost squad was sent out to round up as many as possible.

The men of the regiment divided their time in the city yesterday between entertaining and being entertained, principally the latter. Colonel Rice and his officers drove to the state house and made a formal call upon Governor Woland as smooth as a toboggan slide. cott, after which they were entertained This is the condition of affairs we have always maintained in regard to land werk. This was followed by a shelter tent drill by the second battalion, while the third battalion gave a fine battalion drill as a closing feature. Last evening nearly the entire body attended a ball at the Mechanics' hall as guests of the city, and the affair was a most brillant one At an early hour this morning the regiment was conveyed to Providence. A provost guard was left behind to round up nearly 200 men who were missing.

The street through which the test was made was decorated with poles, which also served as hazards, and the way was filled with obstacles, including baby carriages containing dummy babies, manipulated by nurses of the Herman Oelrichs won first prize for the best decorated carriage, and Stuyvesant Loroy took first for the best driving. Fully 10,000 persons witnessed the parade, and it was the greatest open air function ever held here, as well as the most original.

Confesses to Forgery.

Boston, Sept. 8.-W. C. Frye, who was arrested on a charge of vagrancy in Wellesley last Friday and sentenced to 30 days' imprisonment, has confessed to having committed at least five forgeries The forged checks were drawn on the Fanueil Hall National bank of this city and bore the signature of Frye's father and uncle. At the expiration of Frye's sentence for vagrancy, he will be arraigned on the charge of forgery.

Fire Under Control.

South Harwich, Mass., Sept. 8.-The fire in the woods was gotten under control last evening, but men will be kept starting from the burning embers, which is likely to be the case should the wind freshen. The devastated woodland will be a total loss, as the fire, instead of burning the tops and leaving the trunks of trees uninjured, cleared everything to the stumps.

Girl and Gold Gone.

Boston, Sept. 8.—Nettie M. Proctor, 18 years of age, living in Dorchester, i missing from her home. The sum of $85 in gold, belonging to her father, I J. Proctor, and which it is supposed the girl took with her, is also missing. Her parents will forgive her if she will return home. A ladder was found leading up to her room, and it is supposed she went out that way.

Fears of Many Wrecks.

Halifax, Sept. 8.-A severe storm has prevailed on this coast. The wind is orthwest, and blowing hurricane force. It is feared many dis asters have occurred, with heavy loss of property. The steamer Gaspesia ;s anchored two miles off Glace Bay, C. B. disabled. She struck off Lingan, but floated in a disabled condition, and was obliged to anchor to prevent going ashore. The ship is in a perilous po ition. The wind is blowing 50 miles an hour, and it will be very difficult, if not impossible, to send assistance until the storm abates. The Gaspesia is from St. John's, bound for New York. She was imprisoned in the ice in the gulf of St. Lawrence all winter.

May Be "Playing Possum." New York, Sept. 8 .- In a breeze rangng from five to eight knots an hour, the Shamrock took her third trial spin yeserday off Sandy Hook. During the trial, which lasted about six hours, several new features were noticeable. The yacht's trim had been altered by the addition of more ballast aft, raising her bow out of water, and she set her club topsail for the first time in these waters. It is a very large piece of canvas, fitting splendidly and apparently did excellent to be a success as a light weather boat.

Simla, Sept. 8 .- At yesterday's session absence of the mine proclamation from England, which had been delayed by legal and technical questions, it had been decided to make gold the legal tender immediately, in the conviction that no other measure would save India from disastrous embarrassment and fresh taxation.

Record of Marine Disasters. Washington, Sept. 8 .- The annual report of General Dumont, the supervising inspector general of steamboat inspection, shows that the total number of accidents to steam vessels during the year was 43. The loss of life was 404, an ncrease over the previous year of 123. The increase in the loss of life this year was due to the loss of the steamer Portland, during a gale on the night of Nov. 27, 1898, wherein every soul on board, 127, perished.

May Go on Lecture Platform.

London, Sept. 8 .- Count Esterhazy, in an interview published here this mornng, repeats his statement that he did everything by order of Colonel Sandherr and his superior officers. He says he will reveal all after the trial at Rennes. Possibly he will go to the United States to lecture. He declares he will not return to France, because it will mean immediate imprisonment.

LACK OF WIND

Heiress at Q. Y. C. Race.

Quincy yachtsmen have always counted upon a good racing breeze whenever the Quincy Yacht club has an event but the elements were against them Thursday at the 158 regatta of the club. There was a little wind when the yachts got away but with the turning of the tide it died out into a dead calm and in place of a race it was a drifting match. Three hours was the time limit but when that had expired none of the fleet had finished.

The race was called for 1 o'clock but at that hour but few boats had arrived and the start was delayed half an hour. At 1.30 when the preparatory gun was fired the wind was light from the east and flukey. Class L was the first to get away and as the Hostess and Heiress sail in this class it was watched with interest.

The Heiress missed the starting gur and was five minutes behind the Recruit and Hostess in crossing the line. The wind at this time had freshened somewhat and a good race was looked for. Before the Hostess had turned channel rock buoy the Heiress had gained two minutes of her lost time and was a good third in position. When the fleet rounded the buoy in Hingham channel the Heiress led the Hostess half a minute and she held her lead until the reach for Channel rock buoy on the last leg.

Here the Hostess again took the lead but held it but a few minutes when she surrendered it again to the Heiress who had a good lead and held it until the expiration of the time

Henry H. Faxon Heads the List for $7,214.48.

A list of the Ward One taxpayers who are this year assessed over $100 is given in this issue, through the kindness of Principal Assessor Hodges. The list is surprisingly long, the 'solid'' men, women, firms and estates numbering 245. Of this number 46 must pay over $500. Fourteen in the list are assessed over $1,000, including Mr. Henry H. Faxon for $7,214.48, and Mrs. Fannie C. Adams for $5,386.08. The tax rate being $19.20 per $1,000, a tax rate of $100 represents a valuation slightly in excess of $5,000, and usually the ownership of more than one dwelling. The heavy taxpayers in other wards will be published when the Assessors books are ready, possibly not for a week.

Pensions and Other Watters Considered by the Grand Army Encampment.

Philadelphia, Sept. 8.-Colonel Albert D. Shaw of Watertown, N. Y., was elected commander-in-chief of the G. A. R. by acclamation. Irving Robbins of Indianapolis was elected senior vice commander-in-chief and M. Minton of Louisville was chosen junior vice commander. William H. Baker of Lynn Mass., was elected surgeon general Jacob L. Grimm of Maryland was elected chaplain-in-chief.

Invitations were received from Chi cago and Salt Lake City for the session of the national encampment in 1900, and Chicago was chosen by a strong majority.

The report of the committee on pensions proved an exhaustive review of the history of pension legislation and the causes which led up to the present pension system and methods, and declared that no class of citizens bears the burden of supporting the government and its institutions more cheerfully than the veterans. The report declares that the G. A. R. repudiates with emphasis the charge of face." the inference that implies that the pension roll is inflated by fraudulent claims and challenges any who so believes to produce evidence. Representative Gardiner of Michigan moved an amendment to the pending motion, to the effect that the report be recommitted to the committee on pen sions for more specific recommendations and with instructions to print the report. Representative Coney of Kansas said that he had a resolution which he believed would express the sense of the encampment. It stated in effect that. as the administration of the pensio bureau had failed to meet the expectations of the national and department encampments of the G. A. R., "President McKinley should be respectfully requested to remove Pension Commissioner Evans from office, and"-but the speaker got no further with his reading.

The encampment fairly howled him off the stage. The amendment was declared adopted. and the question as amended was declared carried. Corporal Tanner was one of the majority of the committee. He made an address scoring the practice alleged to have been adopted by the pension bureau. After much heated discussion, the reports were ordered referred to the committee on pensions.

AN ACT OF DEFIANCE

How the London Times Views a Question Propounded by Transvaal.

Warlike Utterances by Many Boer Statesmen.

Kruger Says England Really Wants Possession of the Republic.

London, Sept. 8 .- The Times, commenting editorially upon the Transvaal's demand for an explanation of the presence of British troops on the border, says: Such a demand as the Transvaal has addressed to its suzerain is probably without a precedent, except as an act of defiance. Ignorant of diplomatic usages as the Boers may be, they could hardly have taken this step unless they desired to dare us to a trial of strength. Even if the Transvaal now withdraws from an untenable position, the future cannot be determined on the same terms as were proposed at the Bloomfontein conference. The government would now be justified in annulling its previous offer. The Johannesburg correspondent of The Times says: As showing the mental attitude of the Boers, I quote the remark of an influential government of ficial, supposed to be an enlightened man, whose name, if disclosed, would cause surprise. "Don't worry," he already, and we will give them such a flogging this time as they never got."

dispatch from Johannesburg: It is reliably reported from Pretoria that a special military train with a body of armed men was dispatched to the Natal border on Tuesday night with an equipment of several heavy field guns and a quantity of ammunition.

Dispatches from Pretoria say that there was great excitement in the first raad yesterday on Mr. Coetzer's interpellation of the government regarding the presence of British troops on the borders and the stoppage of ammunition consigned to the Transvaal. President Kruger, the members of the executive council and most of the principal officials were present, together with a large representation of the general public. At the outset the chairman and president urged members to preserve calmness and to avoid insulting language.

The state secretary, F. W. Reitz, said he had called the previous day on the British diplomatic agent, Conyngham Greene, and had asked him what reply the government could give in the volksraad regarding the alleged massing of British troops on the borders and whether Mr. Greene would communicate with British High Commissioner Milner. The reply from Mr. Greene, he continued, had been received and was in the following terms:

"Dear Mr. Reitz: The following is Sir Alfred Milner's reply to the telegram which I sent him at your request:

"'I don't know to what Mr. Reitz re fers when he alludes to the massing of troops. This must be the British troops in South Africa, the position and numbers of which are no secret; but it is a are here in order to protect British interests and to make provision against eventualities.' Mr. Coetzer and other members then made violent speeches, declaring that they could not understand Mr. Milner's reply, since the Transvaal had never threatened the English colonies. "It is time." exclaimed Mr. Coetzer, "for the Transvaal also to prepare for eventuali-

One member said: "England's action s like putting a revolver into a man's

Another concluded a warlike harangue in this strain: "It is time to send our burghers to the borders to ask these troops what they want. The fire is bound to start. So let them light it and allow it to burn out quickly. War is better than the present state of affairs. Busi- Barre, Mass. ness is ruined and the public treasury is drying up. Chamberlain is trying to ruin the country."

In the course of the debate, Mr. Dutoit insinuated that Mr. Chamberlain was intoxicated on the occasion of his reent famous "garden party speech" at Highbury, his Birmingham residence, tinued to act as he had been acting the Transvaal would give him "Mauser pills," which would be a good purgative. He urged the house not to be frightened whole of Africanderdom.

The chairman remonstrated with Mr. member had gone too far. Mr. Tosen asked whether the government considered Sir Alfred Milner's telegram a declaration of war. Mr. Wolmarana replied that, person-

Mr. Tosen, who declared that Mr Milner's reply was tantamount to a declaration of war, read a telegram from stating that people there would rise in rebellion if President Kruger went to another conference. The chairman Co is possession of the Transvaal. The burghers are willing to concede much for the sake of peace, but will never sacrifice heir independence.' President Kruger said he knew the Lord would give a good judgment in the dispute between England and the Transvaal, and that "if Mr. Chamberlain stood before the countenance of God, his own conscience must acknowledge there was no suzerainty. All depended, the president declared, upon the reply received from Mr. Chamberlain. He (Kruger) had given much away already. He had given his jacket and trousers, and the only thing left was independence. It was said, continued President Kruger, that it was the desire of the British to wipe out the defeat of Majuba hill, but it was the noblest thing England ever did, when, after that she restored the independence of the Trans-vaal. That was due to Mr. Gladstone, who saw that the petitions sent to the queen were false. "That deed," said Mr. Kruger, "is indelibly engraved on the minds of the inhabitants of the Transvaal as the noblest of England's deeds.

The president's declaration that if it came to fighting God would be the arbiter was loudly cheered. In conclusion Mr. Kruger said he hoped the raad would wait until the reply to the last dispatch had been received. If the proposal to a conference was renewed, the Transvaal government would do its best to meet the other side. God, he said, held the hearts of the people in His hand, and if the people called on Him He would respond. He ruled the lot of all. The president also said he earnestly hoped that Mr. Chamberlain's heart would be changed.

Verdict In Dreyfus Court Martial Will Be Delivered on Monday.

Both Sides Appear Equally Confident of Result.

Chances For Acquittal Stand at Five, Against Prosecution's Three.

Rennes. Sept. 8 .- When the courtmartial, before which Captain Dreyfus is being tried, convened this morning Maitre Demange at once began his address for the defense. In eloquent terms and with impressive delivery he brought out the strong evidence agains Esterhazy and cried:

"Do you think if Dreyfus and Esterhazy had been before the court-martial in 1894 the court would have condemned Captain Dreyfus?"

Then, pointing to the latter, sitting be fore him, he replied to his own question

Dreyfus today appeared cheerful. As he entered the court room he smiled and shook hands with his counsel. The beginning of the end of the trial came yesterday. With the speech of the government commissary, Major Carriere, the case entered upon the final Washington, Sept. 8.-President Schur- stage of pleadings, and the verdict will be delivered on Monday at the latest. The government is not only fearful regarding Rennes, but is particularly concerned regarding Paris and other large > is given, is practically certain to give rise to some trouble. It is understood that the government has intimated its desire to the president and there is no reason to believe that he will not fall in with its views.

> Colonel Jouaust yesterday took the most important decision yet taken and took it entirely upon his own responsibility, although he is undoubtedly only the mouthpiece of the whole body of judges. His decision to exclude the testimony of Colonel Schwartzkoppen and Major Panizzardi was most significant, as it meant that the court had already reached a conclusion and that the pleadings of counsel were merely a waste of time and might be dispensed with, if they were not a necessary part of the legal procedure. The court has made up its mind but which way? This is the vital point, and this forms the sole topic of discussion. Both sides are equally confident that the court will decide in accordance with their view. The Dreyfusards declare that the judges cannot condemn Captain Dreyfus after rejecting the decisive evidence which Schwarthkoppen and Panizzardi would yesterday's rulings on the ground that back to her pier by four tugs, while the the judges recognize that the evidence whole force of the engines was turned of the two military attaches would be to pumping water in order to keep the worthless, because they would be morally bound to save their agent at any

Captain Dreyfus will not be brough tack to the court room, and will not be present at the public meeting of the judges, but, when the court room has been cleared by the gendarmes, which will be done as soon as Colonel Jouaust You can Telephone 100 words in one minute concludes, the reading clerk of the court, M. Coupois, will proceed to the room where Dreyfus will be waiting, and read to him the verdict, in the presence of a couple of gendarmes. The public will thus be robbed of the spectacle of his emotions, which are bound to be most profound, whether the decree sends him to the arms of his family or back to the penal settlement.

The verdict may be a condemnation an unequivocal acquittal or a form of acquittal that would be equivalent to the Scotch verdict "Not proven." The last will be the case if the judges should pronounce against him by a vote of four to three. That is, he would be freed even though the judges in his favor should be in the minority. But this, naturally, would be eminently unsatisfactory, as he would carry the stigma for the rest of his days.

Captain Dreyfus thus has five chances against the prosecution's three. Unanimity, six to one, five to two, four to three or three to four will set him at liberty, while unanimity, six to one and five to two will convict him anew. If convicted the judgment will be carried to the military court of appeals, which will be a formal matter.

appeal court will only quash the judgment and order a re-trial, if it should be improbable. The court of cassation will also have the right to order a re-trial, if it should decide that the court-martial has deviated from its instructions. This is the only loophole for Dreyfus, and his friends will undoubtedly fight this point tooth and nail. Extraordinary measures have been taken to spirit Dreyfus away, whether acquitted or re-condemned. His departure from Rennes will be enveloped in the same mystery and secrecy as was his arrival.

HOST ESS DISABLED.

Several Quincy boats took part in the chusetts Yacht club Friday. There were fifteen starters in the race and all but one finished. The boat that failed to finish was the cup defender Hostess which broke her rudder in the second Scheme to Have Heiress

For the second time since the Manchester race week the Heiress and from Hingham, Weymouth, Quincy and Hostess got together, and what promised to be a beautiful race was spoiled by the breaking down of the Hostess. The Heiress held the weather enjoy their hospitality and tender their berth at the start, but the Hostess walked under her lee and crossed the Yacht club which was declared off line first by about three feet.

The house adjourned shortly before noon, after adopting unanimously the following resolu-

"The volksraad, having considered that friendly correspondence is still passing between the two governments, that the concentration of troops in great numbers near the border has a detrimental and restless effect on the inhabitants of the state, and that the Transvaal has lived in friendship and peace with all nations and desires to continue to live in such friendship and peace, now declares its regret at the fact of concentration and expresses the opinion that, in the case of eventualities, which might lead to enmity or war between the two governments, the cause would not lie with the republic. "As regards the stoppage of ammunition at Delagoa bay, the volksraad trusts that the government will act according to circumstances.

"The raad further resolves to drop the matter of the concentration of troops on the border for the present, until the government shall supply further information to the raad, although the information obtained is unsatisfactory. Nevertheless, and with a view to the results of the negotiations which are pending, the raad declares itself determined in the meantime to maintain the rights and independence of the re-

In the course of the debate several speakers advocated a policy of prudence and moderation.

A semi-official statement comes from Pretoria through Cape Town to the effect that the Transvaal governor has explained to the British diplomatic agent, Conyngham Greene, that its last dispatch was meant as an acceptance of the proposed joint inquiry into the franchise question. It appears that the negotiations had become so involved that the Transvaal government itself a come confused or, perhaps, for it of a purposes, wished to appear so.

A Minister Charged With Murder.

New York, Sept. 9 .- A special dispatch to The Tribune from Wichita, Kas., says: Rev. W. H. Ruby has been arrested at Ponsa City, Oklahoma, charged with murdering Deputy Marshal Bird near Springfield, Mass., seven years ago. At that time Ruby is alleged to have gone under the name of Rev. John Simpson. Rev. Mr. Simpson became enraged at Bird because he refused to arrest some rowdies, and he lay in wait and shot the deputy. He escaped and was never heard from, although a large reward was offered. Simpson came to the western country and went to preaching under the name of Ruby, it is alleged. He fell in love with an Indian woman while doing missionary work in the Cherokee nation and married her. Later he became disgusted with his Indian mate and deserted her, but she followed him and made him live with her again. Now it is learned that she knew of his secret and finally gave him into the custody of the law. The minister stoutly denies that he is the man wanted for murder, but was sent to jail.

WELLMAN'S EXPEDITION

Experiences of the Noted Correspondent In the North.

WHAT HE FOUND IN ARCTIC SEA.

Further Evidence That Franz-Josef Land Is Not a Promising Route to the Pole-Mishaps Cause His Pre-

The expedition led to Franz-Josef Land last year by Mr. Walter Wellman of Chicago has returned to England, and the story it tells gives a fair idea of the work it has done and the mishaps which resulted in its premature retreat. It left behind the Italian expedition of the duke of the Abruzzi, which it met as the duke was entering the southern confines of the archipelago. The duke saw his expected rival in the race for the pole turning homeward from the starting point, and he will therefore have a walk over to the pole, if he can get there, which is extremely doubtful.

Mr. Jackson, in his recent three years' work, discovered that Franz-Josef Land is merely an archipelago of comparatively small islands, affording no continuous coast line along which sledging parties might make their way toward the pole. He also discovered that strong currents in the channels among the islands tend to keep the ice rather thin and dangerous for sledging parties and that arctic work in this region is, on the whole, about the severest test of human endurance that explorers have experienced. These facts convinced nearly all the arctic experts that Franz-Josef Land is about the worst base for further assaults on the pole that could be selected, and they had little faith that Wellman would succeed in making a far northing. The event has justified their skepticism, for he found the most miserable conditions for sledging and finally fell into a snow covered erevasse with results so serious that he was compelled to return.

It is not often that explorers are engulfed in these pitfalls, numerous as they are and frequently hidden under the snow, but Wellman is not the first to suffer from them in Franz-Josef Land. While crossing Middendorf glacier in Crown Prince Rudolf Land in 1874 Payer's sledge, dogs and comrade fell 30 feet into a crevasse. Payer was dragged in his sledge harness to the edge of the opening, but managed to free himself in the nick of time. The only chance to rescue Zaninovich and the dogs was to secure the help of a party whom Payer had left six miles behind. To expedite his movements the explorer threw off his outer garments and ran in his stocking feet through the deep snow, covering the six miles in an hour. And in four hours and a half after the accident the man, dogs and sledge were pulled out of the hole, fortunately not much the worse for their tumble Wellman established his winter quarters on July 30, last year, at Cape Tegethoff, the southern terminus of Hall island and a little north of the eightieth parallel. At this point he was on the south edge of the archipelago and near the entrance to Austria sound up which he proposed to ascend. From this winter camp he sent Mr. Baldwin, the meteorologist of the second Peary expedition to northwest Greenland, north with Norwegians and an equipment and they established an outpost at Cape Heller, on the west coast of Wilczek Land, about 80 degrees 45 minutes north. Here two volunteers, Ventzen and Bjoervig, who had been members of the Nansen expedition, were left for the winter, and housework right along. People come Wellman with a party expected to in for girls, can't get them and find join them, but was prevented from doing so by the treacherous ice and almost incessant fog that prevailed until the arctic night set in.

Ventzen died in December, and his comrade lived alone in the Arctic night till Wellman with a sledging party joined him late in the winter. Starting on Feb. 18, before the sun's return, he was eight days making this journey, which is noteworthy from the fact that it was the earliest sledging journey on record for so high a latitude. He made this early start north in order to see how his outpost was faring and also to insure the best possible advance to the north during the sledging season. He went on from Cape Heller with sledges, and by March 20 had reached 82 degrees north on the sea east of Crown Prince Rudolph island.

It was here that he fell into a crevasse and so severely injured his right leg that it was necessary, after two days further effort to get north, to face about and make for headquarters. The traveling was terrible, owing to floating icefields and open crevasses.

Before the arrival of the ship that took him home his party was able to make some original geographical researches, and the expedition was by no means barren of results. All his travel was done in the eastern part of the archipelago, much of which had their competito's possess." not been explored. clety. This island extenus the south part of the archipelago a considerable distance to the east.

The highest north among the islands may still remain with Payer, the first explorer there who, in April, 1874, reached Cape Fligely on Crown Prince Rudolph Land in 82.05 north. Wellman, however, says his turning point was 25 miles northwest of the Freeden islands, and he may have reached Payer's latitude or a little surpassed it. It will be remembered that the Fram drifted to the north of the group. Wellman turned back about 75 miles northeast of the little island where Nansen and his comrade spent the winter. Nansen first landed on one of the Freeden islands, and Wellman says that he photographed three islands and some large land to the north that were seen neither by Payer nor Nansen. He also reports Payer's "Dove Glacier" north of Wilczek land as nonexistent, but this fact had already been made known by Nansen, who said that he found only water where Payer had marked land and this glacier.

MARKET FOR OUR SHOES.

Good Demand For American Makes In Mozambique, but No Supply. In a report made by W. Stanley Hollis, consul at Lourenco Marques, Portuguese East Africa, which was recently issued at Washington by the bureau of foreign commerce, he says: "At present there are, to the best of my knowledge, no American shoes, either for men or women, for sale in the entire province of Mozambique. I am confident, however, that good lines of men's and women's shoes of American manufacture would be well received here and would meet with a ready sale. France, Austria, Portugal and England have for a number of years supplied all the shoes worn on this coast, and it is a matter of considerable surprise to me that the American shoe manufacturers have not long ago looked into this trade.

"The people here have had to put up for years with the poorest qualities of anything that was an improvement on what they had been, for lack of better goods, forced to wear. There are two American firms here that sell shoes at retail: but, strange as it may seem, at neither of their establishments can a pair of American shoes be found. I have had several talks with these people and have persuaded them to add American shoes to the lines they al-

"As the climate of this country is hot and dry, and as the rainfall is very scanty, light boots and shoes are mostly worn by the inhabitants. I am confident that light shoes of American make, made of black calf, russet calf, white canvas and patent leather, on the ordinary broad and medium toe lasts, will meet with a ready sale here. Laced boots and shoes seem to be preferred to all other kinds. In shipping goods to this port American manufacturers should draw upon the consignees for the amounts due. The drafts should always be attached to the bills of lading, to be delivered by the local bank after the draft has been paid."

MEN FOR HOUSEWORK.

Chicago Solution of the Vexed Servant Girl Problem. Men for housework, both light and heavy, are now in demand at the employment agencies in Chicago. In many of the residence districts families have recently been taking their meals at restaurants through inability to secure women cooks, says the New York World. Now such as these are hiring men.

Superintendent Sailor of the state agency said: "We are placing men for that they can get men, therefore accept them. Others plainly say that they would rather have a man.

Honors For Herbert Speacer.

Six great universities have offered to confer their highest degrees upon Herbert Spencer and several governments have tendered him decorations, but he has consistently declined all such honors. He is now 79 years old, and his fame is worldwide, but he is plain Herbert Spencer. Mr. Spencer, according to a writer in The Popular Science Monthly, has been prompted year after year to decline these various honors by the conviction that, instead of being, as commonly supposed, encourage ments to literature and science, they are discouraging. "He contends that they constitute a system of inverse handicapping. In physical competitions it is usual to give the younger a certain artificial advantage when they are set against the elder, but in these mental competitions between the rising men and the men who have risen, the reverse practice is followed-the men who have risen have an artificial advantage, and the younger men, who of necessity have much to struggle against, have difficulties artificially increased by the absence of titles which

LABORI IS CRITICISED.

Event of Adverse Verdict.

General Opinion That Dreyfus Will Be Condemned.

Emphatic Declarations That Germany Had No Dealings With Dreyfus.

Rennes, Sept. 9 .- According to the this afternoon, the court adjourning after Maitre Demange's speech until 3

There is some criticism of Maitre Labori's decision not to speak, the friends of Maitre Demange thinking it his object in the event of a verdict of condemnation, Maitre Demange, having once seen Dreyfus condemned under his advocacy, would naturally like to have Maitre Labori to share the criticism this time, especially as Maitre Labori has assumed such a prominent part in the procedings.

That Captain Dreyfus will be condemned is the almost universal opinion heard in Rennes. Hitherto there had always been a divergence, but now both camps, the Dreyfusards and the anti-Dreyfusards, seem unanimous in the conviction that the verdict will go

Upon just what this is based, and the precise reason for the conclusion are a mystery, but there is no disguising the fact that, from Maitre Labori down to the numerous Dreyfusards, who crowd the hotels and onfes, and who last night were still hopeful that Dreyfus would be saved, all seem now to agree that his last chance is gone.

The one source of hope is Maitre La-bori himself, who said last evening to the correspondent of The Associated "We fear that Captain Dreyfus will be condemned, but we do not intend to throw up the sponge. We shall go on fighting for him."

M. Jaures, the Socialist leader, and other prominent Dreyfusards, expressed a similar opinion. Excitement is at a fever heat, and nothing is discussed but

A strong force of gendarmes guarded the approaches to the building where the meeting was held, and the orders were to arrest the first man who raised a seditious cry. Nothing, however, occurred.

Indeed, the indabitants of the town seemed indifferent and the neighborhood of the Lycee and the prison is deserted, save for a few gendarmes.

UPWARD TENDENCY OF PRICES

The Fea'ure of the Business Situation---Scarcity of Steel and Iron Produc s.

New York, Sept. 9.—Bradstreet's says: fall demand, large railroad earnings, reports of heavy lake traffic and of activity in leading industries are the features still presenting themselves in the trade situation this week. Expansion in fall demand is perhaps most notable at the leading western and northwestern markets, but advices from eastern markets furnish evidence that active interest is manifested at these centers. The price situation is one of notable strength, the events of the week having accentuated in many cases the advances shown during August. Cereals are generally higher. The only changes in the iron and steel situation are in an upward direction as to prices. Complaints of latest report, the verdict in the Dreyfus behind-hand supplies and scarcity of case may be delivered between 3 and 5 material are still made. Work has in many instances, notably in shipbuilding, been delayed by backward deliveries of steel. Some improvement in the position of anthracite coal is reported.

Good demand has evidently had the effect of strengthening raw wool prices, which are firm as a whole and slightly to escape his share of the responsibility higher for the finer grades. Crop damage reports have been again the important feature in cotton this week, and prices are higher as a result, in face of very heavy receipts at most southern points.

Telegrams from lake ports say that tonnage is scarce with rates tending higher. One result of this has been the from the northwest to the east from lake to all-rail routes Further strength is to be noted in dairy > Suffrage Is Practically Restricted to Whites.

> Steps Already Taken and Under Way to Disfranchise the Negroes.

Washington, Sept. 9 .- By the federal census of 1890, there were then 1,750,000 colored men in the United States of voting age, and in the presidential election of 1896 a majority of them were allowed by law to exercise the privilege of franchise. Two states only at that time-Mississippi, in January, 1891, and South Carolina, in December, 1895-had adopted constitutional amendments practically restricting the suffrage to white voters. Since then Louisiana has amended its constitution to the same effect, and up to a few months ago it seemed probable that Alabama, in which a constitutional convention had been called, would do likewise, thereby extending to the three gulf states in which the colored population is largest the same method of susdeflection of considerable lumber shipped | pending the provisions of the 14th amendment to the federal constitution. The plan proposed for Alabama, however, was halted, and now agitation for restriction to voting has been turned from conditions still affect butter prices, while the gulf states to those of the middle Atlantic, and in two of them, North Carolina and Virginia, the opponents of negro suffrage are active, with every present prospect that before long Maryland, and possibly West Virginia, will be included in the controversy. In North Carolina, in which there are 100,000 colored voters and 200,000 white voters, the fight for negro disfranchisement turns on the proposed suffrage amendment to the constitution adopted by the last legislature, and intended to eliminate from politics henceforth all colored voters of the Tar Heel State. This proposed amendment is to be submitted to the voters at the election of August, 1900, three months in advance of the presidential election. The salient features of the measure are contained in the fourth and fifth sections, which provide that "every person presenting himself for registration shall be able to read and write any section of the constitution in the English language, and that no male person who was on Jan. 1, 1867, or at any time prior thereto, entitled to person, shall be denied the right to regiseducational qualifications described in section 4 of this article, provided he shall have registered in accordance with the terms of this section prior to Dec. 1, 1908. The general assembly shall provide for a permanent record of all persons who registered before this section on or before Nov. 1, 1908, and all such persons shall be entitled to register and vote at all elections by the people in this state. All the indications point to the adoption of the amendment by a sweeping majority. Neither does the opposition to the constitutional amendment include al the colored voters of the state. Some favor it; a larger number are entirely indifferent.

In Virginia there is a similar agitation for a change in the existing voting laws, not, however, in the form of a proposed Lowe, 2 b...... not, however, in the form of a proposed amendment to the constitution, but by summary act of the next Richmond legislature. The proportion of colored voters of the Republican party in Virginia is distributed throughout the whole state, and the party contains many men of business and social influence, more particularly in the cities of Richmond, Norfolk, Lynchburg and Newport News. Protection sentiment is much stronger in Virginia than it is in North Carolina, and the white Republicans of Virginia, a state traditionally close in national contests, and a state, too, in which Populists are few, are not likely to accept with equanimity a measure which will be certain to reduce their influence and make Virginia for many years to come a solidly Democratic state. Nevertheless the agitation for white "suffrage, sovereignty and supremacy" is going on actively in Virginia. In Maryland, where the number of colored voters is much less than in either of subject of the government to be es- the other two states named, or only about one-fifth of the total electorate, port, and started for Washington to the demand for negro disfranchisement present it to the president. Littlewood Phillips had been in love with Mildred Farrington for two years, ever since he first met her at the Hallowells' card party. He had no good reason to doubt that his love was returned, yet so fearful was he that he had misread her feelings, so much did he dread her refusal of his suit, that he had never hinted that she was more to him than any of the girls he met at the church sociables and card parties in Newington. Innumerable chances for a declaration of love had offered themselves, for he was a regular caller at the Farrington mansion, but this youth was as devoid of spunk as a bare and was no nearer the goal of his desires today than he had been when Cupid first aimed his dart at him.

So matters stood when a snowfall that brought sleighing in its wake visited Newington, and Littlewood be came conscious of the fact that he had actually asked Miss Farrington to take a ride with him. Of course he must perforce bring matters to a crisis now. He was afraid that Judge Farrington would be asking his intentions, and it would be humiliating to have such a question come before he could refer him to the girl for an answer. No; beyond a doubt he must pluck up enough courage to ask her to be his wife or else cease calling upon her, an alternative that was hideous enough to chill his heart.

The evening was soon at hand. A crescent moon shone in the east and the stars were cold and scintillating. He walked to the livery stable and asked for the cutter, and a few minutes later he was driving a handsome chestnut to the house where his thought spent most of the time. Miss Farrington kept him waiting a good half hour, but he reflected that it was the privilege of her glorious sex, and it only made him love her the more. If she had come out and placed her dainty foot upon his neck he would have been overcome with rap-In fact, in his present state, which had also been his state for 24 months, Littlewood was not many removes from a calf.

It was cold waiting, so be got out and hitched his horse and paced in front of her house, her faithful sentinel until death-if need be. Not that there was any reason to think that his services would be required, but it pleased his self love to imagine himself dying for this lovely being of whom his tongue stood in such awe that it could scarce loose itself in her presence.

At last she appears. The restive horse slants his ears at her and paws the ground in admiration of her beauty, for Mildred was as pretty as regular features, a fair skin and melting eyes could make her.

Littlewood handed her into the sleigh, stepped in himself, tucked in the robes and chirryned to the horse. That intelligent animal did not move. A flush of mortification overspread the face of the would be amorous swain. A balky horse, and at the start! What chance would he have to deliver his precious message that was to make two hearts happy? He clicked again to the horse, but again the horse continued to stand still.

"You might unhitch him, Mr. Phillips. That would help." said Mildred in her sweet voice.

"Oh, yes-t-to be sure! I must have tied him. I mean I-er-I di-I think I did hitch-er"-

"There seems to have been a hitch somewhere," she answered.

He stepped out of the sleigh and looked over his shoulder at her in a startled way. Could she mean anything? Was this encouragement? Oh, no! It was too soon. (Too soon, and he had been in love two years!) He unhitched the horse and once more placed himself beside his loved one. The frosty night seemed to have set a seal upon her lips, for as they sped over the crunching snow and left the town behind them she was silent.

"I must have offended her. I've probably made a break of some kind," said Littlewood to himself. "How unfortunate! But I must tell her tonight. It is now or never. This attention is too marked to pass as a mere courtesy of the winter season. She knows I never took anybody but my mother sleigh riding before.

Then began a process of nerving himself to the avowal. He ground his knees together until the bones ached. His breathing was feverish.

"Mum - Mildewed - I mean Mildred." And then he stopped. He had never called her Mildred before. He had never called her Mildewed, either, but that was accidental, and he hoped that she had not noticed the slip.

"I have something of the greatest importance to say to you.

Did he imagine it or did she nestle closer to him? He must have been mistaken, and to show that he was quite sure he edged away from her as much junior society.) as the somewhat narrow confines of the sleigh would allow. "What do you wish to say, Mr. Phil-

That settled it. If she didn't underin particular, he must be very blind in his utterance, and he could never trust death under Domitian or Nerva. his tongue to carry such a heavy freight as a declaration of love. No, there was nothing to do but postpone it. After all, her house was the best place for it.

The horse sped on past mantled meadows and through pine woods full of filtered moonlight, and Mildred drank in the beauty of the scenes and wished that it were decorous for women to propose

The night was ravishing, the sleighbells jingled harmoniously, the horse swept on with steady, rhythmic stride, and under the influence of sweet surroundings Mildred at last said pointedly, "Is it so that more people get engaged in winter than in summer?" She blushed as she spoke. It was unmaidenly, but he was such a dear gump. Now not know the capabilities for self repression of her two year admirer.

He said to himself: "What a slip, what a delightful slip! If I were unprincipled, I would take advantage of it and propose, but I would bitterly reproach myself forever, whatever her anewer was." Signs From Dreams.

"When men and women find themselves dreaming of their work, it's a pretty safe sign that they are run down," explained a well known physician to a reporter, "and they should begin to build up; otherwise serious consequences are likely to follow. The ordinary worker cannot stand it long if he or she has to work during her sleeping as well as her waking hours, for it is a clear case of burning the candle at both ends.

"The treatment I usually advise is a change of work and of food and a general building up by the use of tonics, being particular to avoid the use of sitmulants or excitants in any form. A few days' recreation is also absolutely necessary, and a change of air is normal condition. People, as a rule, seldom dream of their work unless they are out of shape physically, and the they should be to have perfect health."

His training was therefore decidedly Jewish when Was it only for the ride and not for his Paul and Barnabas were in Lycaonia company that she had come? Oh, he (Acts xiv, 6). Timothy and his mothcould never make an avowal of love er received the gospel with "unfeigned after that! He knew his place. This faith." Seven years later, when Paul smoke. The house was built for the beautiful girl was not for a faint heart- returned and Timothy had grown to young manhood, he was set apart to the work of an evangelist. He then became a companion and colaborer with Paul Mildred turned her gazellelike eyes and was signally consecrated and devoted. Later he was stationed at Ephesus to check the heresies and licentiousness of the Ephesian church. Tradition says stand him when he talked of nothing that he continued here as pastor of the church of Ephesus and died a martyr's In what did Timothy resemble a Junior Endeavorer?

1. Timothy's religious training be gan in his childhood. That Timothy might stand steadfast in the faith amid the heresies of Ephesus Paul reminded him that, "from a babe thou hast known the Holy Scriptures, which are able to make thee wise unto salvation, through faith which is in Christ Jesus." The Junior Endeavorer begins early to be religiously trained and taught, and the Holy Scriptures should be his principal religious textbook. He should begin early to commit God's word to memory.

2. Timothy as an early Endeavorer had good teachers. Paul speaks of those of whom Timothy had learned his religious truths. Whether the apostle refers he would declare himself. But she did to the Holy Spirit, to himself or Timothy's mother and grandmother is a matter of difference of opinion. But Timothy was taught by all. The Holy Parkersburg, W. Va. The children Ghost taught him, Paul taught him, and his dear ones taught him. They understood what they taught and whom they taught. They knew the Holy Scriptures and understood child life, which every successful teacher of children must do. They taught by example as well as precept. Paul, Eunice and Lois exemplified to Timothy the Scriptural truths which they taught him. No one should presume to train children unless he knows what he teaches, whom he teaches and exemplifies in his own life

3. Timothy was a working Endeavorer. He soon developed evangelistic talent and was placed on that committee and was a great success as a missionary and an evangelist. Juniors must work as well as be taught.

4. Timothy's life was molded and determined by the early training he received. Junior work is a failure unless it produces character. A Christian character should be the aim of all Junior work, and Christ should be the great model, constantly held up before all Endeavorers.

True Friendship.

True friendship is born from true paracter. He or she who is true to self is true to everybody. Those who prove themselves to be always loyal, always he said, and turned so quickly that he true, frank and upright toward us, yet kind-not afraid to compliment us and not afraid to reprove us for our own "Yes, when one is accountable to good-are what Alcott beautifully terms them, "The leaders of the bosom, being more ourselves that we are, and we compliment our affections in theirs." Love is the synonym of God, and friendship is so closely akin to it that love clothes it in its own beauty. If we were more earnest in exercising the true Could Mildred love him if he gave spirit of religion, true friendship would not be such a rare thing, and he world would be made the brighter and truer. -Julia Teresa Butler in Catholic Uni-

His Name.

There is an old legend of an enchanted cup filled with poison and put treacherously into a king's hand. He signed the sign of the cross and named the name of God over it, and it shivered in his grasp. Do you take this name of the Lord as a test? Name Him over many a cup which you are eager to drink of. and the glittering fragments will lie at your feet and the poison be spilled on the ground. What you cannot lift before His pure eyes and think of Him while you enjoy, is not for you. - Alexander Maclaren, D. D.

The Ingenuousness of Childhood.

Children are single minded an dsimple. The ingenuousness of childhood is one of its charms. Insincerity and pretense are foreign to the child, and its life is a transparent one. In this respect we all need to become as little children. The shams with which our life is filled should be flung away. The deceptions of foolish pride should be dropped, and we should live one with another in the simplicity of childhood. Only thus may we know the happiness that belongs to none but the absolutely honest. - Evan-

FOR LITTLE FOLKS.

LITTLE FOLKS AT HOME. The Unique Playhouse Owned by

Three Lucky Ohio Children. Here is a very unique and complete early Christian Endeavorer. A study of little playhouse owned by three of our bis training, character and life will boys and girls, who are seen in the prove the wisdom of the selection of picture, says the Cincinnati Commer-Yimothy as an early endeavorer. He cial Tribune. It is the property of Selby C. Fulks, Royellah Fuiks and ther was a Greek and probably died | Charley Fulks, aged respectively 15, 13

As you can see, it is built of logs, after the fashion of the original settraining of Timothy devolved upon his tlers' cabins in the Ohio valley, and the chimney is what is known as a "lathe and daubing" chimney-small sticks of wood piled up in the desired shape and plastered inside with clay, making a serviceable and safe exit for children by their father, Mr. Frank

"THE OLD FOLKS AT HOME." Fulks, who is an express messenger em ployed by the United States Express company. Mr. Fulks lived in Blanchester, O., when this clever little house was put up, in 1892, and he built it in his spare time, when home from his "run" between Cincinnati and were considerably smaller than they are now when their father erected the house for them in the back yard of their Blanchester home, and they naturally took great interest in it. While the outside is made of logs, the interior has a ceiling, is papered, has a serviceable grate, a mantel and pictures on the wall, with all the furniture-chairs, tables, carpets, etc.-that one would need for "light housekeeping." The dimensions of the house are six feet wide, eight feet long and five feet high, and it stands just one square from the depot at Blanchester. It is a great curiosity for the young people of that section, and for the old as well. The Fulks now live at 321 Park street, Cin- OPPOSITE FOUNTAIN, cinnati, but Mr. Fulks still keeps his property at Blanchester, as the children think too much of their playhouse to let him dispose of it. A Smart Mouse.

At the end of the bathing season of 1898 a candle was left on the mantelpiece of a family in Pouliguen, France. When they returned this spring, they found, according to La Nature, that & mouse had done these things:

Climbed somehow a marble chimney piece, there being no piece of furniture near enough to leap from and no way of descending from above.

Climbed the candlestick itself, which was of highly polished silver, over ten inches high, with a broad flare at the Chickens With Croup. The small girl who was in the country for the first time since she was of an age to take serious observations was much interested in a lot of little ducks in a neighbor's yard. She was more acquainted with infantile weaknesses than with barnyards; so, being-a clever little woman, she put her wits to work and soon solved the problem as to why the quacking of the ducks was so different from the peeping of the chickens.

"Mamma," she said when she went home, "I have just seen a lot of little chickens with the croup."

Why Cats Wash After Eating. You may have noticed, little friends That cats don't wash their faces Before they eat, as children do, In all good Christian places.

Well, years ago a famous cat, The pangs of hunger feeling, Had chanced to catch a fine young mouse, Who said as he ceased squealing:

Before they think of eating!" And, wishing to be thought well bred, Puss heeded his entreating. But when she raised her paw to wash, Chance for escape affording, The sly young mouse said his goodby, Without respect to wording.

"All genteel folks their faces wash

Johnny's Logic. "Mamma, if I had a hat before I had this one, it's all right to say that's the hat I had had, isn't it?"

"Certainly, Johnny." "And if that hat once had a hole in it, and I had it mended, I could say it had had a hole in it, couldn't I?"

"Yes, there would be nothing incorrect in that." "Then it would be good English to say that the hat I had had had a hole in it wouldn't it?"

Rocking Beautifles Women.

An Outgrown Ideal.

There have been some salutary changes during the long reign of Queen Victoria, one of which is casually treated by a London journal. Remarking that fainting was quite the fashion among women when her majesty came to the British throne, it says: "It was proper for an engaged young lady to swoon away if she received a letter containing the news of her lover having sprained his leg. The queen was thought too insensible because her voice did not falter when she announced to the house of commons her engagement to Prince Albert. Consumptive heroines were best liked by novel readers. Girls took a pride in being in poor health. They used to talk of their ailments as they now talk of the bike and golf."

The pierced cloth is seen in capes, and the long stole ends which have been seen in different forms are to be found on the most dressy mantles Lace bows are at the necks of rich capes with ends falling to the knees. and on more severe garments double faced satin ribbon is used.

BROCKTON'S BIG FAIR.

It Will Be Worth Traveling Miles to See.

TO BE HELD FROM OCT. 4 TO 7.

Not a Mere Cattle Show, but Something That Will Interest Farmer and Merchant Alike-Horse Racing a Particular Feature.

Twenty six years ago the Brockton Agricultural Society made its bow to the public and asked for consideration at the hands of the amusement loving people. It started through the public spiritedness of a few private parties who were willing to give their time and money that and 15 Tremont row, Boston. others might have an opportunity of see-ing each fail what was being done in the industrial and farming world and incidentally have a taste of the novelties not provided in everyday life. The first Fair was opened to the public with little blowing of trumpets or sounding of tymbals. It was an experiment, but one which in a single year leaped to an assured success. There have been in times past and are today people who are prone to sneer at the oft repeated statement that the Brockton Fair was established for the sole purpose of giving pleasure to others and that shrewd business men would risk their money and give their valuable time to the promotion of an enterprise which could never bring them one cent in return. These people are undoubtedly sincere, but they are just as truly ignorant of the facts. In the articles of incorporation under which the Brockton Agricultural Society was organized it is provided that no dividends shall ever be paid to the stockholders. Every cent realized was to be used in the improvement of the grounds and the enlargement of the show. Year after year this liberal policy has been carried out until today innova- and as smooth as a toboggan slide. since passed the experimental age.

on Wednesday, Oct. 4. Apropos to the society's method of do-ing business, it might be related that a horse owner and driver well known throughout the country entered at the Brockton Fair in 1897. It was his first visit. Referring to the show on the I have spent my entire life at fairs and followed to the stable at the conclusio of a race and given the order for the money I had won.

DON'T FORGET THE MIDWAY.

Everything There Interesting, From the Showman to the Lunchman.

A visit to the Brockton Fair, Oct. 4, 5, 6 and 7, without a walk down the Midway would be like pudding without the sauce. There is no outdoor show in the country where so many of the lusty announcers of novelties can be found, and the stretch from the main entrance gate to the grand stand will be lined with the tents of the omnipresent showman and his less vigorous brother, the lunchman There are proprietors of these shows who have made it a point to visit the Brockton Fair for years, and, no matter how several thicknesses of newspaper, with other places, Brockton has always proved the ends tightly twisted together to a Klondike. MOON'S PHASES.

4 10:33 | Full Moon

The very expensive and costly souvenir edition of the Quincy Patriot, which has taken constant work of canvassers, photograhers, engravers and printers for months to complete, is now ready for patrons.

"Quite a large edition has been published, and it will be sold at the low price of 30 cents per copy. When eight or more copies are furnished to one person, the price will be 25 cents. Although the edition is large it will, very likely, be soon exhausted, when no more can be had at any price, as no second edition will be issued.

The publishers will furnish to every subscriber to the Quincy Patriot, whose name appears on their books, one copy of the Souvenir gratis. This will take a larger part of the edition; therefore those thinking of getting copies for themselves or friends should attend to it at once. The pamphlet weighs between one and two pounds, and Postmaster Hammond says the postage will be eleven cents. A copy will be mailed to every subscriber living out of the city, who will send his or her name and postage. Subscribers living in the city will receive them by carriers. If any one fails to receive a copy, please call at the Patriot office for one.

Copies are for sale at the new South Station in Boston and at the drug store of the late A. R. Dickinson principal news stands in Quincy.

Poor Boston! All her pretense stands at last revealed. A Washington newspaper man has made a personal investigation and has found that "Boson is one of the most provincial cities in the Union. > William Joseph Young of Randolph, who made a murderous assault upon Benjamin F. Coolbroth, with a hammer at Tileston & Co.'s shoe manufactory at Randolph last Saturday from the effects of which Coolbroth died ater, was arraigned in the District ourt at Quincy this morning upon a warrant charging him with marder.

Catherine A. Mahoney and Emma ones, two girls employed in the room where the assault took place were the only witnesses to the assault. They testified that Coolbroth was stooping over writing upon a box when Young ook a claw hammer, from where it hung upon the wall and struck Coolbroth a blow upon the top of the head, which caused him to fall, without a ery, unconscious to the floor. Young then struck the prostrate man five more blows with the hammer. Three of these blows were on the side of the face and two upon the forehead.

Young then took his hat and coat and ran from the shop. There was no conversation previous to the assault The girls screamed and the others at work in the room rushed up. Coolbroth's brother-in-law was the first to each the prostrate man, and he raised him up from the floor. Dr. Allen, the first physician called estified that he examined the injured man at his home, which was near the shop where the assault was committed. He had just commenced his examination when Dr. Chase came in and they worked together. He found a severe wound on the top of the head which had broken through the skull

There was also one over the left eye which had also crushed in the skull. Coolbroth had three convulsions but after we raised the bone from the orain he had no more. He died about o'clock Sunday morning. Death was lue to concussion of the brain.

Medical Examiner F. E. Jones of Quincy testified to making an examinaion and also described the wounds on The skull was forced in he head. that it pressed on the brain. The blow over the left brow was the worst. The plows were evidently caused by a ound blunt instrument which left its mpression on the skull. The hammer was tried on the impression and it tted exactly. The young man was about 27 years of age of robust health with no sign of disease about him, and he only cause for his death was the olows on the head.

Dr. Chase also described the wounds on the head. The blow on the top of the head which was probably the first olow was not necessarily fatal. The plow over the eye crushed the brain substance and was the blow that eaused death.

Young was not represented by ounsel and did not desire to ask the witnesses any questions. When asked by the court if he wished to testify he replied that be did not. He was held without bail for the grand jury.

She was a pretty girl of 23 summers. She wore a stunning white hat. She had a sweet voice and a winning smile, and she took them in. It was during the late morning hours of Saturday 101 that she walked into Hartwell's news store and selecting some dainty writing materials she had the made into a neat package. She toyed gently with the package and looking over some of the atest periodicals, selected a few and had them done up in a separate package. Then coyly glancing at the clerk said: "I am Miss Holmes and I live in the Harris house on Gay street. Please lay the magazines one side and will come in later and pay for them. Certainly said the clerk, as she gave her a side glance as she departed and lighted another cigarette.

From here the miss went to Mis Brooks parlors in the Savings Bank block, where she had her nails manicured and head shampooed. This over, she murmured something about getting a check cashed, and would return in a few moments and pay for her work. She now looked sweeter than ever, and headed for Hartwell's store again. Once more she entered and afte again looking over the magazines added two more to her bundle and said as she departed I will return in a few minutes and get them. She engaged the clerk in conversation, in the course of which she said she was a member of the Wollaston Golf club. Golf is the proper thing now, you know, and one is not cor sidered to be in the swim unless they play golf. Don't you play? Well you should take it up at once. Come down some afternoon and I should be pleased to show you the rudiments of the game. Thank you, I will, replied the of the door.

The Granite Shoe store was the next place visited. Here she bought a pair of Sorosis shoes which she had fitted to her shapely foot. After these were done up in a parcel she selected a pair of $1 children's shoes. Then smiling at the manager, she said, "I am Miss Holmes and I live in the the children's shoes home to try them on, for I want to be sure they fit I call him "Mister." will leave the Sorosis shoes here and will eturn soon and pay for them and the children's shoes.

Where the young miss then went is mystery. Whether she made any more purchases has not as yet been learned, for the returns are not all in. As the afternoon hours wore away, and the young lady did not return, it began to lawn upon the clerks that they had been taken in. Later inquiry was made on Gay street but old residents of that tinguished. street did not know of any Miss Holmes that had lived on that stree within their recollection. At last accounts the parcels were still waiting in needle-work, will celebrate its reto be called for.

This morning it was learned that the girl called upon the Misses Flynn and purchased a lot of articles which were done up in separate bundles. One bundle she took with her and the other she left until she called later and when she would pay for all. She also gave the same name here as at the other stores When Miss Flynn went home in the early evening she took the second parcel thinking she would deliver it and save the girl from coming for it. Miss Flynn found the Harris house on by then name of Holmes.

Soon all were indulging in the many good things which caterer Lee had provided. Mr. Joseph Lee knows how to serve his guests in an acceptable manner, and his occasion was no exception to his general rule.

After all had indulged to thei heart's desire, Mr. Graham rapped for order, and invited Councilman Hultman placed on file. to tell one of his stories, for which he is so famous. The Captain did it in good shape and brought out a hearty applause. He alluded in his remarks to Councilman Packard, who was the

He admired the car on the Boston, Milton & Brockton street railway. He noticed it was free from the numerous signs, which he had seen so conspicuous in other cars. He said the advertisements should be put into the ocal papers instead of being posted in the cars.

President Graham before calling on ther speakers, alluded to the rapid advancement of the street raliways, and the demands that the public was calling for on the different lines. It was with difficulty that the management could supply the wants of the travelling public. Only a few years ago the Quincy Daily Ledger announced that the Quincy & Boston carried 2,700 passengers in one day. An immense usiness! and so it was. But, perhaps, ome of you gentlemen would hardly believe it, but the same road carried one day recently 40,000. The road is gaining at the rate of 10 per cent., and you can readily see the disadvantages the Superintendent must necessarily labor under, unless he has modern cars, double tracks and all the other requisites needed to meet it. The president then invited Councilman Shea to preside. In taking the position he made a few opening remarks and then called on City Treasurer Burke for a speech. Mr. Burke thanked the president for the privilege of being present on this delightful occasion. He made quite a lengthy address, which appeared to Telephone, 1836, Boston. may20 tf

Call For Nations to Boycott the Paris Exhibition In 1900.

Would Be a Return For the Prostitution of Justice.

Many Intending to Participate Announce the Withdrawal of Their Exhibits.

Halifax, Sept. 12 .- J. W. Longley, atorney general of Nova Scotia, issued a letter today in which he vigorously denounces the second condemnation of Dreyfus and urges the nations of the world to join in a general boycott of the Paris exhibition. Mr. Longley says:

"The fabric upon which social exist ence rests is justice. Every poor human being that is called upon to tread this earth for a longer or shorter period is each moment at the mercy of the stronger power of his fellow beings, and his only capacity to enjoy life and avail himself of its opportunities rests upo the conviction that he shall receive justice at the hands of those with whom his destiny is limited.

"It is not surprising, therefore, that the world should stand aghast at the spectacle of a human being condemned absolutely without evidence, after a pub lic trial, in the face of the whole world condemned, indeed, in the face of the fact that the evidence pointed almost conclusively to his innocence. At all events, it established beyond question that his former conviction was the result of forgery, falsehood and conspiracy. "The public opinion of the world has a right to make itself heard and felt in this and every matter which outrages the sense of justice.

"It seems to me that the means are at hand to make France instantly and keenly sensible of the moral consequences of this prostitution of justice. A great world's fair is to be held at Paris in the year 1900. All the nations of the world have been invited to participate in this great exposition, and most of the great nations of the world have engaged to be there, Great Britain, the United one of cavalry. About half the requisite with the purpose of excluding Italian States and Canada among the number. My proposition is that, in view of this infamous moral turpitude of the French people, sanctioned by the government and upheld by the mob, the other nations of the world should one by one refuse to participate in this great centennial show. "They could very well allege that they were afraid to trust their representatives in a country where an innocent man can be condemned without a shadow of evidence and without any manly protest from the nations at large."

Thousands Will Stay at Home. Washington, Sept. 12.-Representative

Grosvenor of Ohio, who has just reurned from Europe, where he spent part of the time in Paris, when asked by a Post reporter if the Dreyfus verdict would hurt the Paris exposition, replied: Beyond a doubt. No nation can afford o boycott the exposition as a nation insult to France, but individuals can express their opinion, and, in my judgment thousands who would otherwise have visited Paris will remain on this side, This will touch the French in a tender spot. The French people are looking forward to making a great deal of money out of the show. It is a good thing that the appropriation for the exposition has been made. Congress would hardly be in the mood now to appropriate money.'

The Feeling In England.

Newcastle-on-Tyne, Sept. 12 .- W. D. Stevens, a ship owner and royal commissioner to the Paris exposition, has declared that as a result of the Dreyfus verdict he will not put his foot on French soil. He adds that thousands of his countrymen will do the same. Several important firms here have already declined to exhibit at Paris.

To the surprise of many not a person appeared in favor.

W. G. A. Pattee, Esq., appeared for the abutters on Alleyne street, as remonstrants. They had prepared a remonstrance which he read. All but one abutter had signed. The proposed location would be more dangerous for carriage driving and also car passengers than Adams street. Adams street had never been built to its full width, and he saw no reason why it should not be It was a 50 foot street, whereas Alleyne street was 32 feet. The West End had no such bad curves. If Hancock street The Committee on Sewers reported was double tracked it would be im-favorable as the order establishing the possible to turn from the westerly sewer assessment a twelve cents per track into Alleyne street.

James B. Walker, an abutter, objected because Alleyne street was too narrow, and because it would be more Local Brevities of the City of dangerous than Adams street.

Charles Field of Adams street objected. It would not be as safe a location as Adams street. Did not think it would be right to make the order for $5,000 for extending the change.

Death Caused by a Blow.

Narragansett Pier, R. I., Sept. 12 .-The medical examiner's report on the somewhat mysterious death of Frank H. Shaw, the Brooklyn car inspector, has been forwarded to the attorney general by Medical Examiner Burns. Shaw's body was found on Scarborough Beach, Aug. 11, one hand and a leg being tied together. The report says that Shaw met his death from a blow, inflicted by persons unknown to the examiner; that the killing was the result of a fight, rather than deliberate, and that the man was killed prior to being thrown into the water. The testimony proved that the tide could have carried the body from the middle of the channel of the bay to the beach where it was found.

Parisians Now See Want of Logic In the Verdict.

Sobered by Thought of Heavy Loss by Possible Boycott of Exhibition.

Paris, Sept. 12.—The Aurore publishes this morning a long letter from M. Emile Zola, the novelist, which is a pendant to his famous "J'Accuse" letter in the early stages of the Dreyfus revision movement.

EMILE ZOLA.

M. Zola entitles his article "The good exhibitions of fielding. Fifth Act." After describing his horror on hearing the verdict, which he re gards as a moral Sedan, he accuses the army chiefs of having crushed Dreyfus in order to save themselves from prison, and makes an appeal to the government, which, he says, will return to France the honor she has lost by the Rennes verdict, a verdict that he describes as a most extraordinary attempt against truth and justice." He asserts that he knew positively in January of last year that Esterhazy was the real traitor, the latter having furnished Colonel Schwartzkoppen with numerous documents-many in his own handwriting-a complete collection of which is now in Berlin.

"Since then," he says, "I have lived in terror lest Germany should strike us with the proofs in her possession, thus dishonoring our army in the face of Europe, in order to vanquish it easily af-terward." The article concludes as

"The ministry, which its agents have betrayed, the ministry which had the weakness to leave big children with muddled minds to play with matches 2. given, and that will be the fait nouveau (new fact), which will necessitate a second revision before the court of cassation, which would be this time, I hope, fully informed, and would quash the verdict sans renvoi, in the plentitude of its sovereign majesty.

"But, if the government were to recoil again, the defenders of justice and truth will do what is necessary. Not one of us will desert his post. Proof, invincible proof, we shall finally end by obtaining. On Nov. 23 we shall be at Versailles. My trial will recommence, inasmuch as it. meanwhile, justice is not done, we will again help to do it. My beloved, my valiant Labori, whose honor has but increased, will, therefore, pronounce at Versailles the address which he was unable to pronounce at Rennes, and it is very simple. Nothing will be lost. "As for me, I shall not be silent. He will merely have to utter the truth without fear of injuring me, for I am ready to pay for it with my liberty and my Before the Seine assize court I swore to the innocence of Drevfus. The judges of the Dreyfus court-marpublic, through General Lucas, the commander of the army corps at Rennes, their sincere desire that Dreyfus shall not be submitted to a fresh degradation. The dossier of the Rennes court-martial proceedings arrived here last night for submission to the military court of revision. It is said that Mathieu Dreyfus intends to supplicate Emperor William to order the publication of the documents enumerated in the bordereau.

BRACED UP IN THE EIGHTH. The Champions, Aided by Errors of Tebeau's Men. Took the Game.

Boston, Sept. 12.-It was a listless and until late in the game an uninteresting victory that Boston won from St. Louis Up to the eighth inning the teams played as though they had little more to live for, but when the eighth came the Bostons braced and batted out a victory from Tebeau's followers. To this effort St. Louis added a few welcome errors to make things easier for the champions. Willis kept from yielding to the temptation to pitch a quality of ball above that necessary to win. Powell was fairly successful, but even he seemed affected by the disaffection. Childs' lusty batting was a bright spot in the game, while Long, Lowe and Cross kept warm with and blatant boastfulness. England paid to liberate our bodies and make a boast of her generosity at Exeter Hall and other places, where cant is most loud tongued. She liberated our bodies, but would chain our minds and bind our souls with cords that cut deeper and eave a more lasting scar than the shackles of the slave gang. Aye, Aye. But we are not yet quite dead. We are not even in a collapse. There is fight left in us yet, and there will be lively times if Mr. Chamberlain follows out Sir David Barbour's fatuous advice.

Naval Officers Changed.

Washington, Sept. 12.-The navy department has reached a final determination to assign Rear Admiral Farquhar to command the North Atlantic squadron, to succeed Admiral Sampson, and to place the latter in command of the Boston navy yard to fill the vacancy caused by the recent death of Admiral Picking. The transfer will take place Oct. 10. Rear Admiral Farquhar is one of the veteran officers of the navy, his service covering the Civil war, as well as the Spanish-American conflict. His last sea ervice was as commander of the Newark in 1896. His shore assignments have in cluded stations at the Boston navy yard, the League island navy yard, and since 1897 at the Norfolk navy yard. He was commissioned rear admiral March 3 last under the naval personnel bill.

Claims All Taken Up.

San Francisco, Sept. 12.-The steamer Bertha arrived last night from Alaskan ports with a large amount of treasure from the Arctic gold fields. The purser had in charge about $1,250,000 belonging QUINCY SECOND HAND to the Alaska Commercial company, and each one of the 68 passengers brought down considerable dust. The passengers all speak well of the Cape Nome district, and say that the claims there are extremely rich. Everything in sight has been taken up.

Murderer Chance Sentenced.

Boston, Sept. 12.-John H. Chance, convicted of the murder of Charles L. Russell, a drug clerk, in the apothecary store under the United States hotel on the night of April 4, 1898, was sentenced to the state prison for life by Judge Aiken in the superior criminal court of Suffolk county. There were only a few persons present and the occasion was devoid of anything of a sensational character.

May Demand an Inquiry.

Washington, Sept. 12.-Word has come that commander Taussig of the navy will arrive in the United States, from Manila, about the first of next month, and it is believed from what is said by his friends that he will promptly demand a court of inquiry. The officer was re-leived from the command of the Bennington by Admiral Watson, because of some free criticism on his part of the capability of the admiral.

Wants His Money Back. Waterbury, Conn., Sept. 12.-At the ast moment and after the wedding party had gathered at St. Joseph's Lithuanian church to witness the marriage of Adam Szeiquito and Catherine Maurozuito, the bride changed her mind and refused to be married. Szeiguito alleged that he gave his prospective bride money for her wedding outfit and now says he would like to get it back.

FIVE-YEAR FRANCHISE

Equality For British and Dutch In the Volksraad.

Definite Accep'ance of Proposal Is Demanded Without Delay.

London, Sept. 13.-A special dispatch from Pretoria says the British note, which was read in both raads Tuesday, is regarded there as a virtual ultimatum. The correspondent says:

Beef, Pork, Veal, Lamb and Poultry. It proposes a five-year franchise, quarter representation for the gold fields in the Volksraad, equality for the British and Dutch in the volksraad, and ALL FRUITS and VEGETABLES in their Season. equality for the old and new burghers in regard to presidential and other

In view of the fact, the note goes on to say, that the present state of affairs in South Africa cannot be prolonged. the definite acceptance of this proposal is demanded without delay. Otherwise her majesty's government will immediately take the whole situation under onsideration, and will act so as to oring about a settlement. The situation is acute.

The reading in the volksraad of the reply of Joseph Chamberlain to the latest Transvaal note was greeted with silence, except for some interruptions from Mr. Tosen and other ultra-conser vative members. Its terms, however, have produced considerable excitement

Various unofficial reports have been Miss C. S. Hubbard, eceived from Pretoria, predicting the Transvaal's acceptance of the terms of the latest dispatch, which is understood war, and the indications now are that to furnish a basis for negotiations, which will possibly lead to a peaceful settle-

> The Daily Friend of Bloemfontein says t has excellent authority for predicting that the government of the South African republic will accept the suggested also the appointment of the chiefs of the conference at Cape Town. Owing to the understanding that Mr. Chamberlain's note is to be published simultaneously in London and Pretoria, only an adequate summary has yet been telegraphed. The London papers are inclined to withhold comment until the text is available.

Despite the fact that the note is described as an ultimatum the balance of opinion tends to regard it as a rather moderate document, since, apparently it does not fix a definite time limit, leaves the real crux of the dispute for the proposed conference and does not raise the question of suzerainty. In a word, the note seems to leave the way open to fur-

The Times, which considers the summary obviously imperfect, says: It is but the vesse's were completely deincredible that all mention of suzerainty stroyed. and the others matters in controversy have been passed over or ignored. A special dispatch from Pietermaritzburg, capital of Natal, says: President Kruger, it is asserted in reliable quarters, is prepared to attend the proposed conference at Cape Town unconditionally, provided he is assured that Mr. Chamberlain's latest dispatch represents all that will be demanded by Great Britain. A peaceful solution, therefore, is highly probable.

A Murder Trial.

Norfolk country will have at the session of the Superior court at Dedham its first murder trial for seven years. The Grand Jury made its final report before Judge Dewey Tuesday. : An indictment was returned against Mrs. Mary E. Ross of Sharon, charged with killing her husband, John P. Ross, at Sharon, April 69.

Ross had been drinking heavily the day he was killed and had ill-treated his wife. While he was attempting to him. Mrs. Ross was indicted for manslaughter. The most important case considered by the Grand Jury during the term was that of John W. and Joseph E. Seery, charged with the murder of their mother, Mrs. Ellen Seery. A bill or murder was returned against both men. At the autopsy held upon the body of the dead woman it was found that she came to her death by being eaten and otherwise assaulted. The Seerys will be ararigned next week, but it is very probable that the case will not be tried for some time, probably

Tiger-Guess who it is?-New York

Journal. Prohibitionists In Session.

Worcester, Mass., Sept. 13.-The Prohibition state convention opened in As-sociation hall this morning. The busi-sanguine admirers never imagined that state ticket, the adoption of a platform and the appointment of a state com-mittee for next year. It is probable fighter won. that the same ticket will be put in the John L. Kilbon of Lee for lieutenant for a moment and he beat down Palmer's governor, Henry A. Victor Will Probably Meet Dixon and Gardner In the Near Future.

New York, Sept. 13 .- Terry McGovern of Brooklyn is the hero of the hour in pugilistic circles. He whipped "Pedlar" Palmer of London thoroughly and in double-quick time in the arena of the Westchester club, and thereby earned the title of bantam champion of the world, although both contestants were

TERRY M'GOVERN.

The Englishman, although forcing the pace at the outset, was really never in it from the word go, and McGovern simply battered his opponent into partial insensibility. The Brooklyn lad's arms worked like piston rods, and the punishment which he meted out to Palmer was swift and terrible.

The battle did not last quite one round, the actual time of fighting being 2 minutes and 32 seconds, with the end of which time Palmer was lying helpless, though half conscious, on the floor of the ring. Through the accidental ringing of the gong by the official timekeeper, the lads were separated when they had been himself. Young Forsythe may recover fighting one minute. Each went to his orner, but the error was rectified in less than 12 seconds and the boys resumed hostilities immediately at the command of Referee Siler. From the outset McGovern seemed to

The purse for Draper further says that he holds no which the lads contested was of the such views as he is purported to have value of $10,000, 75 percent of which went to the winner and the remainder to the oser. In addition to this both pugilists are guaranteed an interest in the privieges accruing from the pictures taken of the fight.

There were hundreds of sporting men from all over the United States, and a large number of the race track contingent was in evidence. When the boys entered the ring the attendance was estimated at 9000. The postponement of the fight from Monday until Tuesday, owing to the storm, was a hardship to the principals, as both of them were down to weight at 5 o'clock Monday morning. McGovern

Wealthy Jeweler Murdered.

New York, Sept. 13.—Paul Roechricht, wealthy jeweler of this city, was shot and killed at his summer place at North Plainfield, N. J., yesterday by Mrs. Peter Fingerhuth. Mrs. Fingerhuth and her husband have been arrested, and a son has been held as a witness. Roech richt employed Fingerhuth as a landcape gardener, but became dissatisfied with Fingerhuth's work and discharged him, and ordered him out of the hous ne occupied. The gardener refused to move, and the matter was to come be fore the court yesterday. Instead of appearing before the court, Fingerhuth went to New York, leaving his wife in charge. President Schurman Talks of Present Conditions and Possibilities of Future.

Ithaca, N. Y., Sept. 14.-President Schurman yesterday gave out a statement to the Associated Press on Philippine affairs, repeating the information in regard to the present conditions that should know the actual facts of the situation. The American public should understand them, whether they agree with or run counter to the public's wishes.

"First, it requires some effort to realize the vastness of the archipelago, which extends in triangular form through 16 degrees of latitude. Never going out into the Pacific ocean on the east nor the China sea on the west, I made a circuit of 2000 miles all south of Manila. This gives some idea of the difficulty of was elicited. naintaining an effective blockade, as the coastline of all the islands embraced in the archipelago is many more thous-

Other civilized Filipinos are neutral, except where they are coerced by armed bands of Tagalogs, who seized upon their governments during the making and ratification of our treaty of peace with Spain. It would be incorrect to assume, however, that these tribes are allies of ours. They are not. 8 cents. Indeed, they are not without suspicion of the white race, of which they have had experience only through Spain. But there are men of intelligence and prosperity, and the masses, when not stirred up by the Tagalogs, recognize the advantages to them of American sovereignty, and so remain passively neutral, although robber bands from time to time descend from the mountains to plunder and burn the estates of the eaceful inhabitants on the plains.

"Fourth, the insurrection, though se rious enough, as experience has proved, s not a national uprising. Indeed, there s no Philippine nation. As I have already said, there is a multifarious colection of tribes, having only this is common, that they belong to the Malayan race. The inhabitants of the archipelago no more constitute a nation than the inhabitants of the continent of Europe do.

"Fifth, the United States, having assumed, by a treaty of peace with Spain sovereignty over the archipelago, became responsible for the maintenance of peace and order, the administration of justice, the security of ife and property among all the tribes of the archiintelligent Filipinos, not less than the Italian parliament. foreign nations, expect us to fulfill. The fact that the responsibility is heavier than most people supposed it would be is no excuse for failure to dis- foundered. charge it. I repeat that the Philippine question is essentially a question of national honor and obligations."

In reply to an inquiry whether anything was now left but to fight it out, President Schurman said:

"In my opinion, much good would be congress of the form of government to official trip through New England. done by a declaration on the part of be established in the Philippine islands, or, better still, let congress establish a government for the Philippine islands and have it put in force in all parts and among all tribes hostile to the United States. This would serve several pur-It would distinguish between our friends and our enemies, and treat the former according to their deserts. it would also give to our enemies at ocular demonstration of free government on the American plan, a very imfor their liberty. And I had better call attention to the fact that the government which is well adapted to one tribe may need considerable modification to be available for another."

Asked about the capacity of the Filipino peoples to govern themselves, President Schurman replied that they had had no experience in self-government, except in municipal affairs, and even these were subject to the control of the Spanish authorities. He thought, however, that each tribe

President Schurman seemed firm in the conviction that some form of home rule for each of the tribes, and under the watchful supervision of the general government at Manila, was the solutio of the governmental problem in the Philippines. "Considering the marked intellectual capacity of the Filipinos and their admirable domestic and personal virtues," said Mr. Schurman, "imagination cannot easily set the limits to their progressive achievements under the inspiration of American civilization, and, while American sovereignty means this blessing to the Filipinos, it is beyond all doubt the one thing which can save the archipelago from division and appropriation by the great nations of Europe. The United States will hold it together, and, with the American democratic ideas, train and elevate the people to an ever-increasing measure of self-government."

Gelatine Possesses every quality that gelatine should have. Its perfect purity and cleanliness are apparent as soon as you open the package. Its convenience is evident the minute you dissolve it (dissolves readily and quickly in hot water-making a clear, firm jelly). The most prominent chefs praise and have written many recipes for Keystone Silver White Gelatine. Leading cooking authorities indorse its purity and convenience; experienced housewives appreciate its great economy--package makes onethird more jelly than the same quantity of any other gelatine.

GOOD TRACK AND GOOD ENTRIES.

The Fastest Half Mile Course In the Country-Trotting, Pacing and Running Races of More Than Ordinary

One of the great features at the Brocks ton Fair has always been the horse racing. Two conditions are always necessary to insure good trotting-a good track and good entries. The Brockton Fair has both of these. The track, which is in the care of a competent corps of as-sistants the year round, is the fastest half mile course in the country and at the present time holds the New England record. The liberality of the managemen makes it an object for the owners of classes are always filled. Roomy and airy stables are furnished for the horses entered, and the society supplies hay grain and straw free of charge and re urns all horses entered free of expense. This year $8,000 will be offered in purses for the races arranged for Oct. 4, 5, 6 and 7. This is an increase of $300 over last year. Following is the programme for the four days' racing as de

THE TRUST PROBLEM.

Question of Industrial Combination Under Discussion at Chicago.

Nearly All Admit That Defects Exist at Present.

of Public Opinion.

Chicago, Sept. 14.-The first great these great industrial combinations ent in all. which have arisen in this country within the past fifteen years and have multiplied so rapidly during the past 12 months, opened at Central Music hall yesterday.

The meeting was called to order by Franklin H. Head, the temporary chairman, appointed by the civic federation. Addresses of welcome were made by At-torney General Akin, on behalf of Governor Tanner, who is fil, and Dr. Taylor on behalf of Mayor Harrison.

The trust problem in general as it presents itself to the delegates seems to be very complex. The effect of these combinations on employes, will it not lower their wages and throw many out of employment? Their effect on the prices of the great necessities, will they not raise them and thus act as a two-edged sword upon the wage-worker? Do they, or will they-for all recognize that we are not at the end, but rather at the beginning of the era of trusts-make the lot of the young man of today more unfortunate, his opportunities for advancement less than before they came? Are they not in the line of individual repression? The selection of William W. Howe of New Orleans, ex-president of the American Bar association, for chairman o the conference was a wise one, and wi assist in producing harmony. The tal Texan, Wooten, won his place as first vice president by his vigorous oratory Wednesday. The other vice presidents are also apparently anti-trust men, and this indicates that that faction is press ing to the front. It held another meeting at the Palmer House and listened to other vigorous speeches.

The contention again arose between the two factions at the opening of the session yesterday, when a motion was offered providing for the selection of a shown. At once Mr. McQuirk of Iowa moveti as an amendment that the committee b appointed by the several state delegations. This was clearly a slap at the chairman, and showed that the "antis" were bound to get hold of that com mittee. This amendment was carried by a vote of about two to one. Then a debate ensued on the question as to whether the conference should adopt any resolutions at all.

Mr. Prince of Texas, on behalf of the ing that it was a scheme of the protrust men. Collins of Illinois thought such a committee would be necessary and ought to be constituted. When it reported then the conference could dedid not believe any resolutions com resolutions would be defeated.

Important Advice.

Quincy, May 1.

It is surprising how many peoole wake up in the morning near ly as tired as when they went to bed, a disagreeable taste in their mouth, the lips sticky, and the breath offensive, with a coated tongue. These are nature's first warnings of Dyspepsia and Liver Disrders, but if the U.S. Army & Navy "a'lets are resorted to at this stage they will restore the system to a healthy condition. A few doses will do more for a weak or sour stomach and Constipation than a prolonged course of any other medicine.

If you can not get them at your drug store, send 10c. for a package of 12 to the U.S. ARMY & NAVY TABLET Co., 17 EAST 14TH ST., NEW YORK.

A COLONIAL MAIDE.

and Early Quincy.

An article entitled, "Dorothy Q., Colonial Maide," by Miss Elizabeth Porter Gould of Boston, makes the National Magazine for this month of special value to Quincy people who are nterested in ye olden times. We quote n part: "Dorothy, strictly speaking, was not a Daughter of the Revolution, September, for three years, was: In since, born in 1709 (Jan. 4,) she died in 1762. But connected as she was with those who were ardent patriots, she was in City Square this summer as a pick- doubtless familiar with the discussions pocket will be given a trial before the and principles leading to that result, She was an aunt of that fervid orator Josiah Quincy, Jr., who 'expended his Driving in the vicinity of the Greenlife for the cause of his country, dying leaf will be much safer now that the on shipboard in sight of home, as he eturned from England only even days after hostilities had begun.

And today in the year of grace, 1899, Boston, the three-hilled town, honors that ancient name in its mayor, Josiah Quincy. It was through Dorothy's grandfather, Josiah Flynt-the honored pastor in Dorchester for many yearsthat the first Josiah came into the Quincy family; and as one said on a festive family occasion, the descent in their case has been from "Siah to siah, instead of from sire to son!"

Dorothy was the daughter of a dis portant business of a settlement of the oundary line between the Massachusetts Province and New Hampshire. when he died in England of smallpox in October, 1737.

New York, Sept. 15 .- Bobby Dobbs of Minneapolis, who recently returned from tour of England and Scotland, met Matty Matthews of New York at the Coney Island Sporting club last night and was disqualified in the final round of a 25-round bout for fouling. Referee Siler had cautioned Dobbs three times previously, but had the foul not occurred in the last round Matthews would probably have got the decision anyhow, as he outpointed his opponent all the way.

Delegal Saves His Neck.

Guyon, Ga., Sept. 15.-John Delegal one of the Darien rioters, was yesterday ound guilty of murder, with a recomnendation to mercy. He was sentenced to life imprisonment. John Delegal shot and killed Deputy Sheriff Townsend, who went to arrest him during the reent race riots. His brother and sister, who were indicted with him, were acquitted. The case of Henry Delegal, for rape, was taken up yesterday, and the evidence was submitted. This is the case out of which grew the riots.

The discussion of the first draft of the reply to the British note ended at Pretoria yesterday. It is understood that the government will draw up the reply in its final form today and immediately submit it to the volksraad.

The reply will be in terms strongly influenced by the Orange Free State, and, among other features, the maintenance of the convention of 1884 will be strongly asserted. The situation is not considered so favorable as it was yesterday.

The Pretoria correspondent of The Daily Telegraph says: The members of the volksraad received Mr. Chamberlain's dispatch defiantly Thursday. Richard Croker enlivened the session by producing a typewritten document, which he handed to the reporters, but made no attempt to get it before the committee in a formal way. This document was an extract from the opinion of the justices of the general term, first department, in the case of the people vs. Scholey. At the conclusion of this 0 opinion, Van Brunt, J. P., concurring, condemned in rather strong language the action of one of the notaries, Frank Moss, in acknowledging a signature upon a mere personal introduction at the time of the execution of the paper to which the signature was attached.

Mr. Moss, who is the attorney for the Mazet committee, retaliated by presenting Mr. Croker with a clipping from an English paper, showing that the Tammany Hall leader was regarded as the mayor on the other side of the water The clipping read: "Among our latest distinguished American visitors is Mr. Richard Croker, mayor of New York." He said he would not act on the Ramapo water case until it came before him officially. The mayor added that Mr. Moss seemed to think that Silas B. Dutcher, Levi P. Morton and General Tracy were a "pack of thieves." This was the first time ex-Governor Morton's name had ever been connected with the Ramapo Water company, and Mr. Moss pressed Mr. Van Wyck for the purpose of ascertaining what the mayor knew about the ex-governor's stockholdings in the corporation He was unable to obtain any definite or accurate information. In fact, when closely interrogated by Mr. Moss, the mayor retorted "None of your business, while Richard Croker, under similar circumstances, replied "That is my private affair." Boers Not Inclined to Yield to All the Demands of Great Britain.

Will Adhere to the Seven Years' Franchise Law.

Blaim to Have Been Misled by Chamberlain and Diplomatic Agent Greene.

London, Sept. 16 .- In the forecasts of . President Kruger's reply there is undoubtedly a large basis of truth, which seems to bring the dispute within a measurable distance of war.

Last evening the Press association issued a statement to the effect that as soon as the garrison in Natal had been sufficiently strengthened, the Transvaal government would be called upon to complete a new convention already drafted which, while guaranteeing the integrity of the Transvaal state, provides for the demolition of the forts and limits the armed force of the Transvaal to a number deemed sufficient to maintain internal order.

According to the Press association, the convention will demand that the diplomatic agencies be suppressed and the judiciary be made independent of the executive.

This statement, which realizes the extreme demands of the outlanders, must be accepted under reserve at the present stage, but it is not unlikely to be a semiofficial hint as to the next move of the government, should President Kruger prove obdurate.

A special dispatch from Pretoria says: The Transvaal's reply will be on the

The Transvaal adheres to the seven years' franchise law, but is willing to consider, and, if necessary, to adopt any suggestions Great Britain may make with regard to the working of the law.

In regard to the other points of Mr. boldly stands by the London convention. It is said that the reply is couched in polite terms.

State Secretary Reitz, in the course of an interview, expressed some doubt as to whether any alteration would be made in the existing franchise law, but said he believed a way should and could be found to establish an arbitration court "As to suzerainty, the least said the soonest mended," remarked the state secretary.

The Pretoria correspondent of The Times, in his forecast of the Transvaal's reply, declares that the Boers will lay stress upon the seven-year franchise raw, though offering to consider British suggestions as to the working, and for the rest take their stand upon the London convention.

Daily Chronicle says: The Boers assert that Mr. Greene (British diplomatic string of blue book inuendoes, for which with 327 strokes. Mr. Hofmeyer and practically every lane eighth, with 331. These eight men member of the Cape Afrikander party British demands the crisis as having reached its most acute phase. The Daily News says: We refuse to believe that President Kruger is so foolish as to reject Mr. Chamberlain's moderate demands.

The Daily Chronicle, which appeals again to Mr. Kruger "to accept while it is yet time and before England's terms become harder," says: A refusal of the present terms will involve the ruin of the state over which President Kruger presides. The British government have played their first and second moves in the game and must perforce play the third and then the fourth. If Mr. Kruger haggles, the sinister conditions in South Africa will grow worse until a catastrophe is reached.

Other papers talk of the imminence of war, and all the dispatches from South Africa continue to describe the military preparations on both sides.

BUT FEW NEW FEATURES.

Business In General Continues to Boom Along at a Rapid Pace.

New York, Sept. 16 .- Bradstreet's says: With comparatively little stock or other speculative activity, and with few strikingly new features presenting themselves, the general business of the country goes forward at a good pace, and in unprecedented volume for this period of the year. Reports indicative of this come from most leading markets, adfitional proof being furnished by the steadiness of most prices on the high plane recently reached, the very heavy business being done by the transportation interests, as reflected in enormous railroad earnings, reports of expanded demand, heavy export trade totals and reported cheerfulness of the outlook as to the balance of the year.

Fall trade activity would appear to be at its maximum, judging from advices of activity and strength of demand, re ported alike from western and eastern markets, and shared in also by most south Atlantic and interior southern Yellow fever at some southern cities. points, resulting in quarantine regulations, has tended to restrict business at while unfavorable crop and weather conditions limit business at Galveston. Iron and steel are very quiet, but very strong, at the east. Blast furnace re ports show that current consumption and production are not far apart, but production fails to show the expansion looked for, and, while current work is at the rate of 14,000,000 tons per year, estimates of the year's production do not run much beyond 13,500,000 tons.

The notable stren ... in cereals this week is shown in corn. Little change is to be noted in wheat, though the government report was stimulating.

Weather conditions are partly responsible for the better demand for butter. Crude petroleum is also stronger, and tobacco and hides are scarce and high. Cotton is a shade lower on the week, owing mainly to the failure of foreign spinners to accept current advices as to cotton crop conditions. The strength of cotton goods is, however, notable

Mr. Bryan reached Central Music hall early in the evening. He was greeted by members of the program committee of the civic federation conference on trusts. Mr. Bryan surprised the committee by declining to speak at the night session with Mr. Cockran, in accordance with the program previously arranged. Mr. Cockran was sent for, and he and Mr. Bryan discussed the situation. Mr. Bryan asserted that he never said he would follolw Mr. Cockran with an address on the same evening.

Mr. Cockran wanted to talk at the same session with the Nebraskan, and offered to flip a coin to determine who should deliver the closing address. Mr. Bryan would not accept this proposition. Mr. Cockran then agreed to appear at any time the committee desired. The program was then changed to meet Mr. Bryan's wishes. Mr. Bryan will speak at tomorrow's session

W. BOURKE COCKRAN.

Mr. Cockran defined prosperity as an abundance of commodities fairly distributed among those who produce them. He said he hoped to establish that there cannot be abundant production of commodities without an extensive distribution of them in the form of wages in a country wherein prosperity is based upon freedom. Continuing, he said: "To all this, my friends, the remedy is publicity. A statute, which would lies it." modify but slightly, if at all, the existing laws of every state, would make this provide a simple statute, that any stockholder shall have the right to examine the books of a company, and know everything about its concerns. And that is the law today, if the courts would enforce it. In addition to that, every corporation should be compelled to file with the secretary of state when it organizes a statement of property, and then let the public buy at any capitalization it chooses to make. Every year it should report to some competent authority a full statement of its business. That is the law today in nearly every state, and it is always evaded. The reports are misleading where they are not incomprehensible. Let those reports be fair, honest statements of their business, and then finally extend the powers of your superintendents of insurance and banking to all corporations, and let these reports be verified and then you will have honest management of corporations, and this public distrust and hatred of corporate entities will disappear from the minds of a liberty-loving people. Against the monopoly that depends upon government, favored in any shape or form, there I am as truly opposed as any gentleman, even from Texas. But, when we come to consider an organization which dominates the market without any aid from government, we face a proposition of a radically opposite charsomething I need, I regard as a benefit. "Monopoly is a word which suffers from a very bad name, and deservedly It has been associated for ages with the very worst form of government practices. I do not believe that there Is any single industry existing in this country today that is a monopoly in the sense in which that word can be used.

"I believe the Standard Oil company, which is generally considered the leading monopoly, supplies about 62 percent of the entire product of all its consumers. But I suppose a better word would be a cannot serve me so well out of employment. These great industrial trusts, I do not believe, have thrown anybody out of employment who deserves employ-ment. There have been two or three great industrial changes, and my firm belief is that a period of industrial change is a period of apprehensions that are never realized. I think I could demonstrate here that anything which theapens a commodity or article, and, therefore, increases the volume of the commodity, cannot throw anybody out of employment. As soon as the railroads became so far organized that the stage coach was driven out, the demand for drivers and horses to distribute merchandise and passengers from railway stations was more than three times greater than the demand for drivers of stage coaches. Mr. Cockran referred to the manner in which Mr. Bryan secured the nomination for the presidency and asked if anybody would deny that the result of that free competition was the selection of the best man qualified.

GREETING.

Since first I saw your orange covers, And with them youth and strength have fied, Old friends are gone and youthful lovers

But, even as in days gone by You came to bless my scanty leisure, Still in your pages I descry A welling fount of quiet pleasure.

Go on, old friend, and as of yore You hid us company with sages, Walk with them still as heretofore, And may no evil mar your pages.

And when death's deep forgetfulness Has closed for me all earthly pleasure May Chambers still remain to bless—
Those who come after—in full measure.
—M. L. S. in Chambers' Journal.

A STORE ROMANCE,

William French prided himself on the fact that he was not an ambitious man. He was wont to say that envy and discontent are the twin roots of all evil and that to be satisfied with one's lot in life is the sum total of all earthly philosophy.

William did not put it that way exactly, for he hadn't much more education than he had ambition. But that was what he meant when he would occasionally announce to his fellow clerks over the bowl of mush and milk that formed his noonday meal at the "quick lunch" counter, "What I can get is good enough for me, and don't you for-

And his fellow clerks, mostly unambitious men like himself, would generally reply, with laconic vagueness of 9ssent. "That's what."

William's lot in life was sufficiently

He sold tin bathtubs in the poorly lighted basement of a big department store six days in the week. His Sundays he spent in riding a secondhand bicycle, if it was fine, and reading the pictorial papers or sewing refractory buttons and reluctant patches on his clothing when the weather precluded any idea of outdoor amusement.

For William was a bachelor and looked askance at the fair sex as the lovely promoters of much of the discontent he so sternly deprecated and the gentle inciters of the reckless and wicked extravagance whose existence in the world he so greatly deplored.

So when he caught the flutter of a

Miss Thompson was not beautiful, to be sure, nor was she at all imposing of appearance, that she should thus captivate the heart of this severe critic at first sight. And she trotted about with a brisk alertness of movement quite incompatible with grace and elegance of

But she suited William right down to the ground.

To begin with, she had soft eyes, of no particular color perhaps, but somehow when their gaze rested on William he felt that here, at last, was one who could appreciate his true value almost as keenly as he did himself. Her brown hair, of a very ordinary shade, was parted very neatly over her smooth brow in a fashion extremely plain and unambitious compared with the imposing pompadours worn by the magnificent young ladies who sold ribbons and neckties at the counters up stairs and whose airs and graces made William so uncomfortable that he frequently went to a rival establishment to purchase the modest "made up" cravat which completed his humble toilet.

Moreover, Miss Thompson's simple black alpaca gown, with its trimly belted waist and spotless cuffs and collar, betrayed none of the wickedly extravagant ideas William had long considered the prevalent weakness of the sex.

It wasn't very long before the two young people became very friendly. Stewpans and teakettles being more in demand than bathtubs, William was frequently called upon to assist Miss Thompson in her department, and this association with her afforded the young man moments of exquisite joy.

At other times he would watch her, busy over her cooking utensils, and imagine how she would look in a little kitchen of her own manipulating similar implements in the preparation of his own supper.

The thought was intoxicating. Here at last he had found a girl who would be willing to share his humble lot, he told himself. A plain little thing like her would probably regard a tiny three room flat such as he had in mind as a very palace of luxury. He himself would seem to her a sort of special Providence through whose benevolent intervention she would realize all those dreams of home and husband most girls

This thought he found even more agreeable than the other, and he found himself assuming a protecting and even

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Sept. 17-Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle. TOPIC.-Unhesitating confidence in Christ.-II

Paul is a splendid example of "unnesitating confidence in Christ." He had confidence in Christ, and a confidence that was shaken by nothing. So great was his confidence that prison walls had no terror for him, the faithlessness of friends never unnerved him, and death had no sting for him. He had been beaten for Christ's sake, stoned for Christ and shipwrecked in the cause of Christ. He had been "in journeyings often, in perils of waters, in perils of robbers, in perils by mine own countrymen, in perils by the heathen, in perils in the city, in perils in the wilderness, in perils in the sea, in perils among false brethren, in weariness and painfulness, in watchings often, in hunger and thirst, in fastings often, in cold and nakedness," yet none of these many and varied experiences ever shook his faith in Christ. They rather seemed to strengthen it as the storms strengthen the roots of the great oak in the

The secret of the great apostle's unfounded faith in Christ was his positive assurance that Christ was worthy of it. He had learned from faith, love and experience that Christ was able to do all that he had premised to do for him. He had intrusted the eternal welfare of his soul to Christ and knew that Christ was able to keep the trust. As one deposits his money in a bank for safe keeping, Paul had deposited his soul into Christ's care and keeping, and, as the knowledge that the bank is worthy of our trust gives us unbounded confidence in it, so Paul's knowledge of Christ's worthiness gave him unbounded trust and confidence in Christ.

The importance of having this positive assurance is evident to all, yet how many do not possess it! How many Christians are fearful and timid and, amid trials and troubles and afflictions, are filled with doubts and mistrusts! Whence came Paul's abundance of assurance? It was undoubtedly a God given assurance. "I can do all things through Christ that strengtheneth me, he had written to his friends before, and can we not be sure that God in Christ gave him this assurance and confidence in Christ? We may be naturalhesitating confidence the trials, doubts and troubles of life. He can strengthen the weak hands and confirm the feeble knees. Let us live closer to Christ in Prince David Kawananakoa, a cousin of ex-Queen Liliuokalani of Hawaii, has arrived in Washington from Honolulu. His visit to Washington is purely personal and has no connection with the politics of the island.

General Clark Carr of Galesburg, Ills., formerly minister to Denmark, is in Washington, and it is rumored that he will be the successor of Interstate Commerce Commissioner Calhoun, who intends to practice law in Chicago. There was a serious disturbance in the market square of Johannesburg on Saturday afternoon. A meeting called by a labor agitator, named Bain, to condemn British policy and to enroll volunteers to fight for the Boers, led to serious fights with the police, lasting a couple of hours. Many persons were injured, among them the recently notorious Dr. Matthews, who laid a charge against a mounted policeman. An immense crowd singing "Rule Britannia" accompanied him to the police office.

ANSON AT THE HEAD.

Likely to Be First President of the New Baseball Organization.

Boston May Be Included In the Eastern Circuit.

Probabitily That It Will Take In New York, Philadelphai, Washington and Baltimore.

Chicago, Sept. 19 .- Affairs of the new baseball league assumed a more serious aspect with the arrival of one Eastern representative, Frank Hough, of Philadelphia. The delegates got down to business, canvassed the situation, figured up what financial power they could command, and discussed their circuit. At present the circuit they announce consists of St. Louis, Chicago, Milwaukee and either Detroit or Buffalo, in the west, and New York, Washington, Philadelphia and either Baltimore or Boston in the east. In St. Louis the new league promoters have a park, which the Schaeffers control, and they claim good financial backing. In Chicago their strength is not known, further than that Anson is the king pin. Buffalo and Detroit are doubtful quantities, and the league says it will take whichever is the most promising in finances and grounds. In New York, it is hinted, the new league will play either on Manhattan field or on a new park which it has in sight. In Philadelphia it claims to have a park and good backing. In Washington it expects to use the old baseball park, and there, too, it asserts, it has good back-

ADRIAN C. ANSON.

The fourth city in the east is either Boston or Baltimore, with the probability in favor of the last named. Mc-Graw and Robinson will engineer the new league club if the organization decides upon Baltimore. It is said that Anson will be the first president of the new organization. Reports are current that leaders in the new association and the National league had provisionally deemed it best to work on a basis or harmony instead of antagonism. These reports are strongly doubted. General admission will be placed at 25 cents, instead of 50 cents, the latter price prevailing in the National league.

Coffee Coo'er Badly Punished. New York, Sept. 19.-Tommy Ryan, he Syracuse middle-weight pugilist, gave Frank Craig, the "Harlem Coffee oler," a terrible drubbing before 7000 persons at the Coney Island Sporting lub last night. Craig only recently returned from England, where he has been making quite a reputation and plenty of money for some years past, That Ryan would defeat him was generally believed, but from the glowing accounts of Craig's doings among the Britons every one looked for a much better fight than that which the colored man put up. He knocked Ryan down in the second round, but never afterwards as he went down seven times to avoid We mention a few items at random, but all punishment. A Satisfaciory Performance.

New York, Sept. 19.-Shamrock had another sail trial outside of Sandy Hook yesterday, sailing over a 15-mile course to the windward and return. The Irish boat certainly showed great speed, especially running home, in an increasing breeze, making the last 15 miles in one hour and 14 minutes, quite a remarkable performance, considering that her sheets were apparently trimmed well in, while the course was a broad reach. Her beat to the mark was also made in good time, although the last five miles was sailed with sheets lifted as the wind shifted from southeast to south, letting her up in good shape. She used her new mainsail and aluminum gaff, and seemed to carry her sails very well. An on board seemed to be well satisfied with her performance.

Caldwell Beats Miller. Baltimore, Sept. 19.—Harry Caldwell, the New England glant, outpedalled Charley Miller, the world's champion long distance bicycle rider in their 25mile race at the Coliseum track in this city, in comparatively slow time. The men were paced by motor cycles. Caldwell's machine sed him to the front at the start and he was never headed, passing under the wire 150 yards in the van. Time, 44m, 22s. Caldwell is now in line to race with Elkes, the holder of the 25lm | mile record.

This desirable piece of real estate consists of the large building known as Plumer's Hall, the adjoining store and the homestead and stable. The property will be sold in two lots.

Lot No. 1 contains about 7290 feet of land having 76 7-10 feet frontage on Hancock street. The Plumer Hall building and the building adjoining, occupied by T. E. Furnald, and used as a grocery store. The hall is large and very desirable, the two stores below have a floor space of 17x65 feet, this is an unusually lucrative piece of business property, as both the hall and stores let readily and for good prices.

This sale offers the opportunity of a lifetime for a Quincy business man to own a store on the main street, in the centre of the city, without having to buy a lot of back land that he has no use for. Investors will do well to consider this compact piece of business property, covered with stores and no waste land.

Lot No. 2 contains 25,750 square feet of land banders a land.

Lot No. 2 contains 25,750 square feet of land a handsome dwelling house of 9 rooms, water closet, city water, fine stable, large orchard, pears, apples and grapes in great variety.

To the buyer of a homestead this elegant piece of real estate combines the beauties of the country and the conveniences of the city.

During past ten years there has been an evident subsidence of the prejudice against the Chinese, which was once so strong in all the Pacific coast states. Part of this has come from the restriction on immigration, which has in this country. But a larger share has come from the demonstration that was based on false grounds. It has taken some years to make this clear, but it is gradually making itself felt, and the result is a better feeling between the two peoples.-New Haven Register.

There are worse things than Sunday recreation. An unkind remark perhaps embittering someone's heart for an entire day or longer, is far more reprehensible than an hour or two at golf on Sunday. Yet how many thoughtlessly perpetrate the one who would not consent to the other. He who would deprive the toilers of their rights to refresh themselves on Sunday would take a toy from the hand of a child on the plea that there must be no play on Sunday. WAR POSSIBILITIES.

Great Britain Unprepared For a Rub With Dutchmen In South Africa.

Raid Upon Natal Is Expected

General Panic Caused Among British Residents Near the Border.

London, Sept. 19 .- The Daily Telegraph publishes a communication from a military correspondent, who, discussing the effect of the Orange Free State's throwing its lot with the Transvaal,

In event of war, this will greatly increase our difficulties, and will lengthen the duration of the campaign, but the work will be accomplished, and the union jack will float over consolidated South America between the Zambesi and the cape.

The principal danger which besets the British position is a sudden outbreak of hostilities, enabling the Boers to score a few minor successes, which would bring down upon us every Dutchman in South Arfica, and probably, the statement that the Boers are sending comressed forage to the Natal border, seems signify that they will not wait for ew grass, but are preparing an imrediate advance.

For this we certainly are not prepared. It is doubtful if the few troops and volunteers now in Natal could even maintain the defensive. The Cape frontier from Mafeking to Kimberly, including the diamond fields, is practically defenseless, and a combined attack by the Orange Free State and the Transvaal might result in disaster and the retreat of our forces toward Durban, leaving the border towns in the hands of the enemy. Small wonder is it that these towns are alarmed. The movement of British troops into Natal has not begun a moment too soon.

A dispatch from Johannesburg says that the Boers are rushing troops to the border and a raid upon Natal is expected at any moment.

The Boers are evidently anxious to open hostilities. They seem to realize that war is a certainty, and that by taking time by the forelock, and occupying Natal, they can win a tremendous advantage over England.

Large bodies of cavalry and several atteries of artillery have been assembling right on the frontier during the past 24 hours, and it only needs a word to let this picked force, consisting of the flower of the Boer troops, loose upon The Boer enthusiasts say that before the British reinforcements now at sea could arrive, Kruger's forces would have possession of every important position in A general panic has been caused among the British residents near the border. They have been fleeing in droves all day. They expected a raid at any moment, and in many cases they fled so precipitately as to leave their possessions be-The families of the Boers are being safe when hostilities open. Camps of refuge have been established at Amers-Charleston Sunday, so the officials are foont and other parts of the province of Wakkerstrooom, on the border, for the safety of the Boer families along the frontier. Many have already sought refuge there, and others are now on their way in large and constantly increasing numbers. Huge stocks of provisions have been supplied, and every precaution has been taken to guard against starvation if a long siege is made.

Special dispatches from South Africa onfirm the report telegraphed yesterday that the Boers are massing artillery in positions commanding Laing's Nek. Small Boer detachments occupy positions above Buffalo river. The members of the Afrikander bund

The Cape Town correspondent of The Daily Mail says: The United States consul in Cape Town has gone to Bloemontein, at the request of the governnent of the Orange Free State, to confer regarding the crisis. The Orange Free State executive are anxious to seeure American intervention. Boer spies The Kind You Have Always Bought infest all the border towns. Two thousand troops will be dispatched to Kimberley within a week. Five hundred started last night and others will go forward today.

A dispatch from Pretoria says: The Transvaal state secretary, Mr. Reitz, in the course of an interview yesterday, declared that the government, the volksraad and the people were unanimous regarding the attitude which the Transvaal had assumed, and that there was no foundation whatever for the reports of differences. Mr. Reitz also asserted that the Transvaal's decision was arrived at in conjunction with the Orange Free State. The volksraad yesterday re-adopted the mining article in the gold law, eliminated last year, empowering the government to confiscate the claims and mines belonging to people convicted of treason or conspiracy against the state, and empowering the government (a) order that the mines be worked, and, if this instruction is disregarded, to work them through its own agents. The readopted article comes into force im-

Riches of Cape Nome District.

Boston, Sept. 19 .- The Congregational Sunday school and publishing society ment of the weather and crop conditions makes public a report by Missionary of New England, compiled from the Loyal L. Wirt, written on board the Yu- reports of correspondents throughout kon river steamer Sybii, aground on a the section, for the week ending Sept. 19: sandbar under the Arctic circle, near fort Yukon, July 25 last. He says:

"The Cape Nome diggers are producing, beyond the wildest dreams. The very sand on the shore is full of gold for 75 miles. Hundreds of men are, with crude 'rockers,' taking out from $20 to $100 per day. Anvil City will be a close rival for Dawson next year. "Seven or eight miles back from the town is a hill of some prominence, per-this hill we soon came upon Anvil creek, where gold was first discovered last October. The 'strike' was made by three Scandinavians who had been employed as government reindeer herders. Winter closed down soon after these men started their claims, so no development work was done until after the ground thawed out, late this spring. When we therefore reached claim 'No. 1, below Discovery,' the method of extracting the gold from the gravel, called 'sluicing,' had been in operation less than two months. In that time, despite all sorts of hindrances and primitive machinery, the claim had yielded upward of $100,000. "In this visit to the creek diggings, we had seen enough to make it evident that this is to be a very rich district, but our visit the next day to the beach diggings revealed the peculiar feature of this marvelous camp-a feature which must soon command wide attention. Three weeks before my visit to Anvil City, it was discovered that the very sand of the beach contained gold in large quantities. As the United States government reserves 60 feet above tide on all shores, the local United States commissioner held that the beach could not be controlled by private parties. This kept off claim locators, but permitted any one to mine the beach anywhere. The result of this ruling is, that every man who has not been fortunate enough to get a creek claim may provide himself with a rocker and go to work rocking the ruby sand on the beach. "Seldom, in the history of mining, has there been a camp where everybody could turn his labor to gold; but here every man, who is not doing better, may be found down on the shore line rocking out from $10 to $100 per day. The average is not far from $50. We found about 1500 thus employed. There are probably 4000 people in this district with Anvil as a trading center."

Mayor "Sasses" the Governor.

Carterville, Ills., Sept. 19.-There is little change in the situation here, but what little there is is for the better. Mayor Zimmerman has come out in a signed statement in which he says that Governor Tanner sent a personal representative to him and told him that, if the better class of citizens would sign an agreement to the effect that they would guarantee that there would be no more oss of life or rioting the governor would remove the troops. Mayor Zimmerman told this representative that the governor sent the troops here without consulting the citizens of Carterville; that he could emove them the same way, but that as long as the negroes remained at the Brush mines just so long might he expect to hear of trouble.

Congregational Missionary Writes of Vast Present Drought the Most Severe Ever Experienced In New England.

Boston, Sept. 19.—Following is a state-Excepting light showers, widely scattered, the weather during the past week was fair in all sections of New England. There was abundant sunshine. Frosts occurred in some parts of all sections on from one to three days. In the northern parts of the district the frost was heavy with freezing temperature, espe cially on the morning of the 16th. The fair, sunny weather was most favorable to all farm work, which made good prohaps 1000 feet above sea level. Skirting gress in all sections.

The average temperature for the past week shows a marked dropping off, the average, 56 degrees, being six degrees lower than for the week ending the 11th instant. The mercury fell several points below freezing in sections of Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont on the morning of the 16th. It fell to dangerously near the freezing point in some of the most southern sections of the district.

The rainfall for the past week was very light, and unevenly distributed. The average was 0.43 of an inch. Except. ing seasonable conditions in a small section of Rhode Island and Connecticut, there is great need of rain throughout New England. Numerous correspon dents mention the drought as the most severe ever experienced.

Killing frosts, near the close of the week, damaged late corn more or less, especially in the northern sections of the district. They have checked vegetable growth generally, and in many instances vines, tomatoes and beans have been killed. So far as indicated, however, by the reports at hand, no great or widespread, damage has resulted from the cool weather. Fall plowing and seeding are retarded in about all sections by the severe drought, the soil being too dry for cultivation. Stock water is scarce resulting in much inconvenience to farm ers and also a shortage in the milk sup-

What Cubans Need. Boston, Sept. 19.-Brigadier General Wilson, commanding the departments of Matanzas and Santa Clara, in a recent interview with members of the Cuban industrial relief fund, who are in Boston said that among the things he wishes to see accomplished in the island are: A Cuban republic, a treaty whereby the ports of Cuba shall be open and free to certain and natural and manufactured articles from the United States, the sanitary administration throughout the island under the control of the United States, and the right of our government to establish a naval station or the northern shore of Cuba. General Wilson thinks that the Cubans will agree to all of these things.

CHEROKEE IS ASHORE.

Big Steamer of Clyde Line Has a Hole Stove In Her Hull.

Struck a Rock While Enveloped In a Dense Fog.

Possibility That She May Be Saved If the Weather Continues Favorable.

Pasque Island, Mass., Sept. 20.-The Clyde line steamer Cherokee, Captain McKee, bound from Jacksonville, Fla. for Boston, with a large cargo of misellaneous freight, and six passengers, went ashore on the southeast end of Naushon island, in Vineyard sound, shortly after noon yesterday, in a dense fog, stoving a large hole in the forward part of her hull. Her No. 2 hold is full of water, but the full extent of her damage cannot be ascertained until she is floated. Her after compartments remain free from water, owing to the water-tight bulkheads, and her engines remain in good working order. The vessel is on even keel, heading eastward, and perfectly easy. It is thought that with favorable winds she can be floated.

The passengers, who showed no fright whatever, at first declined to be taken off by the tugs that went to the steamer's assistance, but later, with the exception of one lady, they were induced to go on board the revenue cutter Dexter which landed them at New Bedford, from which place they proceeded to Bos-

Captain McKee states that he sighted Gay Head upon entering Vineyard sound, but immediately after a dense fog shut in, and a few hours later the ship struck the rock, the place where the Cherokee now lies being very near the spot where the steamer Gate City stranded 14 years ago. The vessel was running at a slow rate of speed when she line agents in New York and Boston, who at once dispatched assistance to the steamer. Tug Taurus, towing a lighter, left Boston for Naushon in the afternoon, and was followed a few hours later by the tug Pallas, and another lighter. When the cutter Dexter left the Chero kee she was making water so freely that it was thought best not to attempt to pull her off in her present condition, but with the arrival of powerful pumps and other wrecking appliances, it is believed the steamer can be saved, if the weather continues favorable.

The Cherokee is one of the largest steamers of the Clyde line. been running regularly to Boston since June. She was built by William Cramp & Sons, at Philadelphia, in 1896, is constructed of iron, had four bulkheads, and her general dimensions are as follows: Length, 269 feet; breadth of beam, 43 feet, and depth of hold 20.6 feet. Her net tonnage is 1967, while the gross is NOTICE TO YOTERS. NEW FALL DRY GOODS

According to N. B. Furnald, who keeps a record of the rainfall, more water had fallen today up to 8 o'clock this morning than for nearly six months. It has been an unusually dry summer with only occasional rains, an many will be surprised to learn that the total rain fall from March 27 up to last night was 2 7-16 inches. Today's rain commenced about 4 o'clock this morning. At first the rain was light but rapidly increased and was soon coming down in torrents, so that up to 8 o'clock Mr. Farnald's guage showed that 2 1-2 inches had fallen.

THE DREYFUS PARDON

Closes But One Act of Drama Which Has Stirred France to Its Depths.

Captain's Friends to Pursue Campaign Against Generals.

Cabinet's Decision Discounted by Predictions, and There Was No Excitement.

Paris, Sept. 20 .- The council of ministers decided Tuesday to pardon Dreyfus in principle. Dreyfus has relinquished his appeal for a reversal of the judgment of the court-martial. Pardoning Dreyfus does not drop the curtain on the drama. The Dreyfusards are determined to pursue the campaign against the generals and other officers of the general staff who have lied and committed gross illegalities in order to keep the prison door closed on the vic-

The Aurore, the leading organ of the Drefusard body, today publishes an article in this sense by M. Francis de Pressense, the distinguished journalist, who from the first was a leader in the revision movement. A proof slip of the article, which is headed "Pardon-and What Afterward?" was handed to The Associated Press. The writer says:

"If the president, by pardoning Dreyfus, wished to spare France the inefface able shame of a judicial crime, this exercise of his prerogative called mercy so far from impairing the necessary work of justice, will only prepare and facilitate it. For we must speak straight

"If it was imagined that immunity for criminals could be purchased by pardon. ing an innocent man; if it was thought that the friends of law would barter amnesty to the scoundrels who perpetrated those crimes for the bruised body of the man from whom they have torn out the soul, then we throw from us this degrading and deceitful offer. Dreyfus would be the first to reject as an infamy such traffic with his honor.

"No. The pardoning of Dreyfus can only be the natural, legitimate and spontaneons action by which the representatives of the civil power refuse to associate themselves with the obstinate iniquity committed by the military judges. It is the government of republican France repudiating with horror any part in this denial of justice. As for us we shall pursue with increased ardor the task of public salvation to which we have devoted ourselves. There have been crimes and offences committed in obscurity by a gang of pretoriar conspirators with Mercier at its head. We are going to pursue more energetically than ever the work of obtaining their chastisement." M. de Pressense goes on to declare that when the generals have been punished the Dreyfusards will continue the campaign until "court martial have been abolished and iron and fire have been carried into the sores of the diplomatic corps and society."

The foregoing article clearly outline the militant attitude of the Dreyfusards and shows that France will not be allowed to rest quietly even though

Dreyfus be set at liberty. The campaign for his release has tation. Moreover, the Zola trial and Reinach for defaming the memory o her husband will shortly come on, and they will be used by both sides as levers again to excite public feeling.

Pardoning Dreyfus, therefore, only closes one act of the drama; and France will probably again find herself in th throes of party passion before the Pari exposition opens its doors next May.

The announcement that Dreyfus was to be pardoned had already been dis counted by predictions, and there was no excitement displayed anywhere along the boulevards when the newsboys ran along, at about 3 p. m., with the first editions, containing the statement that the cabinet had decided to pardon Drey fus. The newspapers sold quickly, but there was no rush for them upon the part of the boulevardiers.

Those who bought the papers sat down in front of the cafes and read the announcement without comment. Everyone expected it, and the decision met with no opposition.

In front of the offices of the Libre Pa role, where a crowd usually assembles in the evening to gaze upon the huge colored transparencies outside the windows of the leading anti-Semite organ, there was not the slightest gathering or the faintest sign of a demonstration either for or against Dreyfus. One would think that the fire of the Dreyfus agitation had burned itself out.

The anti-Dreyfusard papers tried to action by a rabid attack upon President Loubet; but their efforts were futile The peaceful crowds that filled the tables in front of the cafes, sipping their after dinner coffee and cognac, looked at the newsboys who displayed the front pages of these sheets with their violent headlines, but utterly refused to get ex- the Portsmouth navy yard by Oct. 17, as cited. the government of the colony contemplates introducing a motion in the Cape house of assembly urging the Transvaal to accept the demands of Great Britain. Sir Alfred Milner has addressed further inquiries to President Steyn of the Orange Free State. Whatever the official attitude of the Orange Free State may be, the temper of its burghers, judging from numerous meetings held in Bloemfontin and elsewhere, is to assist the Transvaal actively. The Free State commandants in Pretoria are discussing the position with the Transvaal commandant general, and the meeting of the Free State volksraad on Thursday will have an important influence on the situation.

A curious rumor is spreading in the lower ranks of the army that Great Britain will be involved with Afghanistan as well as the Transvaal.

Other special dispatches report various details of preparations for war on both sides. Boer troops now control both the Berra and Newcastle railways, as they enter Transvaal territory. The British authorities are shipping troops daily from India to South Africa. The Johannesburg correspondent of The Morning Post says that a consignment of 1,600,000 cartridges was sent from Pretoria to Bloemfontein last Thursday. A special dispatch from Pretoria says: The reports received here through official sources that Great Britain contemplates proposing a new convention, with disarmamant, though discredited officially have created the greatest inof Italy. It is announced that the British firstclass cruisers Terrible and Powerfu' have both been ordered to the Cape. They have reliefs on board capable of forming a naval brigade of 1000 men.

Guerin Gives Up.

Paris, Sept. 20.-M. Guerin surrendered this morning. At the hour appointed a captain of the municipal guards rapped at the door of Fort Chabrol. M. Guerin presented himself, surrendered, and was driven to the police depot in an open cab, seated beside the captain of the guards. His companions were allowed to go free. The government had decided to flood the fort if Guerin had refused to surrender, and had a couple hundred firemen with steam pumps, fire escapes and miles of hose. All the buildings around were filled with police and guards. The immense crowd dispersed with little or no disturbance.

Robert Treat Paine, Jr., Is Chosen as the Nominee.

John H. Mack of North Adams For Second Place.

Purely State Issues Brought to the Front In Convention.

Party Policy Outlined In Speeches of Messrs. Callahan and McNary.

Boston, Sept. 21 .- The declination of the two men who headed last year's J. Slattery-to run again this year, proved the sensation of the preliminary gathering of the Democrats for the state

Mr. Bruce announced his intention to withdraw late yesterday afternoon, and Mr. Slattery followed suit soon after, and for a few hours there was considerable commotion among the delegates. Robert Treat Paine, Jr., of this city consented to head the ticket, but there was quite a contest for escond place. There was, however, a general sentiment in favor of John E. Mack of North Adams.

There was great surprise manifested over the declination of Bruce and Slattery to head the ticket this year. Mr. Bruce gave as his reason that he was a very busy man, and did not care for further honors, while Mr. Slattery gave as his reason his retirement from politics altogether. The state committee was not long without a candidate, for as oon as the announcement was made that Bruce had declined, Robert Treat ed. Mr. Paine is regarded as a particularly strong candidate, and, being a Boston man, with friends in all factions of the party, it is expected he will be able to poll a majority in Boston. Mr. Paine comes of a family long and favorably known in Boston, which has been identified with the business pros-

The second man on the ticket is a young lawyer of North Adams, John H. Mack, who has done great service for the party in the state. Both candidates are members of the state committee. As to the remainder of the ticket, Harry Lloyd will be named for secretary of state, J. B. O'Donnell of Northampton or Judge Moffett of Boston for attorney general. George Fred Williams wrote the resoutions, which endorse William Jennings Bryan for president, the Chicago platform, including the free coinage of silver, and against trusts, while it also declares against any foreign alliances, against the continuation of the war in the Philipines, which is styled a war of criminal aggression. It is in favor of state ownership of the Boston and Albany railroad, in favor of state super-vision and control of public utilities, and in favor of municipal ownership of gas and electric light plants.

The convention was called to order by Christopher T. Callahan of Holyoke, chairman of the state committee, who spoke, in part, as follows:

This convention day is the opening of a campaign which should prove to be productive of a more satisfactory result for the Democratic party than that of any campaign since 1893. The struggle within the ranks between those who took their places under the standard of the new Democracy and those who would haul it down has happily ended in the complete triumph of the platform of principles proclaimed at Chicago in 1896. Three times has the Democratic party of Massachusetts spoken, and thrice has it expressed its unshaken confidence in the policy of the party of the nation.

It does not seem unreasonable to assert that our strength in spirit and in numbers is greater today than at any time during the past six years. Thou-sands who have held aloof since 1896, appreciating the menace to our Demoappreciating the menace to our Demo-cratic institutions in continued Repub-lican rule are returning to the party whose principles are builded upon the Declaration of Independence and the constitution of the United States. The confident assertion that a great victory is to be achieved by the Demo-crats in the national campaign next victory is to be achieved by the Democrats in the national campaign next year is warranted by the prospect at this time. The outlook for the Democracy is bright with the promise of reunion. The Jeffersonian policies proposed by the last Democratic conven-tion are no longer regarded by the people of the east as the odious doctrine of anarchy and dishonor. We have a righteous cause; we do not lack an able leader. The people placed him in com-mand in 1896 and have not withdrawn the commission. Repulsed, but not conquered in the campaign of that year, ne has been steadily advancing against the citadel of plutocracy and imperialism up to this day. He who rescued the Democracy of Jefferson from the clutches of its enemies suffered defeat in behalf of his cause, as did Jefferson, who founded Democracy just 100 years before. But Jefferson became president in the opening year of the 19th century, and the people will celebrate, in the opening year of the 20th century, the centennial anniversary of the eleva-

This whole policy of imperiafism presents but one question for discussion, the natural right of man to be free. REAL ESTATE

Mrs. Sarah B. Plumer, 28, 30, 32 and 34 Hancock St., Quincy, Mass.

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 26, '99 At 3 o'clock P. M.

At 3 o'clock P. M.

This desirable piece of real estate consists of the large building known as Plumer's Hall, the adjoining store and the homestead and stable. The property will be sold in two lots.

Lot No. I contains about 7290 feet of land having 76 7-10 feet frontage on Hancock street. The Plumer Hall building and the building adjoining, occupied by T. E. Furnald, and used as a grocery store. The hall is large and very desirable, the two stores below have a floor space of 17x65 feet, this is an unusually lucrative piece of business property, as both the hall and stores let readily and for good prices.

This sale offers the opportunity of a lifetime for a Quincy business man to own a store on the main street, in the centre of the city, without having to buy a lot of back land that he has no use for. Investors will do well to consider this compact piece of business property, covered with stores and no waste land.

Lot No. 2 contains 25,750 square feet of land

Lot No. 2 contains 25,750 square feet of land a handsome dwelling house of 9 rooms, water closet, city water, fine stable, large orchard, pears, apples and grapes in great variety.

To the buyer of a homestead this elegant piece of real estate combines the beauties of the country and the conveniences of the city.

Y. R. A. DECISION

Honor and Dignity of Quincy Yacht Club at Stake.

To much comment has been made in regard to the Executive Committee of the Y. R. A. of Massachusetts in peremptorily throwing out an entire open race of the Quincy Yacht club on an alleged technicality, that the committee's decision is herewith given in

"On the Little Peter's protest against the Quincy Yacht club's race of September 9, counting for percentage, on account of not being regularly scheduled, etc., it was voted to allow the protest, -- race disqualified for Association percentage."

In answer to the above an officer of he club, who was present at the neeting, stated to the Committee that one of the owners of the Little Peter that the race was to be sailed on Saturday forenoon, Sept. 9, at 9.45 'clock, whereupon the Little Peter was moored off the Quincy Yacht club's house at Houghs Neck on Friday night to be in readiness for Saturday forenoon's race.

The Speaker also stated, that as one of the judges of the Saturday's race he met Mr. Henry Moebs on the club's and Bureaus that are rare. pier and asked him if he intended to race. Mr. Moeb's reply was "not this forenoon, as my crew is not here." Regarding the scheduling of the race vith Secretary Bliss, it is understood that Secretary Faxon covered the requirements of the Association rules. When the hearing on the above protest was opened a gentlemen who represented the owners of the Little Peter arose and said: "Mr. Chairman: I withdraw that protest!" It is a custom of year's standing in yacht racing, that if a protesting boat desires at any time to withdraw its protest it has that privilege, and the custom which has become a right, is immediately granted. In this case the executive committee refused to allow the protest to be withdrawn. It is currently reported that the animosity of this decision lies in the fact that at the race in question the Quincy Yacht club judges refused to count the Heiress' fake start as a race, and that the committee and a former prominent official of the Association, who unfortunately let a remark drop about that ruling, in order to get even with the lub, made this unusual decision. The Quincy Yacht club's answer to club in the Association. The honor and dignity of the club are at stake.

Tax of 1897 61 10 Great Britain Not Likely to Precipitate Matters.

> Much Interest Centers on Action to Be Taken by the Orange Free State.

London, Sept. 21.—The Cape Town correspondent of The Daily Mail says: President Kruger has cabled a strong personal appeal to the queen, bseeching hr to intervene to prevent bloodshed. It is about a column in length and is intended to "scarify the consciences of the 'unco guid' " when published.

Sir Alfred Milner has wired a cour-teous message to President Steyn, assuring him that the northward march of the British troops is not meant as a menace to the Orange Free State, and requesting to be informed regarding the latter's attitude. Reliable information has been received at Cape Town that a large command of Free State burghers has been concentrating near Boshof, on the Kimberley border. Two hundred burghers were dispatched to that point from Bloemfontein during the week past. If the Free State joins the Transvaal the first battle is likely to be fought at 5,000 square feet, being ... street, with house thereon. Tax of 1897 56 40

The Cape cabinet has determined to prolong the session of the assembly indefinitely, so that it may be sitting when hostilities begin.

According to the Cape Town correspondent of The Daily News, President Kruger, in his personal appeal to her majesty, addressed the monarch as 'Dear Queen."

A special dispatch from Rome says that the Italian government, in reply to Mr. Kruger's request for intervention, has advised him to yield. The Johannesburg correspondent of

The Morning Post says: The Boer preparations are as complete as the government can hope to make them. It is believed that martial law will be proclaimed on Thursday if no reply has been received from England by that time. It is understood that the dispatching of British troops to South Africa will be regarded as a casus belli. The Boer officers are urging the government to begin hostilities forthwith. It is felt that the Orange Free State can best be forced to action by a successful military demonstration on the part of the Transvaal.

England is not going to be caught napping any more than the Transvaal. While Lord Salisbury is quite at home in Hatfield House, Mr. Chamberlain is buried in work at the colonial office, and double forces at the royal arsenals and dock yards are straining every nerve to equip and transport troops to the Cape. It may be set down for certain that Great Britain will do nothing to precipitate matters, and the colonial office is far from admitting that the case is hopeless The report that Great Britain had demanded the disarmament of the forts at Johannesburg, together with a material reduction in the armament of the burghers, the colonial office would neither confirm nor deny, although it is much doubted.

Meanwhile, the Marquis of Lansdowne secretary of state for war, has held long conferences with General Wolseley and General Wood, and the activity at headquarters is reflected in the contract, supply and transport department.

The Marquis of Lansdowne has issued a strict order to the staff of the war office warning all subordinates to refrain from giving the press any information without the authority of their superiors, and caling attention to previous breaches of duty in this respect, which, the order says, "will be no longer tolerated."

Advices from Cape Town are to the effect that the Afrikanders declare that the Transval will not yield further, and that if the imperial government does not recede from its present position war is inevitable. The South African News supports the contention of the Transvaal that the convention of 1884 abolished the suzerainty.

According to other advices the burghers are rapidly going into Laager, while the exodus from Johannesburg yesterday reached 1000 persons. The stock exchange at Johannesburg has resolved to close the moment martial law is proclaimed. In the meantime the merchants are erecting barricades in front of their shop windows.

At Pretoria the interest seems to be centered in the meeting of the Orange Free State volksraad, which, it is hoped, may somehow suggest a modus vivendi that would save the situation.

On the other hand advices from Bloemfontein announce the arrival there of a large number of members of the raad, Will give lessons in China Painting at No. 1 adding that the result of today's sitting Spear street. Liberty Nothing Without Honor.

Paris, Sept. 21 .- The Aurore today publishes the following declaration from Captain Dreyfus: "The government of the republic has given me my liberty. But liberty is nothing to me without honor. From today I shall continue to seek reparation for the frightful judicial error of which I remain the victim. I wish France to know by a definitive judgment that I am innocent. My heart will only be at rest when there remains not a single Frenchman who imputes to me the abominable crime perpetrated by another."

Long List of He'pless.

A Message by Telephone brings immediate San Juan, P. R., Sept. 21.-The board of charities' tabulated statistics show that out of a population of 916,894 there are 291,089 indigent and 11,858 sick. The number of deaths as a result of the recent hurricane was 2619. One week's rations were issued to 293,147 persons, and the number of those working for ratf tions was 11,713.

A SURPRISE.

of such a negative platform we absolutely refuse. In 1896 the Democratic party cut loose from negative platform declarations, and placed itself firmly before the people as the champion of its his-toric doctrines of equal rights for all. In the Chicago platform it pronounced in favor of the rights of man as against the priveleges of property and of ac-cumulated wealth. The line was drawn; the die was cast, and the Democracy must hereafter stand for the Democracy must hereafter stand for the rights of the people and against the privileges of the favored few-corporations, monopolies and trusts, which have grown great and rich through special privileges granted by legislation.

We hold to the declaration of principles laid down in that platform. We pro-laid down in that platform. We pro-nounce for bimetallism, for the money of the constitution, for the free coinage of both gold and silver, the policy which was followed by this country from 1789 to 1873, and under which we grew great, happy and prosperous.

On the question of income tax, the Democratic party stands today as it stood in 1896—in favor of placing the burden of taxation upon the shoulders of those best able to bear it. On the question of injunctions, the Democratic party, as in 1896, demands that the usurpation of law by federal judges and federal courts in the interests of cor-porations and against the working men should cease, and should be prohibited. Meanwhile, under the fostering legislation of the Republican party, there has been during the last two or three years, great, alarming and portentious increase in the combinations of corporations and accumulated wealth into that form of corpulent monopoly known as trusts. These great combinations of capital stifle competition in all directions. The normous aggregation of wealth into those great monopolies and trusts is a enace, not only to the ordinary individual, but to the very state itself; for who can say that, as against the enormous power, influence and money of one of these great corporations, the legis-lature of one of our states can prevail, or that, in a short time, even the national congress will not be powerless. Under the fostering policy of the present administration, these trusts have Moon rises—7:15 p. m. grown and multiplied at an appalling rate. The attorney general of the Mc-Kinley administration declares that there is no law and no method of preventing their organization, development and existence. The task which the American people are going to demand from the Democratic party is that they grapple with this great and momentous evil and present a plan for the control of these great corporations, by the state and national government, or for their dissolution and extinction, and the Democratic party will accept the people's ommission, and will do the people's We denounce the policy of the Mc-Kinley administration in its treatment of the islands wrenched from Spain, as antagonistic to the principles contained in the Declaration of Independence, and the provisions of our national constitution. The war, which was begun in behalf of the oppressed people of Cuba, and not for the acquisition of foreign territory, which President McKinley de clared would be criminal aggression, is now, under the direction of the same president, being turned into a policy of conquest and subjugation. The people of the island of Cuba, to whom we promised freedom and independence, are still under the control of the government of the military forces of the United States, with no declared policy on the part of the administration as to their ultimate destiny. The United States is in honor bound to keep its sacred pledges made before the world to maintain its honor untarrished, and to give freedom to those oppressed and heroic people who struggled so manfully for it.

Nobody pretends that the Philippine lands could ever become states of the American Union, and, therefore, must be held as a vassal country, subject to our control. Along what path does this McKinley policy of colonial expansion McKinley policy of colonial expansion lead us? Inevitably to the establishment of a large standing army, which would call for a grievous burden of inwould call for a grievous burden of in-creased taxation on the American working man for the holding in subjection of conquered peoples.

The further development of the Mc-Kinley colonial policy would, inevitably, be a participation in the control of the conquest and partition of China by European nations, and already we are urged by some of our commercial bodies to such action. This means an association with England in the commercial tion with England in the commercial exploitation of that vast country, an alliance with her along the lines of colonial expansion, and sooner or later of conflict of our ancient friends, England's ancient foe, the great empire of Russia. Here, again, the McKinley policy runs counter to the policy and the wise advice of the founders of the republic, which was to avoid mixing ourselves in the controversies of Europe, or implicat-ing ourselves in the ordinary vicissitudes of her politics or the ordinary com-binations and entanglements of her friendships and her enmities.

I AND IT IS The personalities which were indulged in were directed as much against Congressman Fitzgerald as against Mr. Williams, the party leader, and some hard names were called on either side. At times it seemed as if party issues had been thrown to the winds, while audience and speaker hurled strong epithets at each other. Leave your order or send The final result of all the confusion and a postal card to disorder was the overwhelming passage of every motion and report that was nade by the state committee, or that portion of the organization which guided by Mr. Williams, including the option of the platform as presented, e nomination of a state ticket, and the election of national convention delegates, headed by Robert T. Paine, Jr., andidate for governor, and John H. Mack for lieutenant governor, and the election of national convention delegates. The state ticket follows: For governor, Robert T. Paine, Jr.,

Boston; lieutenant governor, John H. Mack, North Adams; secretary of state Our Ice is of the best quality, and Harry Lloyd, Boston; attorney general, John H. Morrison, Lowell; auditor, Walter L. Ramsdell, Lynn; treasurer, Joseph J. Flynn, Lawrence.

The convention was called to order by Temporary Chairman Callahan, over an our after the time specified in the call There were over 1500 delegates seated in the auditorium at that time, and the members of the state committee occupied the platform. Prominent among those near the speaker's stand was Hon. Thomas J. Gargan, and upon his appearance with Mr. Williams the brass band in attendance played "Home Again" in ecognition of Mr. Williams' home coming from Europe and Mr. Gargan's return to the regular Democratic party, he having differed with them on the monetary question in 1896. At the close of Mr. Callahan's opening address he introduced W. S. McNary, secretary of the state committee, as ermanent chairman.

The various committees were appointed. George F. Williams being chairman on the committee on resolutions. It was then reported that there were present 1471 delegates out of a total of 1639 ntitled to seats.

The first sign of discord developed when Mr. Drinkwater of Braintree moved the appointment of a committee to present nominees for delegates to the next national convention. Before the notion could be put Mr. Doyle of Brockton, amid cheers and hisses, tried to amend the motion to the effect that it said that the Massachusetts delegates was the sense of the convention that to the national convention next year will action should not be taken on the mat- all be for Bryan.

He was followed by Mr. Haggerty of Southbridge in opposition to the plan, and Patrick Gilroy of Springfield, who favored it. The latter declared that the elegates should not "bow the knee to Mayor Quincy of Boston."

The excitement was at fever pitch when, amid the cries of hundreds for the right to speak, the chairman recognized Congressman Fitzgerald, He greeted with cat cries, hisses and cheers. He bitterly arraigned Mr. Williams and the action of the state committee, and his remarks so enraged a portion of the audience that it was only upon the urgent demands of the chairman that he was allowed to continue. So violent however, became his personalities that committee had arranged a plot to make regular "trust" out of the delegates resent. He warned the committee hat its downfall was certain. He asked or an honest count and a fair show.

wail, and declared that the congressman was "so steeped in political crime that he ought to be ashamed to raise his head upon the platform." The tumult became almost without bounds at this point, but was somewhat quelled by sturdy wielding of the gavel by Chairman McNary, with the aid of Congressman Talks Fiery and Is that the gentleman who had just number of men from the cattle ships.

Senator Kelliher, the next speaker protested against the participation in this convention of men who had r right there, and could not be elected delegates. He declared that if allegiance to Mr. Williams is a test of his Democracy, then he is not a Democrat. He protested against the election o delegates to a convention that has not yet been called. He declared that th question at issue is the most vital that has been presented in the party for 2 years, and should be settled rightly.

Mr. Crowley of Boston followed. He noted Lincoln's words in regard to fooling the people." He declared that the city employes from the city hall had been sent to the convention by Mayo Quincy, to break up the convention. He referred to Congressman Fitzgerald as the Concord Junction "megaphone," and spoke at length in favor of the original

He argued for 45 minut amid tumult that defies description, until at the command of a captain of police | and that they are only waiting for or he subsided long enough for Chairman McNary to announce the result of the Then he was permitted to state his question.

Instead of doing so, however, he made a long speech to the effect that the delegates had been denied the right to vote as they should, and that an honest and fair count was not obtained. The police step the use of megaphones on the floor. Mr. Fitzgerald appealed for a division of the house, and a roll call, but the chairman ruled that he had not stated a privilege question, and he gave way to Mr. Gargan.

There was a marked difference in the attitude of the delegates towards Mr. Cargan and their treatment of those who had proceeded him. There was almost silence while he was speaking, frequently broken by cheers and applause. The chief feature of his remarks was that he had come back to the party, and now favored the election of Mr. Bryan. In a neat speech of eulogy he nominated Robert Treat Paine, Jr., of Boston as the candidate for governor.

His nomination was unanimously car-

Arthur Withington of Newburyport placed in nomination for lieutenant governor John H. Mack of North Adams. The report of the committee to bring in a list of 20 members-at-large on the state committee was adopted.

Mr. Williams, chairman on the committee on resolutions, then read the platform, which was unanimously adopted. ·The report of the committee on the balance of the state ticket was then made, and the list of candidates above mentioned was unanimously adopted. The chairman then appointed Mr. Williams and Mr. Gargan to escort the gubernatorial candidate into the convention. Mr. Paine was greeted with several rounds of cheers as he was inroduced.

The committee appointed to select the delegates to the national convention ther made its report. There were several attempts at disturbance when the motion to accept the report of this committee was put, but they were suppressed, and the chairman declared the report Mr. Williams, in the course of an interview last night on the scenes at tending the Democratic convention, "When a body of men, armed with megaphones, come in to contest the policy of a state convention, no further explanation as to the probable cause or motive is needed. It was a scandalous business throughout." Mr. Williams

Orange Free State Bound to Assist the Transvaal.

London Papers Impressed With the Added Gravity of the Situation.

London, Sept. 22 .- A dispatch from the chairman called upon a captain of Bloemfontein states that the Orange police to restrain him. He styled the Free State volksraad met yesterday with convention a "snap" one, and said the a full attendance, and President Steyn read a carefully prepared speech.

He expressed regret that the relations between Great Britain and the Transvaal had become strained. Members, Mr. Gallivan of Boston replied to the he said, were aware of the meeting of utterances of Mr. Fitzgerald, and said Sir Alfred Milner and President Kruger that the delegates had just heard the at Bloemfontein, when President Kruger -made proposals which, although rejected by the British high commissioner were unanimously considered throughout the Orange Free State to be exeeedingly fair.

Proceeding to review the negotiations President Steyn said the Transvaal had the police. He said he was disinclined to advise the Transvaa government to accept the latest British demands. The present critical state of affairs could not be a matter of indifference to the Orange Free State, which was bound by treaty to afford assist ance to the Transvaal, and he had therefore, convened the volksraad to decide what attitude should be taken.

"There is nothing," declared the president, "that warrants war or an attack upon the Transvaal. Such differences as exist can be solved by arbitration War would be an insult to religion and

In conclusion, President Steyn said he would take this opportunity of laying ertain draft laws before the volksraad for consideration, praying God to give the members strength to pass resolutions not only conducive to peace and prosperity, but also in the interest of heir beloved state.

Immediately after the speech President Steyn asked the volksraad to go into secret session, which was agreed to unanimously.

While the precise result of the secret session of the raad of the Orange Free State is not yet known here, President Steyn's speech at the opening of the session is regarded as an almost infalquestion, and it was declared carried by lible indication of the attitude of the attitude which the Free State will take Commenting upon this point of view A motion was being made to the effect | the London morning papers are all in that the delegates to the national con- pressed with the added gravity of the situation; and murmurs are beginning to be heard regarding the dilatoriness

Isn't it a singular fact that in the midst of such universal prosperity as now exists there is a man in this country who really wants to be elected president on a platform that would destroy it. Yet there is such a man. TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 26, '99 His name is Bryan. But the outlook happily is that in this matter Mr. Bryan will be permitted to have great

This desirable piece of real estate consists of the large building known as Plumer's Hall, the adjoining store and the homestead and stable. The property will be sold in two lots.

Lot No. 1 contains about 7290 feet of land having 76 7-10 feet frontage on Hancock street. The Plumer Hall building and the building and joining, occupied by T. E. Furnald, and used as a grocery store. The hall is large and very desirable, the two stores below have a floor space of 17x65 feet, this is an unusually lucrative piece of business property, as both the hall and stores let readily and for good prices.

This sale offers the opportunity of a lifetime for a Quincy business man to own a store on the main street, in the centre of the city, without having to buy a lot of back land that he has no use for. Investors will do well to consider this compact piece of business property, covered with stores and no waste land.

Lot No. 2 contains 25,750 square feet of land a handsome dwelling house of 9 rooms, water closet, city water, fine stable, large orchard, pears, apples and grapes in great variety.

To the buyer of a homestead this elegant piece of real estate combines the beauties of the country and the conveniences of the city.

Arthur W. Ryder Married.

Soon after seven o'clock Thursday evening, a large party gathered at the McPhail home on Hancock street to witness the ceremony that united in the bonds of matrimony, Miss Ellen May McPhail, youngest daughter of Mrs. Hugh McPhail, and Mr. Arthur Wilbur Ryder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert M. Ryder of Duxbury.

It was a goldenrod wedding, and the bright flower combined with autumn leaves and vines gave a most artistic effect. The stairs were banked with it, also the fireplaces. The parlors were decorated with goldenrod and asparagus vine, there being a profusion of it in the large window where the bridal party stood.

At half-past seven to the strains of some being quite small. Lohengrin's wedding march, played by Mrs. John Francis Hunt, organist at Bethany church, the bridal party descended the stairs. Miss Mona Birse, was maid of honor and the groom was attended by Mr. J. Edgar Milton, and more particularly East Milton, is alarmed over its water supply and very few families are using the upply for drinking purposes. People have complained for some time of the odor and taste of the water, and when last week a young girl die d, as alleged, from typhoid fever, there were mutterings that the cause of her death was the town water supply.

These mutterings grew rapidly until there are now few in East Milton who do not believe that the water was the cause of her death. People immediately began to stop drinking it, and every day the bucket brigade can be seen going back and forth from a spring. Others get their supply from their neighbor's well.

The next rumor started was that the water supply system had been condemned and everybody forbidden to use it for drinking purposes.

Dr. Walter C. Kite of the Milton Board of Health, when seen Thursday in regard to the water supply, said that it was true that there were rumors that the water had been condemned, but up to the present time no 0 such action had been taken by his board.

He further said that while it was true that there was a disagreeable odor at times to the water, samples of it were sent to the State Board of Health every month and they had pro-4,277 1-2 4,176 1-2 3,940 1-2 nounced it all right.

When asked about the case of typhoid fever at East Milton, Dr. Kite said that there had been no case of the fever in town, as far as he knew, and to his knowledge the East Milton case of fever, if that is what it was, had never been reported to the Board of $2,700. Health, to his knowledge. The laws provide that all such cases shall be immediately reported to the Board of Health, and if this was a case, then the physician had neglected his duty, and he would look into the matter immediately.

Nebraska Republicans' Platform.

Omaha, Sept. 22.-The Republican ctate convention yesterday was one of the most harmonious gatherings eve neld by the party in this state. M. B. Reese was nominated for supreme justice, and E. G. Gilton and William B. Ely for regents of the state university, on the first ballot. The platform heartily endorses the administration of President McKinley, adheres unequivocally to the gold standard, and is unalterably opposed to the free coinage of silver. It pposes trusts and combinations, having for their purpose the stifling of competition, and arbitrarily controlling proluction or fixing prices, but "recognizes that legitimate business interests, fairly capitalized and honestly managed, have ouilt up our industries at home, given the largest employment to labor at the highest wages, and have enabled us to successfully compete with foreign countries in the markets of the world.

Death Caused by a Blow.

Taunton, Mass., Sept. 22.-John Morton, 35 years of age, died suddenly at the Bristol county fair, immediately after he had been struck in the head by companion. James McClusky and James Collier have been placed under arrest by the police, pending the autopsy by the medical examiner. The blow was the result of a quarrel, and, according to witnesses, it was delivered by McClusky. Collier, McClusky and Mor ton had spent the day at the county fair, and during the afternoon all of them, it is claimed, took several drinks of liquor. So far as can be learned, the three men have, in the past, been friends, and it is believed that whatever happened at the fair grounds was the result of their drinking.

Marial Law at Algiers.

Algiers, Sept. 22.-In consequence of the anti-Semite disturbances here, the governor has established military patrols, practically amounting to the proc lamation of martial law.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

Edward Fitzgerald, aegd 12, of North Walpole, N. H., was killed by a train. A number of sporting men were disappointed by the non-arrival of the steamer New England at Boston from Liverpool. On the vessel is Champion Jim Jefferies, and his friends had prepared to give him a reception.

The new Cunard line steamship Ivornia for the Liverpool-Boston service was launched in the Tyne in the presence of 20,000 people. The steamer was christened by the Counters of Ravensworth. Papers were served on the city of Manchester, N. H., by attorney for the Timothy F. Lynch estate, to recove $1578.54, for liquor fines imposed by the local police court between April 21, 1895, and March 26, 1897, alleging that the money was received illegally and wrongfully, the court having no jurisdiction over the offenses alleged.

TO SIDE WITH KRUGER.

Cape Colony Will Probably Fall In Line at the Last Moment.

Transvaal Martial Law Will Apply to Whole Country.

British Cabinet Meets and Forwards Another Disgatch to Sonth Africa.

London, Sept. 23.-The Johannesburg correspondent of The Morning Post says: It is asserted here that an understanding exists in Pretoria that the Cape Colony government will, at the last moment, declare in favor of the Transvaal. It is reported that fresh arrests of journalists and outlander leaders are imminent in Johannesburg.

The Cape Town correspondent of The Daily Chronicle says: I have the best authority for the statement that the Orange Free State unanimously resolved to assist the Transvaal against British aggression.

The Pretoria correspondent of The Daily Chronicle says: I am positively informed that when the raad discussed the last dispatch, a majority favored the five-years' franchise. Milner's fresh demands had an electric effect on the raad, however, even those who favored the outlanders directing President Kruger to take his present course.

A dispatch from Cape Town says that the Berkshire battalion will be moved today from King Williams Town to the Orange Free State border, apparently in response to President Steyn's speech at the opening of the raad.

The Transvaal government denies that State Attorney Smuts has informed Mr Greene that further British mobilization will be regarded as an unfriendly

State Secretary Reitz says that when martial law is proclaimed it will apply to the whole country.

Mr. Reitz has replied to an application made by certain outlanders to remain in Johannesburg in the event of war that all who desire may do so.

Commandant General Joubert, replying to numerous requests on the part of journalists for permission to accompany the commands, said that applications were premature.

A green book has been issued at Pretoria containing the report of State At torney Smuts to the government on th pour parlers between himself and the British diplomatic agent, Mr. Greene leading to the conditional five years franchise proposal.

Mr. Smuts asserts that the proposa was the result of a private discussion and an arrangement that both govern ments should informally decide abou the offer and its acceptance before th offer should be formally submitted. He also contends that the exact draft of the offer was wired to Mr. Milner, and that the imperial government sent a dispatch to Mr. Greene, which the latter in terpreted as an acceptance of the offer

Mr. Smuts says that, had the Trans vaal known any difficulty would be made about suzerainty, his government would never have made the proposals, but would brobably have immediately accepted the invitation to a joint commission of inquiry regarding the seve years' proposal. He also denies that he promised Mr. Greene that the new members of the raad would be allowed to speak English. All he said on this subject, he declares, was that the matte would easily settle itself; and he show that, in the telegram to Mr. Milner, no mention was made of this subject.

President Kruger has been in telegraphic conference with President Steyn | Taylor, 3. regarding the situation and the decision of the raad of the Orange Free State is awaited with interest

Large numbers of Germans, Frenchmen, Hollanders and Americans at Pretoria have offered their services to Commandant General Joubert in the event of hostilities. The elder burghers still fail to see the grounds of a casus belli, but, if Mr .Chamberlain makes what they would characterize as "humiliating demands." such as, for instance, disarmament, war would be inevitable. It is understood that the secret session of the raad of the Orange Free State will continue until the beginning of next

The government, it is understood, has cabled Mr. Milner a message in accordance with the cabinet's decision, as outlined in The Pall Mall Gazette. It is said that the message also protests strongly against the accusation of bad faith on the part of Mr. Greene.

In the meantime no active steps will be taken to send an army corps to South Africa, but preparations of a general kind will continue quietly for the dispatch of a large army under General Sir Redvers Buller, should President Kruger decline to avail himself of the further opportunity now given for a com-

be correct, is as follows: The comparatively short duration of the council warrants the conclusion that nothing of supreme importance was decided at it, and such we believe to be the fact. Information in our posession is to the effect that it was an interim cabinet summoned to consider an interim dispatch. It is believed that this paper, which met with the unanimous approval of Mr. Chamberlain's colleagues, will be published as soon as received by the Boer government, on Monday, or at the

According to The Pall Mall Gazette, the dispatch opens with an expression of regret at the unfavorable character of Secretary Reitz's last reply, and proceeds with a very firm insistence upon the repudiation of the claim of the Transvaal to the status of a sovereign state, once more pointing out British readiness to settle at once the nature of the proposed arbitration tribunal, provided the other British conditions are promptly and unreservedly accepted, concluding with the intimation that the imperial government is now engaged in drawing up its own terms, and that the

Transvaal may expect to hear from them

The Pall Mall Gazette says that another meeting of the cabinet will take place next Thursday or Friday, when the issues will be presented in a more serious shape.

A St. Petersburg dispatch says: Believing that war between Great Britain and the Transvaal is imminent, most of the Russian newspapers make no attempt to conceal their sympathy with the Boers.

The Novoe Vremya raises the question of the maintenance of the Suez canal as an international waterway, if the whole of East Africa, from Cairo to the Cape of Good Hope, is to be formed into a compact British colony.

The Novosti comments ir bitter terms upon "England's grab policy," and warns her that the war would not be a triumphal march.

BOSTONS WHITEWASHED.

Succeeded In Capturing Second Game, However, by a Narrow Margin.

Boston, Sept. 23.-Two farewell games were played by Boston and Chicago at the South End grounds, each team winning one. The season's series is finished, though 12 games only of the 14 scheduled have been played, Chicago winning the series, 7 to 5.

In the first game Nichols pitched for Boston, and although he pitched a firstclass game, the Chicagos had the good fortune to bunch their hits enough to score three runs. This handicap was too much, and the home team was whitewashed. Garvin kept the Bostons hits Proposed Army Division of Philippines.

Washington, Sept. 23.-A plan is under consideration at the war department to create an army division of the Philipde the division into de pines and partments on a basis similar to that in Cuba. The idea is to create four departments in the Philippines, at least three of them to be commanded by major generals. The Philippines heretofore have been known as the department of the Pacific. It is expected that one department of the proposed new division will consist of General Mac-Arthur's command north of Manila, another will be General Lawton's command south of Manila, and a third will be a new command to operate from Lingayen or Dagupan. The fourth department probably will consist of the troops in the islands south of Manila, which include the commands now at Isolated Peoples.

Perhaps the most isolated tribe of people in the world is the Tshuktshi, a people occupying the northern portion of the peninsula of Kamchatka and the country northward toward Bering strait. These people are practically independent of Russia, who appears to have reasons of her own for letting them alone. They have practically no communication with the outside world, and have only been visited two or three times—the last time by Major de Windt on his journey through Siberia.

The inhabitants of the New Siberian islands are also practically alone on earth, for they can only communicate with the mainland and therefore with the rest of the world once a year, and a succession of bad seasons might isolate them for years.

The pygmies of the great central African forests, if they can be called a tribe, have also been a people apart. For ages their existence was little more than legendary, and only two expeditions commanded by white men have ever penetrated into their abode.

All guests to be asked to meet the prince must receive his sanction, and the story is told of one American woman who was informed on very short notice that England's future king intended to dine with her on a certain night. It was a decidedly difficult matter to get satisfactory guests to fill out the party, as many of the desired people had to break other engagements to dine with the prince. And then, at the last minute, his royal highness sent word that he would be out of London at that date, and the poor hostess was left with a lot of disgruntled guests on her hands. Another American hostess had to submit to seeing Albert Edward draw his pencil through her own mother's name. It is said that the prince is just as severe with the English as his American hostesses, and great tact is necessary sometimes to ask people who may meet with the prince's approbation, but who would prove distasteful to the Princess of Wales.

Before I have a chance to round it off I am interrupted, dragged away or confronted with a new face to whom I am introduced. I begin again, to have the experience duplicated again and again. I have the same trouble with my cups of tea. I put them down half emptied to greet some new arrival, to find them whisked away. "'I leave with a trail of unfinished phrases and undrunk cups of tea behind me. I go home in a thoroughly exhausted frame of mind, with a tendency to leave off everything I undertake and start something fresh.' It is, of course, the disease of this decadenervous debility-shown in a new guise. In the majority of cases it will lead to mental and perhaps bodily paralysis, as has already been the case with so many of my male patients."

A Lassie's Long Swim.

Miss Mary Livingstone, Scotland's champion lady swimmer, attempted to swim from Greenock to Rothesay, a distance of 15 miles, says the London Leader. She took the water at 11:40, our drivers gentlemanly and courthe temperature being in the region of teous. 48 degrees. She showed splendid form and no signs of fatigue. After leaving Gourock some refreshment was administered, and her hands were rubbed. She passed Clock lighthouse at 12:50, the distance up to this point being six miles and the time occupied two hours and ten minutes, the tide and river aiding her greatly. Miss Livingstone began to show signs of exhaustion shortly after passing the lighthouse, and as the sea had turned a trifle rough it was evident she would not succeed in her object. When opposite Wemyss castle, about eight miles from Greenock, the doctors decided to take her on board, the swim to this point taking 3 hours and 40 minutes. She pleadd to be allowed to float and finish the

A Costly Gown.

Think of the thousands of women in America who never have enough money to buy one new summer gown. Then think again, and try to imagine, if you can, a single gown worth $1,750. Mrs. William Astor is its possessor, and it is only one of a gorgeous group of gowns which were executed for her especially for the Newport season. The $1,750 dress is made entirely of black lace over white satin, with a very long court train, a full waist and a white chiffon front. The front is studded with Roman pearls, or, rather, the imitation pearls, which are only made ix one place, and which are costly. This gown is intended and is made with short sleeves and is so designed that with it are to be worn Mrs. Astor's celebrated pearls, the long chain and collar which she has worn so often at the opera. The gown is one that is just suited to display to advantage such superb gems as the Astor jewels

-Exchange. About Handkerchiefs.

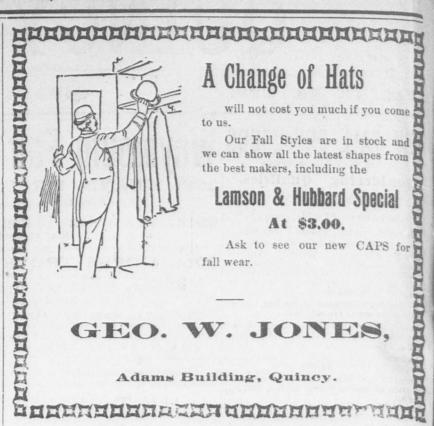

It might truthfully be stated that the handkerchief is one of the most important articles of clothing, and an interesting bit of reading it makes to scan the statistics of the number of handkerchiefs that are sold even in one shop during the year. But there are handkerchiefs and handkerchiefs, and some have very little reference to others.

The bargain ones, for instance, that are sold for 121/2 cents and that are pretty and most useful, bear little resemblance to the minute square of finest linen that is embroidered with the owner's monogram, and which never costs less than $3 or $4. Just at present it is the fad to have the finest and the most expensive handkerchiefs that can be bought.

Pale Faces In Paris.

A startling innovation comes to us from Paris. So far it has been considered rather the thing to apply just a touch of rouge to my lady's cheek when preparing for a social function of any kind, but now the edict has gone forth that no more rouge is to be used, and the queens of the beau monde are seen in public with faces almost ghastly in their pallor.

The bepowdered face might not be so startling in itself but for the fact that the lips are abnormally red. The face must be white and lips a vivid carmine, and the tout ensemble is something which almost takes one's

Ramsdell Considers Himself Disgraced by Nomination

Demands Withdrawal of His Name From Ticket.

Says Convention Was Only to Further Plans of Williams.

Dissa'isfied Democrat.

Boston, Sept. 23 .- Ex-Mayor Ramsdell of Lynn has forwarded to Secretary Mc-Nary of the Democratic state committee a declination of the nomination for auditor which was vouchsafed him. In an interview he said: "I don't want it, to carry through the program at all, of and I don't want any other office or position that will compel me to join in the train of politicians who engineered the raid on popular rights. I am still with the Democratic party, a party which to my mind is without a state organization entilted either to loyalty or respect." His letter of declination reads, in part, as follows: "In the convention held Thursday, alleged to be a convention of the Democratic party of Massachusetts, my name was presented and accepted as a nominee for the office of state auditor. If, in the course of the arbitrary and despotic conduct of the proceedings following the announcement of the list of nominees. I had been given an opportunity to do so, I should have declined the nomination on the spot. Having been refused recognition I am compelled to forward a declination by mail.

"While very grateful to those who selected my name for the nomination and to the convention for accepting the same, I am not sensible of any particular honor conferred thereby. On the contrary, as the nomination places me in more or less direct association with the authors of Thursday's wicked perversion of Democratic principles, I am compelled to regard it as a disgrace.

"The control of the Democratic organization in this commonwealth has been obtained by an element which in the beginning stood for loyalty to William Jennings Bryan and the Chicago platform, and as such was entitled to the support of all Democrats who were faithful to the regenerated party.

"The example of Democracy's great national leader in relying solely on the sense of justice among the people and discountenancing the intrigues and sharp practices of the unscrupulous politician, was one which the Democratic organization in this state was in duty bound to follow if it aimed to gain and hold public confidence. There would much of the energy expended in recent times in maintaining a strong state or ganization has been exerted in behalf of those whose interest in party success was more personal than otherwise. Evidence points to an increasing domination of party affairs by private interests ascending superior to party welfare. To the minds of many the purpose of building up a powerful organization for the party's sake has been subordinuted to the purpose of erecting a potent machine for George Fred Williams' sake.

"The point to be gained this year, in the state committee's view, was the Plection of a delegation to the next national convention which could be depended upon to support George Fred Williams in any plans that gentleman might formulate to secure to himself national recognition. It was no question as to the fidelity of the delegation to Bryan, the state committee knowing that whoever were chosen by Demowas for Williams and Williams alone that a delegation was desired and the state committee determined to have such a delegation by fair means or foul. The necessities of the case compelled the adoption of the latter, as the proceedings of the convention clearly show. "With a test imposed such as the state committee prescribed it was doubtful if the districts would be bound by it, and lo set the doubt at rest they were debarred from the usual and Democratic method of expressing their preferences. This done, it was next incumbent on the conspirators to pack the convention, and this was accomplished by making use of the warring factions in the Boston De-

"All who witnessed the scenes of the convention saw that mobs from the fighting wards of Boston were contend-Ing on the floor and remarked upon the superior size and strength of the state committee's mobs. As a means of affording Boston politicians opportunities to wipe out old scores the convention was a decided success, but as a means of eliciting a full and fair expression of the sentiment of Massachusetts Democ racy it was a most lamentable failure. "I have to sincerely congratulate you Mr. McNary, on the consummate skill with which you handled the difficult task assigned you by the state committee, which probably began some weeks previous to the convention, with the scouring of your city for good material with which to swing it into line. I congratulate the state committee on the evident establishment of loving relations between it and certain Boston Democrats, whom it was necessary to savagely oppose not long ago because of their anti-Bryan and anti-silver attitudes, and whose names now appear in the list eral months ago, as a result of pro of national delegates. Mayor Quincy, who is closely identified with the leading men of that section of the Democratic party in Massachusetts which opposed the selection of delegates to the national Democratic convention at the state convention of the party,

"The action of the convention in selecting a full list of delegates to the Democratic national convention of next year, in advance even of the issue by the national committee of the call for such convention, bregard as a most irregular, improper and undemocratic proceeding. If I were the only Democrat in Massact chusetts opposed to this proceeding I would still desire to go on record against. it. The convention, however, clearly demonstrated that the sentiment in opposition to the course which the state committee has succeeded in forcing upon the party is widespread. The opposition to the idea of depriving the Democratic voters in the several congressional districts of the time-honored right to select their own delegates was, at any rate, great enough to change very radieally the slate which had been prepared for delegates to the national convention. and to compel the acceptance, in order nany delegates who are known now to be the creatures of the present state machine or its leader. I am still confident that if the Democrats of the state could be polled they would vote against this departure from the usual course of procedure and this usurpation of the political power by a large majority. Unfortunately the leadership of the elenents which controlled yesterday's convention has reduced the Democratic party of this state to a condition of political indifference which makes it difsion of opinion "My opposition to the undemocratic action of the convention in respect to the choice of delegates will not affect my support of the state ticket, and I do not propose to be driven out of the Demo ratic party by anyone. With many of the declarations of the platform I am heartily in favor, and I would vote for any ticket that could be nominated to express my abhorrence of the miserable mess which the present administration has made of the whole Philippine ques

HOT CONTROVERSY.

Commander Shaw Thinks Grand Army Men Should Head Dewey Parade.

General Roe, However, Holds to His Previous Decision, in Which He is Unanimously Supported by Plan and Scope Committee.

New York, Sept. 23.-General Albert D. Shaw, commander-in-chief of the G. A. R., has issued an address to the public, in which he says:

"I desire to submit the following statement of facts in justification of requests made to Major General Roe that the veterans be allowed to have the right of line in the Dewey parade. The reasons given in the letter from Department Commander Kay, and presented in person to General Roe, embodied the views I personally and strongly pressed upon him, and which should command the place for the comrades in the line in

"I made this request, following the precedents of two states. First, in Chicago, at the jubilee parade, the veterans were accorded the right of line, and marched ahead of all armed troops; sec ond, on the return of the Tenth regiment Pennsylvania volunteers, from the Philippines, the Grand Army of the Republic had the right of line at Pittsburg, folowed by the president and governor and their staffs, then the national guard and the Tenth regiment. After passing ove half the route the Grand Army halted. formed line, dressed back to the curb and the whole line marched by.

"In light of these comparatively re cent parades, I could not but feel that the Grand Army comrades of New York, representatives of the greatest state in the union, which sent more men than any other state to preserve the nation from ruin, were as richly entitled to head the line of the Dewey parade as were the comrades of Pennsylvania to lead a similar civic pageant in honor of our Spanish-American war heroes, and I felt when I made the plea that the pre cedent set by the state of Pennsylvania n having the veterans lead the line, President McKinley and the governor of the state following, was one that might be followed without any loss of dignity to those controlling the Dewey parade in New York.

"The criticism made by Colonel Adams in reference to what he did and what he advised is not germane to this contro versy, in view of the fact that he holds no office in our G. A. R., and had, no delegated authority to speak in its behalf.

"The irresponsible chatter of comrade" holding no position in our order, and who ligations they have taken to obey their superior officers, is not to be taken as an expression worthy of consideration. "I wish to add that my only desire has been to stand for the honor and dignity of the Grand Army, and I know I shall not be blamed by fair-minded and patriotic citizens for doing my duty in this respect, as I understand it. It gives me the greatest pleasure to extend to Governor Roosevelt my warn congratulations on the just and patriotic stand he has taken in behalf of the aging veterans of the nation, in using his inluence to have their just reques city of New York in honor of the great Admiral Dewey, thus assuring newest veterans that when they grow of the Manufacturers' association was old in their turn they shall not be the

"I would have been proud to lead the head of the line, as was done by a com rade in the Pittsburg parade, and in the Arion one at Chicago, for I believe the New York volunteers of 1861 to 1865 were men to the committee is an important the peers of any volunteers that ever stood forth for the nation.

"As Commander Kay says in his letinterests. It is considered a step toward | ter to General Roe 'In their own time and in their own way the Grand Army of the Republic, as representatives of the veterans of the Civil war, will render the nomage that they feel for their comrade

> At Friday's meeting of the Dewey plan and scope committee, General Roe made the following statement: "In order that there may be no misunderstanding, I wish to make this statement in reference to the declination of the Grand Army of the Republic to take part in the Admiral Dewey land parade:

> "On my representation, at my instigation, and on my resolution, I was authorized by this committee to extend an invitation to the Grand Army of the Republic of Greater New York to take part in the parade, by having a certain number of men selected from each post forming a battalion or regiment according to the number. At the request of a prominent Grand Army man, I asked General O. O. Howard to take command of this body, being wured that this was agreeable to the state commander. At an interview between the state commander, several members of the G. A. R. and myself, I understood that the selection of General Howard was agreeable. At this same interview I informed them that the Grand Army would be assigned a position with the unarmed organiza-

"One of the members of the Grand Army present agreed with me that that was their natural place, and the other members expressed no dissatisfaction. At a later interview practically a mand was made that the Grand Army should have the right of the line or head of the column, Colonel Goulden stating that it was the sentiment of the G. A. R. that if they could not have the lead they would not parade. I called their attention to the fact that it was a city affair, and that that position was not their proper one, and said 'positively and absolutely the Grand Army cannot have the head of the column,' whereupon they Governor Roosevelt has telegraphed General Roe from Utica as follows: "If the matter is one purely for the city authorities and in which I have no power, then of course I withdraw my former telegram. I had understood that General Roe was acting as major general of the national guard in the management of the parade, and in that event I, of course, had the power to direct that the veterans be given the right of the line and accordingly did it. Through the long dark I wasch and wake Beside my armor bright, For morrow's dawning sun shall make Me, too, a belted knight.

The sileut hours drag slow and long; The chapel floor is cold; My weary eyes are faint, but strong

My heart to win and hold. No kin may help, no friend draw nigh, And all the world's asleep, For this one night my soul and I Alone must vigil keep.

Yet through you oriel's tinted wheel Of stars a silent throng Watch over me and wish my weal-Knights who were brave and strong.

In silver armor clad, like mine They throng the blessed field, Bright on my helm and corselet shine And bless my sword and shield.

They nobly strove in war's alarms, They died to keep their vow, But first they watched to win their arms As I am watching now.

May their noblesse me, too, inspire, Who long like them to fight, When I, who now am but a squire, Shall rise a belted knight.

-Abbie Farwell Brown in Youth's Compar-

My Vocation.

My name is Arthur Clarence Fitzgerald Mackenzie. I am 25, tall, good looking and a clerk. I am not absolutely miserable, but am nevertheless far from happy.

The cause of my own unhappiness is that I cannot alight upon the particular walk in life in which my abilities are destined to make me famous.

It was my father's great principle that every man is a genius in a particular department, but the chances are a million to one that he never finds that department.

For 50 years he worked at the trade of bootmaking without becoming a penny piece the richer, and it was only on his deathbed that he found he ought to have been a cabinet minister.

My own delusion was that I came into this world for the sole purpose of showing its inhabitants something startling in the detective line.

My opportunity came at last. I was walking down the Strand in that calm, thoughtful manner peculiar to pecple of great brain power when a passerby looked searchingly into my face. It was only a glance, and he passed on almost immediately, apparently satisfied with his inspection.

I literally jumped with eagerness and delight. The man, although outwardly refined and gentlemanly, had a very striking face.

"That man," said I to myself, "has every indication of being a villain." Then a thrill of excitement ran through his ear tapered to a point at the top; it was, in fact, a splendid example of the criminal ear.

"That man is a villain," said I. Having come to this rather impor-I turned up my coat collar. A detective snow, and therefore necessarily conspic-

I then followed my man in a slouching, shuffling way, in order to show people that I had no object in following him. I rounded my shoulders, bowed my head, looked up under my eyebrows with the most approved ferret expressions and followed my quarry with the pertinacity of a bloodhound.

"His general appearance and demeanor," I soliloquized, "are indicative of refinement. He is therefore a gentleman. Being a gentleman, it cannot be his object to perpetrate a common burglary. He has the aspect of a foreigner. Being a foreigner, he may be a Russian, and, being a Russian, be must be a nihilist. Good heavens! The welfare of the populace, the very fate of the dynasty, may be at stake. Perhaps this man carries an infernal machine concealed upon his person. But what is the life of one man to the safety of thousands? I will risk my life for

Here I collided violently with a lamppost. This delayed me for some time, but when I again caught up to my man I was rewarded by perceiving unmistakable signs of criminal communica-

Two or three times I had noticed an individual on the opposite side of the road almost keeping pace with the one I was following. I was rather suspicious of him at first, but when I saw him go into a public house I naturally came to the conclusion that he had dropped out of the chase.

I was wrong, however. A little farther on my man turned back and went into the same house. Now, thought I, as I followed him, the plot thickens.

I found my particular villain sitting at a table reading a newspaper. For nearly a quarter of an hour I furtively watched them. Then my patience was rewarded. The man who was reading took out a pencil and began scribbling something on the margin of the newspaper.

Presently the man threw the newspaper down by the side of his accomplice and walked out. I did not follow him this time. I felt convinced that he had left behind all I wanted.

I thought of walking over and taking up the paper, but, as I anticipated, before I could do so the other man pounced on it like a hawk. For a few minutes he pretended to read the news, then I on my back with unnecessary violence. saw his eyes sneak to the side of the page and devour the pencil note.

Now this is where I displayed my genius. When the man had read the note, he deliberately tore off the piece, folded it up, stuck it into the gas and lighted his cigarette with it. Like a flash I took out a cigarette, and, walking over to him. said the usual, "After | one. OUR WEEKLY FASHION PLATE.

A few minutes later the man left and with my heart in my mouth I picked up the paper and spread it out. Part of the writing was burned, but what remained almost made me yell with triumph. It ran thus:

Attempt will be made tonight / Colonel Lewis' house in approach from back garden in Cardon st.

Black Jake and Ned Sawyer.

That was sufficient for me. It was plain that Colonel Lewis' house was to be the scene of a desperate outrage. Probably the colonel would be murdered and his residence blown up by dynamite. I shook with excitement. It was plain as daylight.

When the curtain of night dropped like a stormcloud over the palpitating city (a rather fine phrase), it found me concealed in the shrubbery of Colonel Lewis' garden in Cardon street.

Determined not to be anticipated, I had reached the rendezvous much earlier than was necessary, so I had plenty of time to work out my schemes.

"They will climb that wall," I soliloquized. "They will walk along this flower bed, so as not to make a noise on the gravel, and no doubt the first start will be made on that French window. I will let them go on. The great thing is to catch them in the act. Their object is not plunder. They will burst open the window and go straight up stairs, with Nemesis on their track.

"Then," I continued, "comes the reward of valor-the wreath of laurels, the columns in the newspapers, the universal admiration of my countrymen. I shall be the idol of England, the lion of the age. I shall"-

Something or somebody gripped me suddenly by the back of the neck. Somebody else put his hand over my mouth, and the two together threw me

For a moment I was stunned. When my senses returned and I opened my eyes, I could just discern the sinister features of my friend the villain, who was kneeling spitefully on my chest. The other man was there too. He was holding me by the hair.

"Do you know him, Simpson?" said

A light broke upon me. Gentle-

I am sorry to say those few words caused me still more humiliation. They literally jumped on me and finished up by ramming two handkerchiefs into my mouth.

What surprised me most and partly confirmed my suspicions was that one of them procured a pair of handcuffs, with which he decorated my wrists. Having completed this little programme, they both sat on me and with the coolest cheek you can imagine.

After listening to their conversation for a quarter of an hour without being able to join in, I came to the conclusion that I had committed an egregious error. From their remarks I gathered that the two persons whom I had the honor of supporting were not Black Jake and Ned Sawyer, but two detectives from Scotland Yard.

I tried to make them understand that I wished to explain things, but they smiled in a most provoking manner and were not at all kind to me. I tried to think, but my brain was in a whirl. Before I had succeeded in quieting it the excitement of the evening commenced.

A stealthy tread was heard, a slight rustling of the grass, which I should hardly have noticed myself. Two dark forms crept along in the shadow of the wall. They made for the French windows and silently set to work. Two minutes later a pane of glass had been cut out and deposited on the ground. One minute after that Black Jake

out this time, my lad. The house is surrounded and I have a dozen men within call. I managed to get out of it, although circumstances looked so black against me. Detective McFadden and his assistant had noticed me following them. They informed the magistrate that I was more of a fool than a rogue, which opinion my employer, who was called to give evidence as to my character, heartily confirmed.

After this incident I tried many different trades and professions in order to find the one for which I was most suited. but without success. -. Tit-Bits.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Sept. 24-Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle. Topic.-Gideon's band.-Judg. vii, 1-23.

The story of Gideon's band is interesting and inspiring. Gideon was the fifth of the judges of Israel and in many respects the greatest of them all. He was called of God to deliver his people from the oppression of the Medianites. He blew his trumpet, and 32,000 rallied to his standard. By allowing the timid to his standard. By anowing the standard to withdraw and as a result of a second test at the "spring of trea bling" his army was reduced to a band of 300 men. These, by a strategy peculiar to eastern warfare, under the battlecry of "The sword of the Lord and of Gideon!" won a signal victory over Israel's enemies, which resulted in a 40 years' peace. This historic incident has been the inspiration of thousands of God's people in their struggles against satan, the powers of the air and unregenerate In the incident we have the secret of success in Christian work and warfare. 1. Success in Christian work depends more upon God than upon numbers. Numbers are not to be despised, but they are often magnified above their desert. There is too much of a tendency today in Christian work to depend entirely upon external agencies. External agencies of great appearance easily lead us to neglect God and to trust in that which is human. We must guard against this tendency. In all Christian work the source of power is God. If God be for us, greater is He that is for us than all they that be against us, and if He be for us, no matter who or what is against us, we shall prevail. To succeed we must keep close to God. It is not by might nor by power, but by God's spirit, true success is won. Paul may plant and Apollos water, but God only can give the increase.

2. Success in Christian work depends more upon the character of the workers than upon the number of them. Quality is more to be desired than quantity. Paul, with a little band of devout, consecrated followers, stirred the whole heathen world and largely won it for Christ. More attention should be paid to the quality of Christian workers. Too many are hindrances rather than helps. They impede progress rather than accelerate it. They are in the way rather than on the way. There needs to be more testing today are bowing the knee to Baal should step aside till entirely consecrated to God.

This topic should suggest a personal testing of ourselves. What kind of soldiers and workers are we? Are we timsomething else than God, or are we whole hearted, consecrated followers of Christ?

The Wonders of God's Power.

We think of God's power chiefly when we are in the presence of some the Grand canyon of the Yellowstone, but no one can reflect long upon the most commonplace landscape or other by it, nor is there a greater pleasure to most devout minds than to meditate upon such a subject. Mark off a square foot of ground some time and then examine it minutely and patiently, studying what there is in it in the way of plants or minerals, how it came to be what it is, how it is changing from day to day, and you will gain new conception of the divine power and wisdom. To study God's power on a large scale, as in connection with astronomy, for example, impresses one strongly with the immensity of the divine power, but to study it in little things impresses one equally with its wonderful care of detail, its almost incredible attention to the perfection of details and with the love of order and beauty which surely must be qualities in the divine nature. -Congregationalist.

Ill Mated.

A spiritually prepared preacher without a like minded congregation is like yoking the ox and the ass together. Instead of great things for the glory of God and an abundance of blessings from the word of life the assembly goes its way and straight way forgets what manner of men and women they are. The preacher is thrown back upon himself and requires a double portion of the spirit to save him from despair. The unbelieving go on in their sins, and the gospel goes forth into a community where sin abounds shorn of its power as an immediate remedy for the regeneration of human society.-Reformed Church Messenger.

God Was Preparing.

How often, after those who are dear to us have been suddenly called into the petter life, we recognize that a strange tenderness and responsiveness to spiritual motives characterized them in the days or weeks immediately preceding the summons! They did not in the least "No nonsense, Jake," said my friend realize that they were so near the end, of the morning. "You are fairly bowled but God was preparing them for it .-Watchman.

The Root of All Evil.

Many good people prefer to take all the risks themselves rather than let the church catch any disease from the root of all evil .- Ram's Horn.

A Distinction.

It is right to be contented with what we have, but never with what we are. -Episcopal Recorder.

DEFENDING THE BOERS.

A Baltimore Tourist Talks on the Transvaal Controversy.

THE WAR SENTIMENT IN LONDON.

Great Britain's Policy In Dealing With the Little Republic Declared to Be Unjust-The Heroic Spirit of the Sturdy Burghers.

The Baltimore Sun publishes an interview with Mr. O. F. Hershey, a prominent attorney of that city, who has just returned from an extended trip abroad. Discussing the Transvaal controversy, Mr. Hershey says: "When I left London everybody expected war. The expansionists want it, and the peace party realize that 10 feet high in the clear. Front veranda Kruger is standing up for right and is 8 by 13 in size. The vestibule is 4 by will not yield except to bullets. There 8 in size, double doors in front and in-is the same division of sentiment in side of vestibule. Vestibule opens into England on this question that there is reception hall, which is 11 by 16 in size. with us on the question of expansion. The independent press and the so called 'intellectuals'-writers, professors, scholars—are bitterly opposed to England's policy of brute force in South Africa. These are taunted as 'Little Englanders' by the commercial element, and everywhere, in the clubs and shops, one hears the brutal doctrine that might is right. England is strongest; therefore England is sovereign. She desires the Transvaal; therefore it is her duty to seize it. It brokers, mine promoters, patronage jobbers and Rhodesians rise up and call 'old England' blessed for espous-

"The Boers were the first in South Africa. Through no fault nor wish of theirs England obtained dominion over them at the Cape, and after various vicissitudes they finally, 60 years ago, penetrated into a wilderness over which England had no claim. There, after the most thrilling record of struggle and suffering known to history, they conquered the savage and the jungle and founded their little state. Endland had no more to do with it than the United States.

"They are now a little nation of simple folk, loving the land they won with their blood and living in peace and plenty far from the rush of cities and the madding crowd. In their veins is the same Teutonic blood that made England and the north of Europe what it is. They are well governed and ask only to be left in peace. Among them and about them are many South African English. They are bitterly opposed to England's present policy.

"But for the discovery of great mineral wealth in the Transvaal the present situation would never have arisen. The hunt for gold has brought into Johannesburg more foreigners than there are Boers in the whole state. It has brought with it all the evils and all the characteristics peculiar to large mining towns. The foreign money is everything. It buys legislators, corrapts police, opens gambling and drink places, produces discontent. It did it in our mining cities; it does it in the Transvaal. For this state of things Englishmen hold the Boers responsible and demand that they abdicate their rulership.

The uitlanders have all the wealth A Message by Telephone brings immediate made in the Transvaal; the Boers have NIGHT RATE one half the day rate, except unsolicited; they can go when they please, but they stay and cry for blood. They demand the franchise and various rights and concessions which, if granted, will enable them to wipe the According to a famous Maryland statesman, 'two outvote one,' and 'no one knows this better than Kruger and his followers. "By the way, according to some newspapers, one would infer that the Boers are all a set of ignorant farmers. On the contrary, the new generation of Boers has more than its percentage of highly educated lawyers, doctors, preachers, scientists, scholars. The simple and struggling life of the fathers is telling in the splendid vitality and superiority of the sons. "A South African whom I met at Edinburgh assured me that the level of intelligence in the Transvaal was considerably higher than it is in Yorkshire. The Boers, said he, will fight to the last ditch. They are inspired with the same spirit that sustained the Greeks at Thermopylae or the Americans at Bunker Hill. England can slaughter them, but she can never conquer them. The hour of external success in South Africa will be the hour of ultimate failure. It will be the same sort of victory Cromwell won in Ireland or Berkeley in Virginia.

"No one denies that the situation is bad; that the Boers have made many mistakes; that foreigners suffer wrongs they would not suffer at home; that taxation is notoriously unjust; that the dynamite monopoly is a moral and economic monstrosity; that there is gross corruption; that there is some disorder. But if this justifies armed intervention, then some other nations had better beware of John Bull's virtuous sword. The truth is the Boers have done remarkably well under the situation.

Four Aces in Turn.

One often hears and reads of queer deals and hands at whist, but seldom does it happen that in four consecutive deals that the four aces are cut in rotation. A party of four sat down in a house not far from City Square Thursday evening for a friendly game. After a little play, A who was dealing was cut the ace of clubs, B then dealt and was cut the ace of spades. When the deal came to C, the lady remarked that she should not be slighted and upon trump being turned it proved to be the ace of hearts. The cards then passed on to D who shuffled them thoroughly with the remark that she too should have an ace turned, and begin at once. sure enough when the trump was turned it proved to be the ace of diamonds. In every case each hand was played and the cards thoroughly shuffled before being cut.

Castle Square Theatre. At the Castle Square Theatre the coming week's attraction will be the three-act drama " Sue," written by Bret Harte and prepared for the stage by T. Edgar Pemberton, which had a prosperous run at the Boston Museum three seasons ago. It will be remembered that the play has a strong melodramatic interest throughout, that its characters are drawn with a masterly skill and that the humorous element needed for contrast is well supplied. "Sue' calls for some elaborate stage effects and these will be given prominence in the Castle Square theatre production. The cast will be as follows: Ira Beasley, John Craig; Silas Prescott, Lindsay Morison; Parson Davies, Edward Wade; Jim Wynd, Charles Mackay; John Scott, J. L. Seeley; Jeff Bragg, N. H. Mrs. M. F. Long, of Le Loup, Franklin Co., Kans., writes: "Words cannot express how grateful I am for your kind advice and good medicines. I have been in poor health more or less all my life. In the past nine years grew worse, and two years ago I was so poorly could hardly drag around. I consulted a specialist, and he said I had ulceration and that an operation would have to be performed. This did not seem necessary to me, so time went by, and at last I wrote to Dr. Pierce asking advice I soon got a helpful answer advising me to try his medicines, the 'Favor ite Prescription,' 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and also his 'Pleasant Pellets.' I began taking 'Favorite Prescription' and the other medicines as advised. When commence ing I weighed 119½ pounds, and after taking one bottle of each I felt like a new woman. In one month I gained 8 pounds. After taking two bottles of each of the medicine I began to look like a woman and not like a skeleton, and that weary tired feeling all left me."

Second Caremony Performed to Conform With Statutes of the United States.

Newport, R. I., Sept. 25.-Princess Cantacuzene, who was until last evening Miss Julia Dent Grant, is the eldest daughter of Brigadier General Frederick D. Grant, now in command of part of the American forces in the Philippines. The bride is 23 years old. She was born in the White House at Washington, and when young was oft 'n referred to as the "Daughter of the Republic." She is a tall, stately brunette, with eyes that have been likened to brown pansies, rich olive complexion and a wealth of dark hair that a poetic admirer once described as "tresses of the night." She is an accomplished linguist, speaking French and German with fluency and fast acquiring the Russian tongue. Her smile

"Little Miss Sunshine," as she was alled by her grandfather, General Ulysses S. Grant, in the days when he used to trot her on his knee, has had three winters in New York society, three summers at Newport and one summer at Bar Harbor. A special altar had been raised in the parlor. After the room had been formally consecrated, at 8:30, the bride appeared at the head of the grand staircase with her brother, Ulysses S. Grant, 3rd, while at the altar, before which stood the Russian divine, waited Prince Cantacuzene, clad in the full uniform of the Chevalier garde. The bride's dress was a simple gown of the richest white satin, with sweeping train and veil of tulle. She carried a bouquet of stephanotis and lilles of the valley, and wore the gifts of the bridegroom-a corsage ornament of

Among the organizations which have decided to parade are two platoons of the Medal of Honor legion. All of these men are members of the G. A. R. The Loyal Legion has nominated several of its staff to parade. There will be two organizaions of the Duryea Zouaves. There will be a contingent from the Eleventh Veteran Regiment association of the Civil war. The Hawkins Zouaves and two full G. A. R. posts are arranging to take part in the parade. Already 500 veterans have decided to parade, and it is expected that 1200, the limit set by General Roe, will send in applications. The Confederate veterans, who had also decided not to parade, are now arranging to have a representation in the procession.

The only fault with them is they are rather narrow and without sidewalks only in towns or cities. The people generally walk in the middle of the

Well, well where are we going. We were in Bangor. Oh yes here is the old cathedral, the same old church that Owen Glendower the Welsh hero (not Nero as it was made to spell in our last letter), destroyed when fighting with the Saxons some five hundred years ago, in order to prevent them using it as a refuge. Close by is a fine Masonic temple. There are in this city three large colleges, besides numerous other educational institutions. Of course it has its churches of all denominations, most of which hold their services in the Welsh language. The Welsh generally believe that one can worship God in sincerity and in bathed in clouds of spray. The day was perfect overhead and in the air, except that on the run back the wind freshened and the speed fell quite noticeably. This was due to an accident. Shortly before the ship turned the stake boat on the homeward run a hot water feed tube burst, letting cold water into the boilers, running the steam down thus decreasing the revolutions of the propellers eight turns per minute.

Captain William Folger, who will com mand the Kearsarge, after the trial expressed his admiration of the Kearsarge and her performance, saying he was convinced that with a trained crew she is good for 171/2 knots. He further praised her as being a very stable boat and a magnificent platform.

Rear Admiral Rodgers said that the board were united in satisfaction with the vessel. For himself, he said she was stiff and strong, and the greatest addition to the navy. He thought the run was remarkable, and would wait for her final figures as to her speed abil-

Captain Evans said the Kearsarge was a fine boat, and one that in speed com-pared with the Iowa. It could not be expected, Captain Evans said, that with the difference in horse power and displacement, that the Kearsarge would go as fast as the Iowa, but he was sure that she was equal to 17 knots. After the launching, lunch was served in the office of the Bath Iron Works, the builders of the craft. The construction of the Craven was authorized by congress in the act passed June 10, 1896, and her contract price for the hull and machinery, exclusive of ord-nance and outfit, was $194,000. The boat is 152 feet long, 16 feet 41/2 inches wide and has a displacement of 150 tons. She is of the "Norman" type, and is similar in general design to a very successful class of boats now in the service in the French navy. She has two Nor-man water-tube bollers and twin-screw, Type Fully Up to the Indiana vertical, triple-expansion engines of 4200 horsepower, and her contractors guarantee a mean speed on her trial trip of 301/2 knots per hour. FATTENED CAMPAIGN FUNDS.

New York, Sept. 26.-Yesterday was "judges" day at the session of the Mazet legislative investigation commission. A number of the judges of the city were called for the purpose of ascertaining the passage of a stringent law prohibit ing the paying of election expenses by the candidates for judicial offices.

Justice Patterson of the appellate division of the supreme court testified that he paid for election expenses several thousand dollars. He could not remember exactly how much. He thought that political parties needed money for legitimate expenses, but that it would be & great relief and a wholesome thing if ontributions were not allowed.

Justice Gildersleeve's election expenses were $4000. He opposed the payment of large sums, but did not object to reasonable expenses being paid by udicial candidates.

Socialist Factions at War. Worcester, Mass., Sept. 26.-The social-vention for nomination of candidates for state officers in this city yesterday an made a big mess of its undertaking. The "Kangaroo" and rump factions could not agree upon the delegates entitled to seats in the convention, and when a number of proxies from Springfield Were barred from attendance the Kangroos left the hall and held a separate convention. Each faction named a list of candidates. Daniel De Leon attended the convention of the rump faction and made an address, and Mrs. Martha M. Avery scathingly denounced members of the party who assailed her action in calling upon the state police at the time of the Marlboro shoe workers' strike The ticket named by the rump or De Leonite faction is: Governor, George R. Peare of Lynn; lieutenant governor, James F. Stevens of Boston; secretary of state. Frank McDonald of Stoneham treasurer and receiver general, Frederick Nagler of Springfield: auditor Frank Albin Forsstream of Worcester; attorney general, Walter P. Skahan of New Bedford. The ticket named by the Kangaroo faction is: Governor, Clarence E. Spillman of Westfield; lieutenant governor, Charles G. Marcy of Worcester; secretary of state, Thomas M. Carpenter of Worcester; auditor Charles McGuire of Lawrence; treasurer and receiver general, John B. Cullen of Springfield; attorney general, Maurice Katlan of Westfield.

The Progress of Catholicity in Quincy.

The long desired division of the Quincy Catholic parish by the people of St. Mary's church of West Quincy is about to be realized. The announcement was made Sanday by Rev. Francis A. Friguglietti, the present pastor of the parish, who said that the parish was shortly to be divided and that St. Mary's church would become a separate parish.

The present Quincy parish includes St. John's church at Quincy, St. Mary's church at West Quincy; Sacred Heart church of Atlantic. St. Frances church at Houghs Neck, and St. Francis church at South Braintree.

Fitzsimmons of South Boston in the old West district schoolhouse. The first Catholic church built in Quincy was the St. Mary's at West Quincy in 1842 and Fr. Fitsimmons was the pasor. He was succeeded by Fr. John Kilmartin, Beirne. In 1845 Rev. Bernard Garraher was appointed as Fr. O'Beirne's successor and was the first resident priest. He was succeeded by Fr. Fitzsimmonns. Fr. Rodden took charge of the mission in 1848 which then included Abington, Randolph, Braintree, Weymouth, Hingham, Cohasset and Milton, in addition to Quincy.

At the close of Fr. Rodden's labors, Ladies' Flerce Lined Flannelette House Fr. Roche was appointed to the charge Wrappers, good styles, well made, 95 cents, of the parish. He was succeeded by $1.25, $1.38. Rev. James Halley, who at the end of his administration, left the society free from debt. Rev. James Sullivan Miller, John L. next assumed the charge and was connected with the parish for several years intil his decease in 1871.

Rev. Francis A. Frignglietti, the present pastor, who came as a curate Nightingale, James to Rev. Fr. Sullivan in 1868, was placed over the parish on the latter's death and through all these years he has continued to preside over the destinies of the parish.

One of the most sensational features in the way of flying aerial acts will be the famous Dunham family, which arrived home from Europe Aug. 24. SERVIAN CONSPIRACY.

Conviction of Alleged Leaders a Subject of General Condemnation.

One Publicly Shot and Eighteen Condemned to Prison.

Eory Showing How Former King Milan Was Given an Opportunity For Revenge.

Belgrade, Sept. 26.-The Servian court yesterday rendered judgment in the ase of the prisoners who have been on trial for some time past, charged with the attempted assassination of former King Milan of Servia, July 6, when he was shot at by a Bosnian, Knezevic. Knezevic and Paisitch, the leaders of the conspiracy, were sentenced to death, 10 others were condemned to 30 years' imprisonment, and seven to five years' imprisonment. Six of the men on trial were acquitted.

Knezevic was shot publicly yesterday afternoon, in the presence of a large crowd. In view of the absence of trustworthy evidence, the finding of the tribunal is the subject of general condem nation. After the sentences were read, Paisitch was informed that King Alexander had pardoned him.

EX-KING MILAN OF SERVIA

The recent attempt on the life of King Milan was in all probability the outcome of suppressed popular emotion, and, as uch, would be strictly in accordance with Servian precedent. The criminal act has furnished the ex-king with the ong-wished-for opportunity of making a clean sweep of his political and personal foes. He has doubtless a long score to settle with many of them, and revenge is sweet. But some limits must be imposed on the process of retaliation, which, if carried to extremes, may be productive of a dange.ous ferment not only in Servia, but in the whole region

The fact hat Austria has added her protests to those of Russia against the severities which the ex-king was beginning to put in practice is all the more significant when the understanding between the two great powers is taken into onsideration. The friends of liberty in the Balkans can only express the hope that King Milan may be wise in time and that Servia may escape the humiliation of foreign intervention. But events in southern Europe during the past few years have begun to familiarize the great owers with the idea of exercising a police supervision over turbulent little Particular attention given Electric Light states which cannot be allowed to form a Work, Dynamos, Engines and Motors. standing menace to the tranquility of their neighbors. It is scarcely possible to imagine a more effective rebuke than that just administered to the authorities in Belgrade by the czar in conferring a Russian decoration upon the Servian ex-premier, General Sava Gruitch. There would appear to be practical agreement between the views of the two powers as to the proceedings in Belgrade, which have been described as brutal. In Vienna a hope was expressed that this Russian hint would serve as a warning to ex-King Milan, who is held solely responsible for the present policy of the government. The best proof that the co-operation of the nominal head of the Servian cabinet was not considered indispensable is the fact that Premier Georgevitch has throughout the whole trouble quietly continued his cure at Marienbad. Servian official and judicial methods must leave much to be desired when Austria, who is interested not merely in the maintenance of the Obrenovitch dynasty, but in the prestige of the ex-king, who is considered to be its most reliable bulwark, feels called upon to repeat day by day her warnings against the present system of wholesale arrests and denun-

The prisoners in custody, of whom 38 were semi-officially acknowledged, were said to number as many as 80. It is pertinently asked, if the conspiracy be in reality so widespread, what guarantee can there be for the security of the can there be for the security of the trustees, throne? Altogether, the inadvised action of the Servian rulers is calculated o damage their own cause and to give certain show of justification to the iew propagated by the opponents of the lynasty, who boldly maintain test the real conspirators are ex-King Milan and his instruments, and that Knezevic was merely a tool in the hands of the police. According to a Belgrade message in the Politische Correspondenz, the preliminary inquiry brought to light important vidence which goes to show that MM. Pasitch, Taushanovitch, Giuritch, Listitch and Protitch took a leading part in the conspiracy. Other prisoners were, it is said, compromised, not only by Knezevic's information, but by documents found in their possession.

The movement was executed so smartly and unexpectedly that the Boer spies were unaware of it until it was actually accomplished.

The officials of the foreign office gave out last evening the text of the letter of Secretary Chamberlain to Sir Alfred Milner, dated Sept. 22. The British reply expressed regret that her majesty's offer, No. 5, of Sept. 8, had been refused and said:

No onditions less comprehensive than thos perished. There was a rainfall of 28 inches in 38 hours. According to the ontained in the telegram of Sept. 8 can latest reports, nine European children be relied on to effect this object.

"The refusal of the South African govrnment to entertain the offer thus made, coming as it does after four months of protracted negotiations, themselves the climax of five years of extended agitation, makes it useless to further pursue the discussion on the lines hitherto followed, and the imperial gov ernment is now compelled to consider the situation afresh and formulate new proposals for a final settlement of the ssues which have been created in South Africa by the policy constantly followed for many years by the government of South Africa. They will communicate the result of their deliberations in a later dispatch."

It is impossible that the South African government could have had any doubt as to the imperial government's answer to the conditions named, and my reply was actually the same as the British agent had foreshadowed to the state attorney, and which, therefore, they must have anticipated in making the pro-

Mrs. Mary E. Lewis, of Tanner. Gilmer Co., W. Va., writes: "Or. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Pleasant Pellets,' cured me when doctors and other medicines failed. For fifteen years I suffered untold misery. I had given up all hope of ever getting well. I could not lie down to sleep, and everything I ate would almost cramp me to death. Was very nervous and could hardly walk across the room. I only weighed ninety pounds when I commenced talking these medicines six years ago; I now weigh one hundred and forty pounds and am having better health than ever before. After being sick so long I have changed to be robust and rosy cheeked. I have taken fifteen bottles each of 'Prescription,' 'Discovery' and 'Pellets.'"

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets act gently but effectively. Women value them.

Admiral Reaches His Native Shores Again.

Given a Rousing Welcome In New York Harbor.

A Succession of Notable Callers Aboard the Olympia.

Manila Hero In Evident Good Health and Glad to Get Home.

Behind the Guns" Are Well.

New York, Sept. 27 .- Much to the surprise of everyone in this city the Olympia, with Admiral Dewey on board, arrived off the Sandy Hook lightship at 5:55 Tuesday morning.

There was a heavy mist over the sea and at first the marine observers were inclined to think the vessel sighted might be Rear Admiral Howison's flagship, the Chicago, hardly believing Dewey would arrive two days ahead of

The doubt was soon cleared away, however, and as passing vessels recognized the flagship from Manila bay there was a continuous blowing of whistles and dipping of flags.

Fort Hancock gave an admiral's salute of 17 guns and raised the signal "Welcome." Admiral Dewey replied to the signal "Thanks." The Olympia ther. let go her anchors

The pilot had brought aboard the Sunday papers, and reporter of the Associated Press wa received by the admiral in a cabin lit tered by the illustrated Dewey editions which together made hundreds of page in black and white, and in colors, al about the great admiral and the prepara ions made to receive him.

"It almost saddens me," he said, to see what my people are doing for me. The pride and gratification is immense, and I cannot express the appreciation I feel. I did not know, I did not really perceive, until this morning, the splen did welcome that my countrymen are

The admiral stroked the head of a tawny-haired dog, the chow dog of a Chinese breed, that appears in the il lustrated interviews with the admiral. "Bob, here," he said, "is not well, He yearns to be ashore; he is sick to get a little grass, and to scamper arou I feel a good deal that way myself. I am mighty glad to get home. It isn't good for a man any more than for a dog to live on shipboard for 23 months." The admiral said that he felt tired but he did not look so. His complexion is a clear bronze, his hazel eyes ar bright, and his bearing is brisk and rather jaunty. Some deep lines are under his eyes and around his mouth, but his voice is singularly clear and pleasant The admiral's whole presence is that of a man in his fullest powers. His man-ner is gentle and kind, but he is exceedingly wary, and he did not permit himself to wander off into politics, or to express those positive views he no doubt holds about the Philippines and American affairs there. His attention was brought to interviews in which he is described as going rather fully into the character of the Filipinos and their fit QUINCY. character of the ring. He said:

Aluding to his arrival two days ahead of the time he was expected, Admiral Dewey said: "I am sorry that I am ahead of the schedule. The Olympia has been steaming at the uniform rate send an officer ashore with telegrams for the navy department, Mayor Van Wyck and General Butterfield, announcing his arrival. He then spent most of the morning in looking over newspapers and receiving reporters. He was just finishing a mid-day breakfast when Sin Thomas Lipton and some friends called on him. The admiral and the owner of the cup challenger had a 15-minutes talk. As Sir Thomas and his friends left the Olympia half a hundred of the ship's crew forward cheered the barone "I couldn't stop them," cried out Admiral Dewey, waving his hand at Sir Thomas Lipton. "They hadn't any or ders to do that."

Admiral Dewey then had a succession of notable callers. Rear Admiral Sampson, with Captain Chadwick, his chief of staff, and Lieutenant Commander Winslow, his flag lieutenant, came on the Dolphin. When the dispatch boat was a mile away it began firing an adanchored near the Olympia and Rear Admiral Sampson and his staff went on Dewey, Captain Lamberton, Lieutenant Brumby and the officer of the deck, the full marine guard and band being paraded. The officers went to the admiral's cabin. Rear Admiral Sampson said that he was delighted with the evident good health of Admiral Dewey, and he told the admiral that he looked much younger than meet of his portraits made

Rear Admiral Sampson remained on board for more than an hour, and after returning to the Dolphin he said: miral Dewey is delighted, as is every one aboard, to reach his native shores again. He is much moved by the great kindness and enthusiasm of the people and though shrinking from too much ceremony and public display, feels deeply the regard of which these are the himself precisely as a man of his fine and modest temperament may be expected to do. The country honors in him these fine qualities as well as those sterner ones which have given him his

Soon after Rear Admiral Sampson had gone Rear Admiral Philip voyaged down the bay in the Narkeeta and paid an official call, attended by Commander J. D. J. Kelly. Admiral Dewey received these official visits in undress uniform. Dr. Sanborn of the port physician's staff visited the Olympia and looked at her papers. Eleven of the crew of 275 men have typhoid fever. Some of the cases are convalescent, and all of them are of a mild type, according to Dr. Percy, the ship's surgeon. No one has died of the fever, and with this exception the sailors and marines are well. Dr. Percy is unable to account for the presence of typhoid fever on the ship. The cases are not numerous or serious enough to cause him alarm, and it is probable that the sick men will be taken ashore to a hospital today.

All day tugs, sail boats and excursion ook a look at her. Everybody who asked was permitted to come on board. Some of the parties of sightseers on launches and steamers were invited by the officer of the deck to come up the gangway. The Olympia's anchorage was rather a lonely place, and altogether not a great many vessels made a poin f going there. It is, however, near the ship channel.

Nomination For Lieutenant Governor Almost Assured.

Boston Counted Upon as a Guild Stronghold,

Boston, Sept. 27 .- Speaker John L. Bates has carried Boston for the lieution is regarded as a certainty with this result in view, for upon the vote in Bos-

Representative Howland, Mr. Bates' manager, last night said that the fesults show conclusively that Speaker Bates gates, far in excess of the estimate given last Sunday, when he claimed that Bates would have 1165 delegates, while Guild would have 576, sad that there would be 284 doubtfr2.

The sweep that Tites made came like an avalanche to the Guild backers ard supporters. At the extreme they did not allow Bates over six wards in this city, The setback that Guila received in wards 20 and 24 in Dorchester were a big loss, as both are heavy Republican wards, and would have balanced several of the Democratic wards which went for of wards 14 and 15 and cannot account Street, Lynn, Mass. for their loss. They were regarded as in the column of solid wards where not he slightest doubt was entertained. The Bates men held up their fences with surprising force. In no place were their lines broken through, that is, in the wards conceded to be their strongholds, such as wards 4, 10 and 23 and a few others of the more doubtfu! wards.

The canvass began months ago, and had grown to be of intense interest in every city and town in the state, in fact a national campaign could hardly have brought out greater rivalry, especially during the past few weeks, when both candidates for nomination for lieutenant governor appeared as the chief figures at country fairs and social functions. Rallies and outings with a flow of oratory were attractions arranged to bring the Republican voters into line for one or the other candidate.

Last night caucuses were held in over 60 percert of the cities and towns in the state, but the results will hardly be known definitely until late today. The remarkable close canvass is shown by the voting, wherein delegations have been split and towns claimed for one candidate were won by the other. One thing appears certain, that is that the country delegate who is unpledged, for scarcely a city delegation will go to the convention uninstructed, is likely to be a factor in the convention, for the incom teamers came up near the Olympia and plete returns, while showing that Speaker Bates has a substantial lead, especially in the city of Boston, are likely to be greatly changed after the caucuses of tonight. In the cities Bates seems to show his strength to the best advantage, carrying the delegation entire in Taunton, 24 out of 26 in Gloucester, all of New Bedford, splitting with General Guild the Fall River delegation 25 to 23; in Brockton 20 to 10, likewise the Quincy delegation 10 o 11 in Guild's favor, and taking all of Guild won all the delegates in Beverly, all but four out of 29 in Salem, and 15 out of 17 in Woburn.

Guild had magnificent support in towns in the eastern part of the state, coring many delegations of small numer, but which wins are so numerous that his figures kept the lead over Bates intil the latter came in with Boston to swell his total. Bates proved unusually strong in the

WARD FOUR.

Seldom, if ever, has there been a larger attended Republican caucus at West Quincy than that of Tuesday night. The only contest was over the Local Brevities of the City of State delegation, and not so much Guild or Bates as it was whether the voters should take a hand in selecting delegates or whether a certain few should elect the delegates and then say 'Here gentlemen, are the delegates you want to elect so vote for them." The result was a complete overthrow of this method, and it is safe to say that nore interest will be taken in the Republican caucuses in this ward in the future.

There was but little excitement, although three voters were challenged. There were James O'Brien, W. F. Loud and John A. McAloon. Each of these men were challenged by Thomas F. Burke, who sat near the polls and scrutinized every voter as he walked up to the voting list. Each was made to hold up his right hand and swear visiting relatives in Atlantic all sumthat he had not taken part in a Demoeratic caucus within a year, and that York, Tuesday. e intended to support the nominees Excessive Valuation.

Messrs. Editors:-The sale, by public day, 26 September, is very suggestive of the over valuation for purposes of Adams and John Hancock schools. taxation, of real estate in the city of Quincy. Here is an estate (not to cite lows: other instances) situated in the centre of Quincy upon its main thoroughfare, which bears an assessed valuation o $23,800, for the year 1899. After being well advertised for sale, it is offered for public competition and the sale attended by many well known rea

Here then, is property assessed in the aggregate for $23,800, which did not command sale for $15,750; less than 66 2-3 per cent. of its assessed valuation.

Now as showing the burden of taxaion in its true light, may it not be asked, where would the rate of taxation in Quincy have to be placed were the statutory valuation "a cash value" adhered to? The answer is that instead of a rate of $19.20 it would be $28.80 on $1,000 of valuation.

That Horse.

Dear Mr Editor :- Kindly allow me space in your valuable paper to explain more fully the case of that Beach street horse.

At 8 o'clock that night my attention was called to it, and as the night was not dangerously cold, thinking, as I said then, it might be the property of some physician at one of the houses, I allowed him to stand. I took a look at it at 9 and 10 o'clock, and at 10.30 spoke to the stable keeper about accommodation for it if an owner did not come before the lights were put out. I told Chief Hayden, the stablekeeper and the owner; but Mr. Mc-Intyre and Welch, moved by pity for the beast, (which they proved by demanding $5.00 for their trouble in bringing him to the stable, a distance of a few hundred feet,) found it and brought it to me. Mr. McIntyre was angry upon being refused the use of the team next day, and more so Fred Goodhue. he accepted.

FRANK F CRANF. AUCTIONEER and APPRAISER,

OPINION OF HARCOURT.

He Contends That the Independence of the Transvaal Is Complete.

Parliament Likely to Meet About Middle of October.

Despaich of British Troops.

London Sept. 27.—Sir William Vernon that the controversy regarding suzvaal government. He says it was originated by Mr. Chamberlain in his rights and liberties of others.

BIR WILLIAM VERMON HARCOURT.

"The Transvaal's independence," says Sir William, "is complete. Even in foreign affairs the only thing reserved treaties negotiated. It is unfortunate that the suzerainty question was ever raised, and the sooner the whole dispute is dismissed the better. Nothing but is dismissed the better. Nothing but mischief can come from the employment of vague terms like 'suzerainty' and 'paramountcy.' Beyond doubt the relations of Great Britain with the Transvaal rest upon the terms of the convention of 1884 and upon nothing else. What we have to do is to get the franchise question settled as quickly as possible, without the importation of extraneous matter.

"If, as the government is understood to desire, both parties can take a new departure, there can be no obstacle to an amicable solution."

It is considered probable that parliament will meet about the middle of October; and it is again asserted that General Buller, who is to have suprer; command of the British forces in South Africa in the event of hostilities, wi'll start for the Cape on Oct. 7. Nothing, lowever, has been officially made known on either point. The Transvaal government was in constant telegraphic communication with Bloemfontein yesterday on the reply to Mr. Chamberlain's dispatch. It is believed that the reply will be a protest against the continued dispatch of British troops as a menace to the Transvaal. The Pretoria Volkssteim, the official organ of the Transvaal government, de-clares that the Transvaal executive Change Favored by Citizens.

Somerville, Mass., Sept. 27.-At a special election in this city the citizens accepted a new city charter, which will go into effect at the next municipal election in December. The new charter provides much more power for the mayor by the separation of the legislative from the executive body; stipulates that there shall be one legislative body, a board of aldermen of 21 members, three from each of the seven wards, one of the members of that board to be an alderman-atlarge, and also provides that the president of the board of aldermen will pre side at that body's meetings instead of Buller Gets Off Easily.

Lawrence, Mass., Sept. 27 .- Fred Butler of Haverhill, convicted in the superior court of manslaughter and found guilty also on five counts of larceny, was called for sentence yesterday. The manslaughter case was filed on recommendation of the district attorney and on the larceny charges Butler was sentenced to two years' imprisonment.

Al'eged Swindler Arrested.

Portland, Me., Sept. 27 .- Frederick D. Jpton of Boston, who has been in this ity some weeks, was arrested last night. He is alleged to have passed eight worth less checks, all drawn on the People's bank of Boston. The total amount was Upton, who did not deny passing the checks. It is expected that Upton will go to Boston voluntarily.

As Viewed Through British Spectacles.

London, Sept. 27.-Most of the mornng papers comment editorially upon Admiral Dewey's arrival at New York. The morning Post says: We congratulate the United States on having, at a being bet on him. Kennedy said he was time of national awakening to power and responsibility, so worthy an exponent of the combined ideas of patriotism and imperialism to whom to render homage.

The Daily News, dealing with the Philippine situation, says: Admiral Dewey ought to be able to give precious counsel to his government in a difficulty which is rapidly depriving it of all the credit won by the war with Spain.

The Daily Chronicle says: President McKinley and his friends will possibl regard the popular welcome extended to Admiral Dewey with not a little anxiety, owing to the contrast of Dewey's success with the floundering of Otis. If the Democrats are wise they will make Dewey their champion. He would be a formidable candidate for the presidency. General Alger had to be dragged from President McKinley like an eye tooth. Will any dental operation induce him to give up the ineffectual Otis?

Four Departments In Fhilippines.

Washington, Sept. 27.—It has been definitely determined to create four deartments in the Philippines as outlined n these dispatches a few days ago. There are yet some details to be worked out, and a possibility of change in the lines of the departments. The latest plan contemplates two departments in the island of Luzon, one taking in Manila and its environs and extending north, covering all the territory occupied by General MacArthur. The other depart ment probably will be in the north of the sland, with headquarters on Lingayen bay. Each of these departments in Luzon will be under a major general. department probably will be established covering the Viscayan group of islands and another the Sulu group.

Given Olympia as She Moves Up to Her Anchorage.

Thrilling Scenes Witnessed by Thousands at Tompkinsville.

Chicago Arrives From Its Southern Trip, With Admiral Howison on Board.

New York, Sept. 28 .- The Olympia left her anchorage in the lower bay at 9:06 Wednesday forenoon and started for the naval anchorage off Thompkinsville. The forts gave forth noisy greetings, and ferryboats and railroad engines turned their boilers loose through the whistle valves. Persons aboard the various craft yelled at the top of their voices, the whistles screamed unceasingly, and the weird screech of the sirens made up a terrible din. Through this gauntlet of welcoming sounds the Olympia moved slowly, dipping her colors and replying to gun salutes, while the admiral waved his acknowledgment to the cheering crowds. As the flagship came to anchor, craft farther up the bay took up the noise and whistles sounded far up the Hudson and on both sides of Never, perhaps, did a triumphant warior returning from a victorious campaign receive a more impressive wel-Although thousands upon thousands witnessed it from the shore, balcony, window or housetop, and the men of war anchorage at Tompkinsville fairly swarmed with tugs, yachts and steamers and every sort of harbor craft, the walls of the city beyond were brave with a million welcoming flags, Wednesday's greeting to Dewey was the greeting of his comrades of the navy.

To outward appearances the welcome ne received from the fleet was strictly professional. One can find all the ceremonies done in his honor described in the naval regulations as due to one of his rank. But the naval regulations, rigorous as they are, could not restrain occassional rounds of cheers any more than it could the bell cords of the s pers and the shouts of people aboard the excursion boats. It was a perfect day, though clouds, driven by the strong land breeze, obscured the sun during the morning, and the waves of the lower bay were capped with foam. In the afternoon the clouds disappeared, the breeze died away and the sun bathed the sea in brilliance.

Very early in the morning, before Dewey left his anchorage inside Sandy Hook, Rear Admiral Howison, commander of the South Atlantic squadron aboard his flagship, the Chicago, which errived outside Tuesday night, ending a journey of 21,000 miles around South Africa, came in past the Hook, expect ing to join the North Atlantic squadron in receiving Dewey upon his ar rival. As he rounded the Spit, there, to his surprise, lay the Olympia. Dewey's flagship was no sooner recognized than the sides of the Chicago were manned, the marine guard was paraded, and 17 guns roared in honor of Dewey's hag. The Chicago's jackies cheered wildly as she steamed past. The Olympia responded with 13 guns, and the two admirals waved a welcome to each other from the bridges of their respective ves-sels. The Chicago continued on to the upper bay, and upon arriving there was saluted by the New York. The remainder of the fleet gave only a silent welcome to the voyager. Long lines of crazy quilting fluttered from the signal halyards of the New York, Rear Admiral Sampson's flagship, and the Chicago, and after a good deal of wig-wagging from the bridges of both ships the Chicago dropped anchor at the foot of the column, close in under the lee of Staten Island.

Rear Admiral Sampson's blue flag ame down as soon as the Chicago found her berth. Rear Admiral Howison is his senior, and to the main truck was hauled up the two-starred pennant, which indicates that Admiral Sampson was outranked. Rear Admiral Samp-son's gig was immediately lowered, and he went aboard the Chicago to pay his official visit to his senior. The cap-tains of the other ships, the Indiana, Massachusetts, Brooklyn, Texas and Lancaster followed suit. Meantime the Dolphin, with Assistant

The Sorosis Shoe.

It is frequently stated that women do not have the same opportunity for earning money that men enjoy, but A E. Little & Co. have decided to make it possible for some of the clever and intelligent ones of Quincy to earn a substantial amount.

This opportunity as advertised in the Ledger by the Granite Shoe store, has already created widespread and intense interest, and undoubtedly the readers of the Ledger will consider it a favor to be informed about this matter. The judges of these stories will be prominent literary people of recognized standing and ability.

INPRESSIVE WELCOME

Secretary of the Navy Allen aboard, had hurried down to the Olympia. The Dolphin flew the flag of the assistant secretary, and Mr. Allen was conveying to Admiral Dewey the greetings and compliments of President McKinley. He went aboard in a launch, and was received at the gangway by the admiral himself. The marine guard at present arms was mustered aft, and as he came over the side drum ruffles and bugle flourishes sounded in his honor. The assistant secretary's flag was hoisted to the main top, but as soon as the greetings had been exchanged, at Mr. Allen's request it was hauled down, and Mr. Allen remained aboard as the private guest of the admiral. An officer from Fort Hancock shortly afterward came aboard the Olympia, to convey the formal welcome of the army, and then a few minutes after 9, just as the tide turned flood, the Olympia weighed anchor and began her journey up the bay. The tugs and harbor craft which had been hovering about for hours fell into her wake and puffed up behind her. Every vessel she passed gave her a salute, and as the shipping increased the noisy demonstration became almost continuous. The figure of Admiral Dewey was in full relief against the sky as he stood upon the bridge chatting with Assistant Secretary Allen and a group of officers. He occasionally turned and smiled and bowed to the noisy voluntary

The Olympia was very stately as she came on. Her superstructure is ali painted white, and only the yellow stacks and red-mouthed funnels gave her a touch of color. The admiral's flag stood out jauntily at the mainmast, and the national colors fluttered over the traffrail. She did not seem to be disturbing the waters as she glided along.

The heights of both Wadsworth and Hamilton were thronged with speciators as she approached the narrows. denly a tongue of red flame leaped from the granite side of Fort Wadsworth, and like a recoil came a streak of red fire from the granite wall on the opposite Then alternately from each side came the deafening roar of an admiral's salute of 17 guns. Slowly the Olympia passed the smoke-wreathed forts, answering each salute, gun for gun, until she became enveloped in her own smoke But she pushed it aside, and stood revealed before the admiring gaze of the whole Atlantic squadron, waiting at anchor off Tompkinsville to receive her. Every bit of brass and gilt on every ship of the receiving column had been burnished and every spot on the white hulls painted over. Along the railings of the ships the jackies stood elbow to elbow, and aft were the marines drawn up to salute. A few of the tars ran up to the fighting tops. Every officer had donned his most showy uniform, and splendid they looked gathered in the waists of the ships as the Olympia ap-

From the New York barked the signal gun; a six-pounder in the starboard bow, and immediately every ship in the squadron belched forth flame and smoke. Louder and louder thundered the guns as the Olympia came on. She replied with 13 guns, to which Rear Admiral Howison's rank entitled him. On board the Olympia also the sides were manned and the band and marine guard were paraded. As she came abreast of the Chicago, the guard presented arms, the drums gave four ruffles, the trumpets four flourishes, and the band played "Home, Sweet Home." The officers at the waist raised their gold-bound beavers, and the sailors cheered.

Ship after ship took its turn in doing honor to the admiral, as the Olympia swept up the line of floating fortresses. Admiral Dewey from the bridge acknowledged each salute with a wave of his cap. He alone of all the officers of the fieet was in fatigue uniform. As the Olympia swept by the New York, the last ship in the column, the full marine band aboard the Olympia played the "El Capitan" march, and the spectators on the excursion fleet cheered. The skippers turned loose their whistles and sirens. Everything that could make a noise in the harbor joined. Farther than ears could hear, the steam jets of the whistles on craft lying at the battery and up the North and East rivers could be seen as they screamed their welcome. In a few moments, the sharp rattle of the anchor chain was heard, as the Olympla's anchor catted from its bed into the water. Then came the admiral and captains from all the ships, trooping in their swift water carriages, to pay their respects to the nation's hero. First, Rear Admiral Howison, with his aides, splendid in gold braid, arrived. As they came aboard they were given the honors due their rank. Admiral Dewey was still in fatigue uniform when he received his old class-mate at the gangway. There was a cordial smile and a hearty handshake, with a "How are you, Howison" that thrilled the spectators. The official visits to the Olympia lasted for Meantime scores of rowboats, tugs launches and yachts formed about her many with relatives or sweethearts or friends aboard. Almost the first to make the gangway was the Narkeeta with Admiral Dewey's relatives. The party was given a warm greeting, and taken to the cabin. One officer was so overjoyed at the sight of the wife he had not seen for 23 months, that he rushed down the gangway and kissed her in the presence of 10,000 people. Some of the visitors had flowers for the admiral and more good things for the crew. One man presented the crew with a rowboat load of watermelons.

As soon as Admiral Dewey could detach himself from those who were so eager to see him, he returned the official visits. He first called upon Rear Admiral Sampson, whose ship lay next to his, and then upon Admiral Howison at the other end of the line. For this ceremony the Admiral himself donned the full uniform of his rank. There was a pretty ceremony as he went aboard the New York and the Chicago, and as the aunch in which he sat passed each ship of the squadron, the sides were manned. the drums were rolled and the bugles blown, and the officers at the waist saluted. Upon the return of the launch to the Olympia the jack staff from which his flag fluttered was taken down by Admiral Dewey's orders, and the formal eremony was thus omitted, another proof of the admiral's innate modesty.

Governor Roosevelt Welcomes Admiral Dewey In Pehalf of Empire State.

New York, Sept. 29.—A million visitors are here to participate in the glorious celsteady stream, until the streets are crowded morning and night, the surface and elevated cars are filled to overflowng, and the hotel corridors are jammed with visitors.

The gaily apparelled soldiery of many states, who are to take part in the land parade, are trooping in, and there is no hour when uniformed men are not moving in some quarter of the city to the sound of fife and drum and horns. Boatload after boatload of passengers, sailors and marines, ashore from the big fighting machines, help to swell the crowd, trooping in all directions. Uniformed members of the staff of the arriving governors are everywhere.

The arrangements for the two days' celebrations are completed. The great arch at Madison square, modelled after the triumphal arch of Titus, upon which the most famous sculptors of America have lavished their genius, is practically finished, and stands a superb tribute to the nation's hero. It is more beautiful than the arch in the Roman forum.

New York is decked brilliantly in honor of the gallant sailor who is waiting at her gate. Had an ocean of color swept through the city, its ebbing tide could not stain the streets more brilliantly. Hundreds of miles of red, white and blue bunting adorn the noble facades of Broadway and Fifth avenue, and a million flags flutter over the town.

Not even the churches have escaped the universal decorations. The doors and gothic windows of old Trinity, on lower Broadway, are gracefully draped with the national colors, and the tomb of that gallant sailor, who, dying, issued the command not to give up the ship, lies shrouded in the silken folds of the flag for which he died.

A million visitors are here to participate in the glorious celebration. Every road is pouring in a steady stream, until the streets are crowded morning and night, the surface and elevated cars are filled to overflowing, and the hotel corridors are jammed with visitors.

The floating flotilla of iron and steel lay quietly at anchor yesterday off Tompkinsville, a towering spectacle of naval might and power to the tens of thousands who sailed down in tugs, in yachts and steamers to see them. The crush to get aboard the Olympia never flagged for a minute, and as great in dulgence was shown by Admiral Dewey, a goodly proportion of these who besleged the angways got aboard. At times the ship was fairly overrun. These crowds and the official visits the admiral received scarcely gave him and his officers time to breathe.

The jackies yesterday got the medals which congress voted them, and proudly displayed them to the visitors until Jeffries, the pugilist, came aboard. Jack loves a fighter, and while the big slugger was aboard the tars were oblivious to all else.

Owing to the stream of official visitors the leng stream of salutes continued without interruption all day. Major General Miles, at the head of the Washington committee, called to submit the program for the reception at the national capital, and Major General Merritt and his staff, stiff with gold braid, came over from Governor's island to officially welcome Admiral Dewey in the name of the army. They were received with all the honors befitting their rank, but the climax was not reached until Governor Roosevelt came down the bay in the afternoon on the yacht Wild Duck. He was accompanied by General Francis V. Greene, some officers of the New York naval militia and several of Dewey's captains at Manila, including Captain Dyer of the Baltimore, Captain Wood of the Petrel, Captain Wildes of the Boston and Captain Walker of the Concord.

When they got aboard, Admiral Dewey took them over the ship, and the sight of the fighting captains set the tars mad with delight. Nothing could restrain their enthusiasm, and round after round of cheers greeted the appearance of these officers. Governor Roosevelt was assistant scretary of the navy when Dewey was sent to the command of the Asiatic squadron, and General Greene, who served in the Philippines, is a personal friend of the admiral's of many years standing. The sight of the captains who were with him during the stress of that hot day in Manila bay was good for the admiral's eyes, so that altogether Admiral Dewey seemed to enjoy this official visit more than any he has received. last night could best be compared to an immense circle of intense light with the warships off Tompkinsville as the hub from which the brilliancy radiated. The bay has never before had as brilliant or picturesque display of continuous illumination nor has the interest manifested by the shore dwellers been more manifest. The interest aroused is unparalleled and it is safe to say that Greater New York will possibly not see the same display again for a long time. Beginning at Brooklyn bridge, with its at stated intervals with red and green colored arc signal lamps, the immense brilliant motto, "Welcome Dewey," was suspended, as it were, in air, announcing the warm feeling of at least 10,000,000 countrymen to the hero of Manila, and sending out distinctly its welcome.

Looking from the bridge towards the Jersey coast similar signs could be distinctly read on the gateway of the iron thousands to help swell the paeon of welcome to the returning warrior. At Staten Island, where the steel safeguards of the nation lay, blazed forth a hundred encores, framed in vivid ebration. Every road is pouring in a streams of bright red fire. At the portal to the city, where the great ships must ask admittance, shone out in the letters of the brightest light the same hearty greeting, "Welcome Home," flanked by an immense illuminated American flag that could be seen for miles.

Not content with this token of their great esteem, Dr. Doty and the residents sailors on the ships a display of fireworks, which was followed by other patriotic residents along the Brooklyn and Jersey coasts. After the displays of fireworks the Olympia and New York gave an exhibition with their searchlights, lighting up passing craft and make her best showing. picking out in brilliant relief many of the pretty wooded spots on the Staten Island hills.

The Choral union, 1200 strong, the People's Choral union, led by Frank Damrosch, paid a tribute of song last night to the sea heroes. About 700 of the singers were women. In the steam er Warwick they left the pier at Beekman street at 7:40 p. m., and 40 minutes later the Warwick lay to 50 yards from the sterr of the Compia. "My Country 'Tis of Thee' was the first number, and as soon as it was over the jackies and three hearty cheers and a tiger. Then the flashlights played and showed

One of the personal friendships that Admiral Dewey renewed aboard the Olympia yesterday afternoon was that with Captain Joseph B. Coghlan, who commanded the Raleigh at Manila. Captain Coglan was one of Governor Roosevelt's guests, and when he climbed to the head of the gangway, the Admiral rushed over to him, and, grasping him by the hand, he exclaimed: "Why, Jo, how well you are looking." And then he went on, with twinkling eyes: "What's this I have heard about your learning to sing?" Then seizing the captain's shoulders, he shook him, as if chiding him, and both laughed heartily at the admiral's reference to Coghlan's "Hoch der Kaiser." song.

Vermont has more than twice as many unmarried men as unmarried women and Maine and Connecticut rank next in the surplus of bachelors. The census makes a mistake in placing the age. At 20 people are only boys and girls, and neither bachelors nor spinsters. So far as marriage is concerned they are mere children. Since the marrying age has risen into the neigborhood of twenty-eight, thirty or even thirty-five would be a more suitable age upon which to base bachelor and spinster statistics. - New Bedford Standard.

How Abutters Must Pay for

The plan of sewer assessments does not seem to be well understood by many. The vote of the City Council provides that an assessment of twelve cents per front foot shall be levied, and also six mills per square foot on all land within 100 feet of the street. By this arrangement a corner lot must pay per frontage on both streets, provided both streets have a sewer, otherwise on one street. No assessment will be made upon land over 100 feet from the street.

The plan may be better understood from this rough plan: AB and BC are streets where sewers have been laid. D, E, F and G are lots of different

WELCOME DEWEY.

Mr. James C. Dunn the popular driver of a carriage at the Quincy depot, has made a contribution to the Dewey celebration at New York, which has already met with favor. At the outbreak of the Spanish war his son enlisted in the navy and was in some of the engagements in Cuban waters. The new contribution, however, is a song with music, entitled "The Emblem of Our Hearts," which is written in B flat purposely for schools, and he s assured that it will be sung by the chool children of New York. It is in two parts with a catchy chorus, the words being:

In our schools we see the grandeur of our nation, Every heart is filled with patriotic pride, For the glory of Columbia on the ocean. To our nation is the turning of the tide, Tis the prayers the people offered for the natio To the mighty One that rules the victory's hour hat the suffering and oppressed of every natio May find shelter at the Anglo-Saxon's door.

And we know the Anglo-Saxon heart is tender Oft their helping hand is welcome to the poor For the noble race are kind to every people. And their virtue peace to nations will ensure And our union with our Ango-Saxon mother, That the English speaking people hence ma

NEAR VIEW OF DEWEY.

Colonel Jewett Speaks of His Wonderful Foresight and Sagacity.

Colonel C. L. Jewell of New Albany Ind., who was stationed at Manila as judge advocate of the army of the Pacific and knew Admiral Dewey well, in speaking of him recently to a St. Louis Globe-Democrat reporter, said: "The real greatness of Admiral Dewey rests in his daily life and actions. For instance, at Manila after the battle for long weeks and months he endured that sultry, sickly climate, always on duty, never for an hour leaving his post. He had many opportunities to do so, but would not take advantage of them. He was really a sick man, and the Olympia needed repairs. Instead of going himself, he transferred his admiral's flag to another ship and sent a subordinate to Hongkong on the Olym-"At Manila his wonderful foresight manifested itself. All the gunboats and small ships of the Filipinos were seized. This was done quietly, and no remonstrance was offered. In fact, the natives, including Aguinaldo, seemed to regard Dewey with a kind of reverential awe. After his performance in the bay, when he rode right over floating bombs, apparently, they seemed to think that there was something supernatural about him. They ran to do his bidding and never thought of questioning his actions. The seizure of their ships deprived the insurgents of opportunities of securing the munitions of war. Who can say that Dewey did not foresee what was coming and recognize the treacherous nature of Aguinaldo? At least, General Otis was saved much future embarrassment by his farsightedness, and hundreds of our brave soldiers were saved from death. "I regard him as the greatest admiral and one of the greatest figures in American history. No one can be familiar with Dewey. He is cordial and considerate, not affected and informal. To every one he is courteous, but before talking long to him a person recognizes the fact that they can go so far and no further."

NEW TRAIN INDICATOR.

Unique Feature of the South Station

A novelty in railroad station equipment has been introduced by the management of the south terminal in Boston. This unique feature is in the form of an enlarged train indicator. Two of them have been set up on the midway fence at tracks 27 and 28, the latter used by the Consolidated system and the former by the Boston and Albany in receiving their through trains, says the Boston Herald. Upon the slats of these bulletin boards are painted the distinguishing titles of all the New York and western expresses, and when it is desired to show whether or not they are on time a key is used in running up the slated indicators until the one is reached that bears the name of the train next to arrive. If late, the variation from the schedule is shown by metal figures hung below. No other railroad station in the world is supplied with a similar arrangement for dispensing this class of information.

AN OMINOUS SITUATION

General Feeling That an Anglo-Transvaal Conflict Is Inevitable.

Boers Distrust Salisbury as Well as Chamberlain.

Orange Free State Strongly Against England and Sides With Transvaal.

London, Sept. 29 .- The war cloud overshadows everything, and everywhere there is a feeling of intense expectancy. The general feeling is that war can scarcely be averted now. The All we have of freedom-all we use or Boers seem more determined than ever, and there is no sign that Chamberlain will back down.

The action of the Orange Free State has hastened the crisis. The strong declaration for Kruger will strengthen his determination, and the task of England is rendered much more difficult.

In many quarters a feeling is beginning to grow that war with the Trans vaal will be a more serious matter than was first expected. There are signs that the Boers may be able to gel all Suffer not the old king under any name. South Africa in rebellion against th British.

Commandering is proceeding in the Wakkerstroom district and probably throughout the Transvaal. Two thousand burghers are assembled at Wakkerstroom, which is eight miles from the Natal border and 11 from Laing's Nek. Twelve hundred have been ordered to Sandspait, 13 miles west of the Natal of Frank Leiden or Leidenheimer, of the border, where they will meet Orange Free State artillery, which has been lying low in this neighborhood for a fortnight.

The Daily Chronicle says: We understand on the best authority that the delay attending the Boer reply is due that if they make concessions he will only increase his demands. Therefore, they have been trying to approach Lord Salisbury directly. They trust the premier as much as they distrust the colonial secretary and, if Lord Salisbury would give a pledge that the golden this last desperate effort has broken down, since Lord Salisbury cannot go behind Mr. Chamberlain without creating a cabinet crisis. It is deplorable nevertheless, that state etiquette should be strong enough to obstruct the path to peace. We hope it is not true that Mr. Chamberlain intends to demand disarmament, a heavy indemnity and the withdrawal of Dr. Leyds, which could only result in war.

The paper suggests that the Orange Free State should appeal for arbitration The Hague.

The Daily News, which appeals to the government to await President Kruger's reply before sending a second dispatch, heavily increased. says: If, as has been asserted on behalf of the Transvaal, all trouble would have been avoided had Mr. Chamberlain's dispatch last Friday said "convention" instead of "conventions," we do not believe a British cabinet would decline to clear to speak, if it is indeed only a matter of

The Press association issues the following statement: We learn that the centers of interest in the Transvaal crisis are in reality at Lisbon and Berlin and this consideration, it is thought in some quarters, may cause a further ad journment of the cabinet. The future administration and financial control of the Portuguese possessions in South Africa are held to be an integral factor in the present difficulty. The friends of President Kruger urge that it would b manifestly unfair to insist upon a partial reduction of the forts at Pretoria and Johannesburg so long as Lorenzo Marques remains under the Portugueso government, and it is probable that the negotiations between London, Berlin and Lisbon may not be concluded until after the cabinet council. The decision of the volksraad of the Orange Free State to join with the Transvaal in the event of hostilities will naturally stiffen the Boers' independent attitude. The raad's resolution has made the brotherhood-of-arms between the Transvaal and the Orange Free State, of which hitherto there was only a strong probability, an absolute certainty, and 'he British will have to face he situation. The volksraad's resoution was as follows: "The Raad having read paragraph of the president's speech and the official documents and correspondence submitted therewith; having regard for the strained state of affairs throughout the whole of South Africa, which has arisen in consequence of the difference between the imperial government and the gov ernment of the Transvaal which threatens to lead to hostilities, the calamitous consequence of which to the white inhabitants will be immeasurable: "Being connected with the Transvaal by the closest ties of blood and confederacy, and standing in the most friendly relationship with the imperial government, and fearing that should war break out a hatred between the European races will be born which will arrest and retard the peaceful development of all the states and colonies of Africa and develop a distrust of the fu-

"Feeling that the solemn duty rests upon it of doing everything possible to avoid the shedding of blood;

"Considering that the Transvaal government, during its negotiations with the imperial government, which have extended over several months, has made every endeavor to arrive at a peaceful solution of the differences raised by the gas, it lacks the disagreeable and dangerous qualities of these drugs. It is certainly a boor to suffering humanity to be relieved of the nausea too often following the administering of sedatives of the old school.—Boston Transaction of the Transaction and taken up by the imperial government as its own cause, which endeavors have, unfortunately, had only this result, that British nately, had only this result, that British troops were concentrated on the border of the Transvaal and are still being

Shaw's Scathing Remarks.

Topeka, Kan., Sept. 29.—General Shaw in prefacing his address to the veterans at the state reunion of the G. A. R. spoke of the now famous controversy with the Dewey parade managers. He characterized those having the big parade in charge as "narrow-minded blunderers, clothed with a little brief authority." Then he reviewed the whole trouble. "Had a soldier of deeds." he declared, "been in the place of General Roe, the Grand Army would have marched in glory and joy at the head of the line, following the great admiral. Milkman in Trouble.

George Kelley, driver of the milk wagon for the National Sailors' Home, was arrested Friday afternoon upon a warrant charging him with the embezzlement of $150. The story leading up to Kelley's arrest is an interesting one. It seems that among the men working about the farm recently was one named Delaney. ON THE REBOUND.

Of course we'd met the winter through At balls and teas, but then, you know, If thought the world of Ned Carew, Who'd been devoted, and I knew Tom was in love with Kittie Snow.

So Tuesday night at Kittie's ball, When they announced she was engaged To Ned Carew, I thought I'd fall Or faint. I really can't recall When I've been so stunned or enraged!

She's such a scheming girl, and then Oh, lots of times, I've heard Ned say He thought she looked so silly when She tried to flirt! Oh, dear, some men Can't keep the same mind through the day!

Well Wednesday came, and, as 'twas Lent And I was blue about it all.

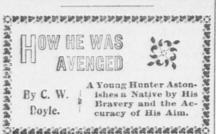

I thought the day would be best spent In some good work, and so I went To take flowers to the hospital.

And, passing by, who should I see, As at their door, with all my flowers I stood, but Tom! He said that he Thought time best spent in charity.

I said those were my happiest hours.

Well, that began it. Then we found We think respect's the proper ground For love, and ours is strong and sound.

Mine's twice as big as Kittie's ring! -Beatrice Hanscom in Ladies' Home Journal.

The travelers from beyond Moradaby the thanadar and were invited by him to join the circle of the great round his fire on the evening of their sheet lightning flickered fitfully over rai with its faint promise of a coming change.

The conversation round the fire flagged, and the hookah passed languidly from hand to hand. Those present would have retired to sleep had sleep been possible, but as that was a consummation not easily attained at this season of the year they preferred their present miseries to those that come in the wakeful night watches when the Terai is athirst. Ram Deen's arrival was a nightly boon to those who were wont to assemble round the thanadar's fire. There was always the possibility of his having news, and, besides, men seemed to acquire fresh vitality from contact with his vigorous personality. The strangers were especially grateful for his arrival, and when he had taken his usual place beside the fire the hookah was at once passed to him.

"Any tidings coach wan ji?" inquired the thanadar.

"None, sahib, save that the great frog in the well at Lal Kooah-who is as old as the well and wiser than most the bunnia said it was a sure sign of main within two days, as the frog's

"Thou shouldst not complain, Goor Dutt," said Ram Deen, with a smile. "Their very leanness is thy passport through the jungle. Fatter kine had been devoured and their driver with them long ere this."

Hint of danger that might be encountered in the jungle having thus been given, one of the strangers was moved to ask concerning the lame tiger of Huldwani, part of whose biography they had heard from Ram Deen at Lal Kooah on the previous

"Coach wan ji, wast thou not afraid to carry the mail after the slaying of thy hostler, Nandha?"

"Those who carry the queen's mail may not stop for fear. Nevertheless fear rode with me a day and a night after the death of Nandha."

"It is a great telling," said the little carrier, nodding at the wayfarers, while Ram Deen "drank tobacco.

When Ram Deen had passed the hookah to his neighbor, he went on: "Brothers, on the day that Nandha was carried off by the tiger I sent word to the postmaster of Naini Tal concerning the killing, and the outgoing mail brought me word that the sircar (government) would send me help. Ye know that a tiger kills not two days in succession. So I had no fear when I traversed the road to and from Lal Kooah till the second day after the slaying of Nandha. Ere I started on that morning the munshi tolu me to drive to the dak bungalow for a sahib who had been sent to slay the slayer of men. Brothers, when I went to the dak bungalow there came forth to me a man child-a Faringiwhose chin was as smooth as the palm of my hand.

"I would have laughed, but that I thought of the tiger that I knew would be waiting for us, and, taking pity on him, I said: "The jungle hereabouts is full of wild fowl, sahib, and 'twere pity, when shikar is so plentiful, you should waste this morning looking for a budmash tiger who will not come forth for two days as yet.' He answered me never a word, but went into the dak bungalow for something he had forgotten, and while he was gone his butler spake to me, saying: 'Coach wan, make no mistake; thy life depends upon thy doing the sahib's bidding. He is a very Rustum, and he knoweth not fear, for all he is so young.' 'He is a man after my own | ters? heart, then, sirdar; but, mashallah, 1 would be had a beard?' I replied.

ing the bottle into the air, he shattered it with a bullet ere it reached the ground. Startled by the report, a jackal fled from the rear of the cook house toward the jungle, and the sahib stopped its flight with another bullet. Then, enishing his gun, he took his seat beside me on the mail cart, say ing, 'Blow on thy bugle, coach wan, and announce our coming to Shere Bahadoor, his majesty the tiger.' "It was a brave jawan (youth), brothers, but he was very young, and belike he had a mother, so I swore in my beard to save him whatever might befall. As we proceeded he questioned me concerning the killing of Nandha, speaking lightly as one who goeth to shoot black partridge.

"'He is lame, coach wan, and will doubtless be waiting for us by the Bore bridge,' said the sahib. 'As soon and then return when your horses will once. let you.

"For answer, my brothers, the sahib flushed red and, calling me a coward, he drove his elbow into my stomach with such force that the reins fell from my hands. Taking them up, the while I fought for my breath, he turned the horses round, saying: 'A jackal may bad having reached Kaladoongie were | not hunt a tiger! Their plot was cleverly planned and tion can be mobilized in two or three seemingly sure of success, for the president showed no suspicions, continuing his customary mode of life, walking and driving throughout the city as usual without guards, although at that time he was fully posted in every detail of their scheme, and when their plans were fully matured and their time for action at hand he had them all arrested and thrown into the dungeons of the old fortifications.

The penalty for crimes of this sort is always death. So soon after their arrest they were drawn up in line on the old parade grounds within the walls of the old fort and told to prepare for death, after which the firing squad lined up in front of them and were ordered to fire. As they did so one man fell.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Oct. 1-Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle. Topic.—Our own church. What can we do for her?—Ps. cxxii, 1-9. (A meeting to discuss denominational work, led by the pastor.)

This pealm is a pilgrim song. It was undoubtedly composed with reference to one of the great yearly festivals, when the caravans of pilgrims went up to the holy city. The psalmist rejoices in the call of his friends and neighbors Long Siege - Tacties of the Boers to come and go up to the house of the Lord. The procession moves forward. Jerusalem is reached. "Our feet are standing within thy gates, O Jerusalem!" He describes the city of Jerusalem and bursts into prayer for her peace to fight. He carries his rifle on his and prosperity. This psalm and its sur-

1. We should be devoted to our own church What devotion for Jerusalem and the temple possessed the heart of loved Jerusalem; he looked upon the Prospect of an occasion to use his holy city; he admired her stateliness and beauty; he rejoiced in the scenes of her early grandeur, and his heart swelled with pride as he recalled the fact that Jerusalem had been the gathhere they had given testimony unto the Lord and rendered thanks unto his name. Every Endeavorer should be thoroughly devoted to his own church. He should know her past history and rejoice in it. He should be familiar with her present greatness and should joy in that also. A spirit of loyal, true hearted devotion to the church will put us in the proper frame of mind to do all we can for her best interests and advance-

2. We should place a high estimate upon the services of our own church. The poet was glad when the call came to go up to the house of the Lord. He was ready and anxious to go. He prized highly the privileges of God's house and considered it a pleasure and not an irksome task to attend them. Would that this spirit prevailed more in the hearts of the church people of today! Not only would the house of God be more often frequented, but from its inspiring services influences would go forth that would quicken into new life and vigor all forms of church work. It is just as possible for us to find joy in God's house as it was for the psalmist. more. Let us learn to properly prize and appreciate the services of God's house. 3. We should pray for our own church. "Pray for the peace of Jerusalem. They shall prosper that love thee Peace be within thy walls and prosperity within thy palaces." The peace and prosperity of our church should have constant place in our prayers, and we should also pray for the whole church of Christ, the church universal.

Taken While Young by a Tribe Hunters Living In Africa.

With all the opening up of Africa which is now going on, when railways and telegraphs are rapidly pushed forward, mines worked, land tilled and towns are rapidly opening into being in so many directions, it is little to be wondered at that wild animals, espe tially the more timid sort, such as the giraffe, are driven farther and farther into the interior and are becoming rarer and more difficult to find every day.

The Somalis, a tribe of hunters living in the eastern part of southern Africa capture the young giraffe by means of

The Dream of the Toy. The Sandman lost a dream one night-

A dream meant for a boy.

It floated round awhile, and then It settled on a Toy.

The Toy dreamed that it stood in class With quite a row of boys. The teacher rapped upon his desk
And cried: "Less noise! Less noise!"

Then, looking at the Toy, he scowled And said, "Next boy—foretell."
"Oh, please, sir," cried the little Toy,
"I don't know how to spell.

"Indeed I don't know how it is! I'm sure I am a toy, Although I seem to be in class And dressed up like a boy."

"What's that? What's that?" the teacher In awful tones he spoke.

He came with strides across the floor, And then the Toy awoke. There lay the nursery very still,

The shelf above its head; The fire burned dimly on the hearth; The children were in bed. There lay the dolls and Noah's Ark.

"Oh, dear me," said the Toy,
"I just had such a dreadful dream!
I dreamed I was a boy."
